Maritime History and Identity Duncan Redford,2013 The sea and its relation to human life has always been a subject of fascination for historians For the first time this book looks at the field of Maritime History through the prism of identity looking at how the sea has influenced the formation of identity at a national local and individual level from the early modern age to the present It looks at a variety of people who interacted with the sea in different ways from merchant sailors to naval officers and on land from dockworkers to the civilians who participated in the sea based festivals in the Mediterranean port city of Messina A cultural strand runs through the volume with chapters focussing on the cultural construction of the naval hero in literature poetry music and art and an appraisal of the Japanese author and journalist It Masanori whose works had such a profound influence on Japan s post World War II national identity A key focus is the ways in which the Royal Navy influenced British identity at a national and regional level but other countries with a strong naval tradition such as Japan Italy and Germany are also analysed By bringing together a variety of themes related to identity this book provides the first attempt to thoroughly analyse the ways in which maritime historians have engaged with the question of identity in recent years In doing so it provides an important and unique addition to the historiography which will be essential reading for all scholars of maritime and naval history and those concerned with the question of identity Bloomsbury Publishing
