My Sorrows, My Joys Yong Ku Ahn, 2008-03-06 Born of wealthy parents but shunned by his father Yong Ku Ahn suffered through a stormy and traumatic childhood and in his loneliness taught himself to play the violin Born in 1928 in Wonsan in what is today North Korea Ahn's early childhood included parental rejection and a debilitating bout of polio that cut him off from his family and their social milieu It was music and the violin in particular that saved him Until Ahn was accepted into Kyungsung Music School which later became the School of Music at Seoul National University he was virtually self taught Those who knew him through his college years remember him as an orphan After World War II Ahn began his professional education Shortly thereafter he was swept up in the Korean War and found himself a refugee in Pusan His adventures led him from one challenge and crisis to another but Yong Ku kept picking himself up and continued running He studied in Germany Austria and London with some of the greatest violin teachers of the 20th century fighting incredible obstacles all the time but he never gave up In later years after teaching in the U S Yong Ku who joined the faculty at the esteemed Peabody Conservatory of Music not only became known internationally as a great teacher but went back to Korea to play an active role in the Korean reunification effort making several trips to North Korea His fascinating and inspiring story of triumph over tragedy set against a backdrop of Korea's liberation from Japanese rule and the Korean War is told with great feeling and humility and will inspire young people especially young musicians of all nationalities

BOOK REVIEW Yong Ku Ahn famed violinist and teacher of music tells of both the sad moments and happy joys of his life in heart rendering terms After years of rejection by his parents he reaches a peak experience one day which finally leads him to pick up his dusty old violin and begin to play again in earnest He describes marvelously one of those snowy days in Wonsan Korea when he noticed an old gramophone at home and out of curiosity opened the lid to the box There was a record placed in it I turned the crank on the side of the box and carefully put the needle arm on the record Four notes sounded Ta ta ta taaah Then once again Ta ta ta taaah The majestic and passionate notes of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony pierced his heart like a sharp spear like fate knocking on the door He writes The four notes repeated themselves like the persistent unhappiness of my childhood When the symphony ended uncontrollable tears flooded down my face Over ten years of loneliness injustice disappointment and sorrow flowed from me as if a dam had burst open It was a purely miraculous moment never to be recreated in my life the moment when I realized that there existed a world of breathlessly beautiful sound outside of my cold and miserable existence of constant alienation Never has the power of serious Western music been better described How many of us have encountered such an experience on first discovering the beauty of classical music Ahn went on to become a great violinist a pioneer in the introduction of music playing and appreciation in Korea He describes his travels his love of chamber music his passionate involvement in the movement to unify Korea north with south At present the names of his pupils are on marquees of concert halls all over the world Now eighty three years old he ruminates on the passing away of time philosophically accepting the loss of members of his veteran music friends He ends his memoirs with a heart warming yet sad commentary on the human predicament My Sorrows My joys is a delightful book to read by anyone who has felt the cleansing power of great music or the passion of dedication to a great enterprise swelling in his or her heart Reviewed by Dr Henry J

Ponderings on Shattered Innocence Adam Rami Nazzal,2013-09-25 The book came from thoughts and inspirations that occurred to me when I returned to Canada after separating from my wife and three beloved children I believe the poems show a progression from utter sadness and despair to acceptance patience and hope Underpinning all the poetry is an unwavering faith in the Almighty Creator whose designs and miracles cannot always be fully understood I tried to write too about the beauty of nature and humanity and ultimately about forgiveness It is sincerely hoped the reader will derive some inspiration or hope through their own paths Ladies' Home Journal and Practical Housekeeper ,1885 Harper's
