Community Rehabilitation in Neurology Michael P. Barnes, Harriet Radermacher, 2003-09-04 Rehabilitation should not stop when the disabled person is discharged from hospital and many neurological patients require ongoing rehabilitation in order to maximize their functional abilities minimize complications and promote full participation at home and in the community This book analyses community rehabilitation needs from many different perspectives including the views of disabled people rehabilitation clinicians and service providers Many examples of community rehabilitation schemes are presented with evidence for their effectiveness and case studies are used to highlight the main issues The authors take an international view and there are chapters dealing with the disabled child in the community and with neuropsychological rehabilitation This important book examines the growing trend towards community rehabilitation in neurology and is directed towards all clinicians involved with neurorehabilitation Community Rehabilitation Services for People with Disabilities

Orv C. Karan, Stephen Greenspan, 2014-05-16 Community Rehabilitation Services for People with Disabilities delves into the changes happening in the disability services in the United States The book focuses on how these changes are affecting the way professionals and agencies relate to people with disabilities and their families The text aims to provide an introductory view of the community revolution in disability services The book is divided into three parts Part 1 breaks down the underlying principles of the community revolution in disability services Part 2 discusses the problems and issues in the implementation of these principles Part 3 accounts for the changes in practices and value orientations of professionals involved in providing services for people with disabilities The book will provide a rich source of insight for healthcare professionals social workers nurses caregivers teachers counselors psychiatrists therapists and community planners

Rehabilitation in health financing World Health Organization, 2024-01-16 Health financing is a core pillar of health systems and encompasses the three functions of how revenues for health are collected pooled and paid out to providers of health care services It can be leveraged to pursue key universal health coverage goals of enhancing access ensuring quality and financial protection against catastrophic or impoverishing out of pocket expenditure But knowledge on how health financing practices can be harnessed to promote the delivery of rehabilitation services is limited This document is the first WHO resource on health financing for rehabilitation It considers current practices for financing rehabilitation services frames major challenges and opportunities and offers guidance to decision makers engaged in strengthening rehabilitation within health systems

Neurological Rehabilitation Michael P. Barnes, David C. Good, 2013-01-10 Neurological Rehabilitation is the latest volume in the definitive Handbook of Clinical Neurology series It is the first time that this increasingly important subject has been included in the series and this reflects the growing interest and quality of scientific data on topics around neural recovery and the practical applications of new research The volume will appeal to clinicians from both neurological and rehabilitation backgrounds and contains topics of interest to all members of the multidisciplinary clinical team as well as the neuroscience community The volume is divided into five key sections The first is a summary of current research on neural repair recovery and plasticity The authors have kept the topics readable for a non scientific audience and focused on the aspects of basic neuroscience that should be most relevant to clinical practice The next section covers the basic principles of neurorehabilitation including excellent chapters on learning and skill acquisition outcome measurement and functional neuroimaging The key clinical section comes next and includes updates and reviews on the management of the main neurological disabling physical problems such as spasticity pain sexual functioning and dysphagia Cognitive emotional and behavioural problems are just as important and are covered in the next section with excellent chapters for example on memory and management of executive dysfunction The final part draws the sections on symptom management together by discussing the individual diseases that are most commonly seen in neurorehabilitation and providing an overview of the management of the disability associated with those disorders The volume is a definitive review of current neurorehabilitation practice and will be valuable to a wide range of clinicians and scientists working in this rapidly developing field A volume in the Handbook of Clinical Neurology series which has an unparalleled reputation as the world s most comprehensive source of information in neurology International list of contributors including the leading workers in the field Describes the advances which have occurred in clinical neurology and the neurosciences their impact on the understanding of neurological disorders and on patient care

Disability and Rehabilitation in Rural Jamaica

Ronnie Linda Leavitt, 1992 Although negative conditions exist it appears that disabled children are not particularly stigmatized at the household level Nevertheless societal stigmatization and apathy do exist As a result disabled children are not being prepared to fully integrate into Jamaican society 2 There is a range of variation of beliefs and behaviors with regard to disability and rehabilitation The concept of intracultural diversity is supported 3 This population has adapted their cultural belief systems and actual behaviors to match their material realities That is it would appear that people who have a disability and their caretakers have demonstrated contextual accommodation 4 Community based rehabilitation programs based on the primary health care and community participation principles enumerated by the WHO are theoretically sound and practically attainable in Jamaica

Rezaul, 2018-12-07 The importance of scientific investigation and research is becoming more pronounced in today's society with many organizations relying on this research to make informed decisions. As such, research methodology courses have been integrated into undergraduate and master's programs at most academic institutions where students are being challenged to conduct and write research. Social Research Methodology and New Techniques in Analysis, Interpretation and Writing is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the main concepts of research writing, including the guidelines of research methodology and proposal designing. While highlighting topics such as mixed method research, research objectives, and project proposals, this publication provides examples of eight PhD proposals and the frameworks used in organizing qualitative, quantitative, and mixed method research. This book is ideally designed for graduate level students, academicians, researchers, educators, scholars, education administrators, and policymakers seeking current research on the key steps and techniques used in organizing social research proposals.

Encyclopedia of Disability Gary L. Albrecht, 2006. Presents current knowledge of and experience with disability across a wide variety of places, conditions, and cultures to both the general reader and the specialist.

Renewing Design with Communities Anisha Shekhar Mukherji, Snehan Shu Mukherjee, 2023-04-18. This book looks at alternative ways of analyzing traditional and contemporary architectural design and building practices in South Asia, with a special focus on India. It showcases how collaborative projects between architects and local communities, and drawing from local building traditions, can lead to sustainable and equitable practices in architecture. The volume includes an analysis of projects in rural, tribal, and urban areas of India and Nepal, and first-hand accounts of architects, teachers, and professionals engaged in the theory and practice of design and architecture. It examines the differences between the individualistic and the collective approach and explores the meaning of architecture as a process and as a product, and as a decentralized, ecologically, and locally sensitive way of designing. While comparing traditional and modern methods of building, it also examines the impact of each method on the community, the economy, and the surrounding environment. This book will be of interest to researchers and students of architecture, urban studies, urban planning, urban ecology, urban geography, and sustainable development. It will also be useful for architects, planners, urban designers, and professionals associated with these disciplines.

The Changing Role of the Hospital in European Health Systems Martin McKee, Sherry Merkur, Nigel Edwards, Ellen Nolte, 2020-08-13. Hospitals today face a huge number of challenges, including new patterns of disease, rapidly evolving medical technologies, ageing populations, and continuing budget constraints. This book is written by clinicians for clinicians and hospital managers, and those who design and operate hospitals. It sets out why hospitals need to change as the patients they treat, and the technology to treat them, changes. In a series of chapters by leading authorities in their field, it challenges existing models, reviews best practice from many countries, and presents clear policy recommendations for policymakers and hospital administrators. It covers the main patient groups and conditions, as well as those departments that make modern, effective care possible in imaging and laboratory medicine. Each chapter looks at patient pathways, aspects of workforce required levels of specialisation and technology and the opportunities and challenges for optimising the delivery of services in the hospital of the future This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core
