Political Institutions Collected Works Of Herbert Spencer Volume Viii:

Empire and Imperial Ambition Mira Matikkala, 2010-11-01 The late nineteenth century is generally thought of as a period of imperial enthusiasm and fervour however beneath the surface there were currents of disquiet and discontent In this book Mira Matikkala examines the modes of thought that were described as anti imperialist in the period 1878 1901 She argues that the common ground between the various critics of imperialism was that they all declared to represent true Englishness in contrast to what they regarded as a distorted imperial identity Previous research has largely embraced the imperialist conception and definition of British imperialism as empire patriotism and general empire pride This has led to a failure to understand the fact that late Victorian anti imperialists comprehended imperialism differently They drew a clear distinction between the empire and imperialism the empire signifying mainly emigration colonisation and the spontaneous spread of English liberal values in the form of the settler empire whereas imperialism as British authoritarian rule in the dependencies was regarded as the negation of the same liberal spirit which the colonies propounded Unlike colonisation imperialism was seen as a new departure in British politics representing anti constitutionalism distorted imperial patriotism militarism aggression and irrational jingoism In contrast to these imperialist manifestations the anti imperialists emphasised the long line from 1688 liberty and constitutional rights in the form of industry and freedom at home and peace fair dealing and moderation abroad In their view these traditional English values constituted true Englishness and any true patriotism would be founded on them The late Victorian debate on imperialism can be loosely grouped into three main categories discussed in the three main parts of the book economy and imperial expansion ethics and the nature of progress and practical politics Empire and the Imperial Ambition will be a significant contribution to the fields of British intellectual history and political thought

William Robertson Smith James G Frazer and Jane Ellen Harrison She illuminates their attempts to create a scholarly non apologetic study of religion and religions that drew upon several different disciplines including anthropology sociology the classics and Oriental studies and relied upon contributions from those outside as well as within the universities This intellectual enterprise variously known as comparative religion the history of religions or the science of religion was primarily focused on non Christian religions Yet in Wheeler Barclay s study of the history of this field within the broad contexts of Victorian cultural intellectual social and political history she traces the links between the emergence of the science of religion to debates about Christianity and to the history of British imperialism the latter of which made possible the collection of so much of the ethnographic data on which the scholars relied and which legitimized exploration and conquest Far from promoting an anti religious or materialistic agenda the science of religion opened up cultural space for an exploration of religion that was not constricted by the terms of contemporary conflicts over Darwin and the Bible and that made it possible to think in new and more flexible ways about the very definition of religion
