Lighting from the Silent Era to Film Noir Patrick Keating,2009-12-15 Lighting performs essential functions in Hollywood films enhancing the glamour clarifying the action and intensifying the mood Examining every facet of this understated art form from the glowing backlights of the silent period to the shaded alleys of film noir Patrick Keating affirms the role of Hollywood lighting as a distinct compositional force Closely analyzing Girl Shy 1924 Anna Karenina 1935 Only Angels Have Wings 1939 and T Men 1947 along with other brilliant classics Keating describes the unique problems posed by these films and the innovative ways cinematographers handled the challenge Once dismissed as crank turning laborers these early cinematographers became skillful professional artists by carefully balancing the competing demands of story studio and star Enhanced by more than one hundred illustrations this volume counters the notion that style took a backseat to storytelling in Hollywood film proving that the lighting practices of the studio era were anything but neutral uniform and invisible Cinematographers were masters of multifunctionality and negotiation honing their craft to achieve not only realistic fantasy but also pictorial artistry An Aerospace Bibliography Raymond Estep,1962 East European Accessions Index ,1960

Challenging the common assumption that the early 1960s were a drab time for American film this book makes the bold case that 1962 was a peak year for the movies giving audiences a prime mix of adult artistic and uncompromising work from Hollywood veterans hot young directors and international auteurs Hollywood TV Christopher Anderson,2013-10-11 The 1950s was one of the most turbulent periods in the history of motion pictures and television During the decade as Hollywood's most powerful studios and independent producers shifted into TV production TV replaced film as America's principal postwar culture industry This pioneering study offers the first thorough exploration of the movie industry's shaping role in the development of television and its narrative forms Drawing on the archives of Warner Bros and David O Selznick Productions and on interviews with participants in both industries Christopher Anderson demonstrates how the episodic telefilm series a clear descendant of the feature film became and has remained the dominant narrative form in prime time TV This research suggests that the postwar motion picture industry was less an empire on the verge of ruin as common wisdom has it than one struggling under unsettling conditions to redefine its frontiers Beyond the obvious contribution to film and television studies these findings add an important chapter to the study of American popular culture of the postwar period
