Manual Of Comparative Romance Linguistic:

A Manual of Comparative Romance Linguistics Henry Mendeloff, 1969      Manual of Classification and Typology of the Romance Languages Matthias Heinz, Lorenzo Filipponio, Marc-Olivier Hinz, 2021-09-15 This volume provides a comprehensive overview of state of the art research on classification models and the typology of the Romance languages. It combines language area surveys with a selection of relevant structural issues conveying theoretical foundations and research methods as well as topics in language contact and the variational typology of Romance languages. The typological accounts consider a wide range of theoretical frameworks and approaches relating key features of the Romance language family and its subgroups to the major tendencies found across the world's languages. The authors of the 27 chapters are specialists in their respective fields offering substantive and balanced accounts of the wider research context. The combination of perspectives from comparative Romance linguistics and typological linguistics within the multidisciplinary coverage of issues in classification structural typology language contact and variation makes this Manual of Romance Linguistics an essential guide to current research trends in those fields. It is written for both scholars and students of Romance linguistics and everyone interested in comparative and typological linguistics.

Manual of Standardization in the Romance Languages Franz Lebsanft, Felix Tacke, 2020-01-20 Language standardization is an ongoing process based on the notions of linguistic correctness and models. This manual contains thirty six chapters that deal with the theories of linguistic norms and give a comprehensive up to date description and analysis of the standardization processes in the Romance languages. The first section presents the essential approaches to the concept of linguistic norm ranging from antiquity to the present and includes individual chapters on the notion of linguistic norms and correctness in classical grammar and rhetoric in the Prague School in the linguistic theory of Eugenio Coseriu in sociolinguistics as well as in pragmatics cognitive and discourse linguistics. The second section focuses on the application of these notions with respect to the Romance languages. It examines in detail the normative grammar and the normative dictionary as the reference tools for language codification and modernization of those languages that have a long and well established written tradition i.e. Romanian Italian French Catalan Spanish and Portuguese. Furthermore the volume offers a discussion of the key issues regarding the standardization of the minor Romance languages as well as Creoles.

Manual of Romance Morphosyntax and Syntax Andreas Dufter, Elisabeth Stark, 2017-09-25 This volume offers theoretically informed surveys of topics that have figured prominently in morphosyntactic and syntactic research into Romance languages and dialects. We define syntax as being the linguistic component that assembles linguistic units such as roots or functional morphemes into grammatical sentences and morphosyntax as being an umbrella term for all morphological relations between these linguistic units which either trigger morphological marking e.g. explicit case morphemes or are related to ordering issues e.g. subjects precede finite verbs whenever there is number agreement between them. All 24 chapters adopt a comparative perspective on these two fields of research highlighting cross linguistic grammatical similarities and differences within the Romance language family In addition many chapters address issues related to variation observable within individual Romance languages and grammatical change from Latin to Romance

Bomhard, 1984-01-01 This book represents the culmination of the author's work to date it incorporates and updates previous articles and adds much new material This book is not nor was it ever intended to be a comparative grammar of either the Indo European or the Afroasiatic language families It is rather a comparison of Proto Indo European with Proto Afroasiatic While this is not the first attempt to demonstrate that Proto Indo European and Proto Afroasiatic are genetically related it is the first to use the radical revision of the Proto Indo European consonantal system proposed by Thomas V Gamkrelidze Paul J Hopper and Vja eslav V Ivanov Moreover unlike previous endeavors this is the first to make extensive use of data from the non Semitic branches of Afroasiatic The assumptions underlying this investigation of the possibility of the common genetic origin of Proto Indo European and Proto Afroasiatic differ considerably from the assumptions made in other works on Nostratic the methodological approach followed in this monograph has been one of rigorous adherence to the time honored principles of comparative reconstruction
