Conflict of Interest in Policing Cindy Davids,2008 Conflict of interest allegations have become a prominent part of the landscape of political and public sector ethics in Australia and overseas The arena of policing has not been immune from this problem and this book is based on unique and unfettered access to ten years of internal investigation files held by Victoria Police Through detailed analysis of actual complaint cases it gives the reader a comprehensive map by which to chart the particular kinds of interests involved the nature of conflicts with official police duties and the particular contexts from which conflicts of interest emerge The book examines conflicts of interest across the private and public realm of the everyday lives of police officers The author outlines how the problem of conflict of interest is an important aspect of police ethics arguing that recognition of and accountability for conflict of interest may be a significant element in preventing upstream police misconduct and corruption Conflict of Interest in Policing seeks to provide a conceptual and practical understanding of how integrity and trust must be integrated into the profession of policing through processes of active responsibility rather than more traditional passive obedience to prescriptive rules another in terms of the various relationships in which the courts impose such liability The book shows that despite appearances there is a unifying feature to the various relationships in which the courts currently impose strict liability for the tort of another That feature is authority Whenever the courts impose strict liability for the tort of another the defendant is either vested with authority over the person who committed a tort against the claimant or has vested or conferred a form of authority upon that person in respect of the claimant This book uses this feature of authority to construct a new expositive framework within which strict liability for the tort of another can be understood
