Reinventing Romantic Poetry Diana Greene, 2004-01-15 Reinventing Romantic Poetry offers a new look at the Russian literary scene in the nineteenth century While celebrated poets such as Aleksandr Pushkin worked within a male centered Romantic aesthetic the poet as a bard or sexual conqueror nature as a mother or mistress the poet's muse as an idealized woman Russian women attempting to write Romantic poetry found they had to reinvent poetic conventions of the day to express themselves as women and as poets Comparing the poetry of fourteen men and fourteen women from this period Diana Greene revives and redefines the women's writings and offers a thoughtful examination of the sexual politics of reception and literary reputation The fourteen women considered wrote poetry in every genre from visions to verse tales from love lyrics to metaphysical poetry as well as prose works and plays Greene delves into the reasons why their writing was dismissed focusing in particular on the work of Evdokiia Rostopchina Nadezhda Khvoshchinskaia and Karolina Pavlova Greene also considers class as a factor in literary reputation comparing canonical male poets with the work of other men whose work like the women's was deemed inferior at the time The book also features an appendix of significant poems by Russian women discussed in the text Some found in archival notebooks are published here for the first time and others are reprinted for the first time since the mid nineteenth century

The Woman's Hand Paul Gordon Schalow, Janet A. Walker, 1996 This volume has a dual purpose It aims to define the state of Japanese literary studies in the field of women's writing and to present cross cultural interpretations of Japanese material of relevance to contemporary work in gender studies and comparative literature Reinventing Womanhood Carolyn G. Heilbrun, 1979 Carolyn Heilbrun's important investigation into issues of identity for twentieth century American women the problem with past role models ways to construct new ones Redefining the Political Novel Sharon M. Harris, 1995 While critical studies of the American political novel date from the 1920s such considerations of the genre have failed whether wittingly or unwittingly to recognize works by women The exclusion is usually based on a distinction between social novels and political novels and the result is an understanding of the political as a largely male province In this thought provoking collection of essays the contributors seek not simply to add works by women to the canon of political novels but rather to demand a conceptual revolution one that questions the very precepts on which the canon is based This redefinition of the political novel takes many factors into account including gender race and class and their relation to our most basic conceptions of literary and aesthetic value

Reinventing Richard Nixon Daniel E. Frick, 2008 Examining Nixon's autobiographies and political memorabilia Frick offers far reaching perceptions not only of the man but of Nixon's version of himself contrasted with those who would interpret him differently He cites reinventions of Nixon from the late 1980s particularly the museum at the Richard Nixon Library and Birthplace to demonstrate the resilience of certain national mythic narratives in the face of liberal critiques And he recounts how celebrants at Nixon's state funeral at which Bob Dole's eulogy depicted a God fearing American hero attempted to bury the sources of our divisions over him rendering in some minds the judgment of redeemed statesman to erase his status as disgraced president With dozens of illustrations Nixon posing with Elvis the National Archives most requested photo Nixonian cultural artifacts classic editorial cartoons no other book collects in one place such varied images of Nixon from so many diverse media These reinforce Frick's probing analysis to help us understand why we disagree about Nixon and why it matters how we resolve our disagreements
