Translations on Communist China, 1970 The Age of Wild Ghosts Erik Mueggler, 2001-04-09 In Erik Mueggler's powerful and imaginative ethnography a rural minority community in the mountains of Southwest China struggles to find its place at the end of a century of violence and at the margins of a nation state Here people describe the present age beginning with the Great Leap Famine of 1958-1960 and continuing through the 1990s as the age of wild ghosts Their stories of this age converge on a dream of community a bad dream embodied in the life death and reawakening of a single institution a rotating headman ship system that expired violently under the Maoist regime Displaying a sensitive understanding of both Chinese and the Tibeto Burman language spoken in this region Mueggler explores memories of this institution including the rituals and poetics that once surrounded it and the bitter conflicts that now haunt it To exorcise wild ghosts he shows is nothing less than to imagine the state and its power to trace the responsibility for violence to its morally ambiguous origins and to enunciate calls for justice and articulate longings for reconciliation Law in the People's Republic of China John H. Minan, Ralph H. Folsom, 2024-11-25 Creating the New Man Yinghong Cheng, 2008-12-31 The idea of eliminating undesirable traits from human temperament to create a new man has been part of moral and political thinking worldwide for millennia During the Enlightenment European philosophers sought to construct an ideological framework for reshaping human nature But it was only among the communist regimes of the twentieth century that such ideas were actually put into practice on a nationwide scale In this book Yinghong Cheng examines three culturally diverse sociopolitical experiments the Soviet Union under Lenin and Stalin China under Mao and Cuba under Castro in an attempt to better understand the origins and development of the new man The book's fundamental concerns are how these communist revolutions strove to create a new morally and psychologically superior human being and how this task paralleled efforts to create a superior society To these ends it addresses a number of questions What are the intellectual roots of the new man concept How was this idealistic and utopian goal linked to specific political and economic programs How do the policies of these particular regimes based as they are on universal communist ideology reflect national and cultural traditions Cheng begins by exploring the origins of the idea of human perfectibility during the Enlightenment His discussion moves to other European intellectual movements and then to the creation of the Soviet Man the first communist new man in world history Subsequent chapters examine China s experiment with human nature starting with the nationalistic debate about a new national character at the turn of the twentieth century and Cuban perceptions of the new man and his role in propelling the revolution from a nationalist to a socialist and finally a communist movement The last chapter considers the global influence of the Soviet Chinese and Cuban experiments Creating the New Man contributes greatly to our understanding of how three very different countries and their leaders carried out problematic and controversial visions and programs It will be of special interest to students and scholars of world history and intellectual social and revolutionary history and also development studies and philosophy

Discourse, Rhetoric and Shifting Political Behaviour in China Una Aleksandra Bērziņa-Čerenkova, 2023-10-02 Using political discourse analysis this book examines the extent to which the salient approaches of previous leadership generations have translated into present day policies shepherded in by Xi Jinping On the strategic political level the book includes comparisons of China s recent leadership periods with a focus on Xi Jinping s era and contains examples of whether and how specific topics and tactics reoccur across generations The state development strategy section then goes on to include chapters on shaping China s strategic narratives neoliberal discourse within state developmentalism and keyword evolution The practical policies part looks at the issues of re education health class and ethnicity analysing how the leaders talk about China s poor frame the representations of megaprojects on social media and discursively display diplomatic strength As a study of the rule of Xi Jinping and the rhetoric of the contemporary Chinese political system this book will be of huge interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics and political science more broadly
