China in Transition K. S. Sim, 2003 China is a country in the midst of a transition which is inscrutable to almost all observers The leadership has changed from the old guard to the new guard with hardly a slip Capitalism is roaring but somehow at the same time doesn't exist The economy is booming in virtually all areas The military is growing more powerful each year many industries are at world level and China is taking more and more steps to join the international community while being sure as she doesn't snuggle up too closely Still with a population of 1.3 billion and staggering poverty in the rural areas making up the vast part of the country the face of China remains centuries old Where she goes nobody knows This series examines the issues policies and progress of China's transition

Trade and Technology Networks in the Chinese Textile Industry Carles Brasó Broggi, 2016-04-29 The aim of this book is to track the historical origins of China's economic reforms From the 1920s and 1930s strong ties were built between Chinese textile industrialists and foreign machinery importers in Shanghai and the Yangzi Delta Despite the fragmentation of China the contribution of these networks to the modernization of the country was important and longstanding Facing the challenge of growing in a fragmented country Chinese textile firms such as Dafeng Dacheng and Lixin focused on urban markets and also on importing technology for upgrading their production When the war against Japan blocked trade routes inside China these networks were concentrated in Shanghai where they envisaged an export oriented development strategy for China that was based on importing machinery and exporting manufactured products However this strategy was only implemented precariously in Shanghai while the city stood as a neutral space in the first years of the Japanese occupation but was only consolidated in Hong Kong in the late 1940s where textile industrialist and most of the foreign importers migrated These networks were thus reestablished in Hong Kong where they contributed to the city's industrialization in the Cold War period Meanwhile the Chinese industrialists that stayed in Shanghai and the Yangzi Delta had to adapt to the Maoist regime and were progressively incorporated into the state owned companies or the local government agencies such as the United Front or the Textile bureaus However from the early 1970s the links between Hong Kong and Shanghai were reactivated and these networks played again a key role in the modernization of China especially regarding the imports of technology and exports of manufactured goods The book ends with the first joint ventures between Hong Kong businessmen and Chinese local administrations that took place in the beginnings of China's economic reforms in 1979

An Urban History of China Toby Lincoln, 2021-05-20 In this accessible new study Toby Lincoln offers the first history of Chinese cities from their origins to the present Despite being an agricultural society for thousands of years China had an imperial urban civilization Over the last century this urban civilization has been transformed into the world's largest modern urban society Throughout their long history Chinese cities have been shaped by interactions with those around the world and the story of urban China is a crucial part of the history of how the world has become an urban society Exploring the global connections of Chinese cities the urban system urban governance and daily life alongside introductions to major historical debates and extracts from primary sources this is essential reading for all those interested in China and in urban history

China's Urban Space Terry McGee, George C.S. Lin, Mark Wang, Andrew Marton, Jiaping Wu, 2007-10-18 China's urban growth is unparalleled in the history of global urbanization and will undoubtedly create huge challenges to China as it modernizes its society Adopting an interdisciplinary approach this book presents an overview of the radical transformation of China's urban space since the 1970s arguing that to study the Chinese urbanization process one must recognize the distinctive political economy of China After a long period as a planned socialist economy China's rapid entry into the global economy has raised suggestions that modernization in China will inevitably result in urban patterns and features like those of cities in developed market economies This book argues that this is unlikely in the short term because processes of urban transition in China must be interpreted through the lens of a unique and unprecedented juxtaposition of socialism and the market economy which is leading to distinctive patterns of Chinese urbanization Richly illustrated with maps diagrams and in depth case studies this book will be an invaluable resource to students and scholars of urban economics and policy geography and the development of China

The Connectivity Cooperation Between China and Europe Liu Zuokui, Branislav Đorđević, 2022-07-28 This book is the first systematic China based study on connectivity cooperation between China and Europe It is packed with discussion of scholars not just from China but also from Central and Eastern Europe on the origin and paradigm of China European connectivity from a range of different perspectives As a result of intensive coordination efforts the study co edited by the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences and the Institute of International Politics and Economics in Serbia aims at providing analyses of greater links between China and European countries heading into the future Furthermore this Cooperation is used as a special research case to showcase cooperation between China and Europe along with its achievements and challenges This collection of essays is the fruit of extensive transnational efforts and will be a valuable resource for all those working in the areas of International Relations and Political Science with a focus on China and Europe

The China Journal, 1927 China Journal of Science and Arts, 1928 Urban and Regional Planning and Development Rajiv R. Thakur, Ashok K. Dutt, Sudhir K. Thakur, George M. Pomeroy, 2020-02-10 This book discusses urban planning and regional development practices in the twentieth century and ways in which they are currently being transformed. It addresses questions such as: What are the factors affecting planning dynamics at local, regional, national, and global scales? With the push to adopt a market paradigm in land development and infrastructure, the relationship between resource management, sustainable development, and the role of governance has been transformed. Centralized planning is giving way to privatization, not only in the traditional regions but also in newly emerging regions of Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Further attempts are being made to bring planning-related decision making closer to the people who are most affected by it. Presenting a collection of studies from scholars around the world and highlighting recent advances in the field, the book is a valuable reference guide for those engaged in urban transformations, whether as graduate students, researchers, practitioners, or policymakers.
