Women Without Men Donald J. Greiner, 1993 Donald J Greiner s provocative new study evaluates the fiction of ten contemporary female novelists to ask questions about gender relations in American fiction Looking closely at the reaction of female writers to what Greiner describes as a central paradigm of American literature men bonding in the wilderness in an attempt to escape women and the social restrictions they represent Greiner contends that female novelists have not only adopted the venerable model but also adapted it so that women venture into the wilderness while excluding men from the quest Greiner first shows how such contemporary white male novelists as Frederick Busch John Irving and Larry Woiwode modify the literary model established by Cooper Melville and Twain to include women in the bonding process He then argues that recent female novelists are not so eager to allow males into the wilderness or to bond with them Rather than facilitate a closing of the gender gap many contemporary female writers insist on separating the sexes Greiner frames his analysis with discussions of prominent feminist literary theorists and feminist psychologists including Carolyn Heilbrun Rachel Brownstein Nancy Chodorow Janice Raymond and Judith Kegan Gardiner From close readings of recent novels by Gloria Naylor Marianne Wiggins Joan Didion Diane Johnson Marilynne Robinson Mona Simpson Hilma Wolitzer Meg Wolitzer Joan Chase and Lisa Alther Greiner finds three significant differences in the way contemporary female novelists employ the quest plot the patriarchal text is not repudiated but revised to accommodate female characters who readily accept the traditional masculine call to the quest once outside the bounds of society female bonds do not always hold males are excluded from the bonding process To contrast the gender exclusivity favored by contemporary female writers Greiner ends his study with a discussion of bonding as portrayed by contemporary male novelist Douglas Ungar

When Mothers Work, Who Pays? Martha Sugar, 1994-06-22 This book is a comprehensive look at the results of a study done under the auspices of Kent State University that explored the attitudes beliefs and life orientation of 253 women between the ages of 25 and 45 Depending upon the amount of employment that the subjects mothers had outside the home while the subjects were growing up the adult subjects responded to questions of adjustment to life overall sense of well being emotional stability and sense of self fulfillment The overwhelming response was that women whose mothers had worked while they were growing up were more likely to suffer from depression to feel less effective as parents and to report less satisfaction with their parenting skills careers and life in general Contrary to perceived notions of family adjustment to working mothers day care and women s liberation this study forces us to respond to the warning signals issued by a generation of the daughters of working mothers
