Political Structure Of The Chinese Community In Cambodia:

The Political Structure of the Chinese Community in Cambodia W. E. Willmott, 2021-01-07 This field study of organized Chinese life in Cambodia past and present takes its place in the growing sociological literature on the overseas Chinese and in a sense transcends it For it relates its conclusions on the evolution the structure of the Cambodian Chinese community to the evidence from other overseas Chinese communities and moves on to a comparison between overseas Chinese social organization and the organization of cities in China Cambodia the overseas Chinese and traditional China all stand illuminated

The Chinese Diaspora in South-East Asia Tracy C. Barrett, 2012-02-22 As Qing Dynasty China disintegrated economic hardship and civil disorder led to millions of Chinese men and women seeking their fortunes abroad many journeying south into French Indochina These emigres settled into tight knit communities called huiguan organisations which closely mirrored the religious social and economic constitution of their own places of origin Here Tracy Barrett sheds light on the overseas Chinese communities in French Indochina and the interactions between them and French colonial authorities She also addresses the nature scope and effectiveness of the congregation system an institution designed by the French to control Indochina s overseas Chinese but eventually extended across the greater French empire as a means of monitoring foreign Asiatics Including a close analysis of French colonial law and of the economic and social networks between Chinese settler communities across Indonesia The Chinese Diaspora in South East Asia provides an important insight into the characteristics of Chinese migration

Lukang Donald Robert DeGlopper, 1995-01-01 An anthropological study of the social organization and local history in Lukang a city in Taiwan

Ethnicity in Asia Colin Mackerras, 2003-09-02 A comparative introduction to ethnicity in East and Southeast Asia since 1945 Each chapter covers a particular country looking at core issues such as ethnic minorities and groups population language culture and traditional religion

A Chinese Melting Pot Elizabeth Lominska Johnson, Graham E. Johnson, 2019-08-05 Drawing on almost fifty years of research and first hand experience Elizabeth Lominska Johnson and Graham E Johnson have produced a masterpiece of ethnography a fine grained study of the transformation of a rural district into a chaotic industrial and now post industrial city Their work has implications far beyond its specific location scholars of history anthropology and sociology urban planning ethnomusicology women s studies political science ethnic relations and China studies in general will all find it meaningful Tsuen Wan was incorporated into colonial Hong Kong in 1898 The original inhabitants were Hakka who were guaranteed land rights which were central to later developments After the Japanese war the town was overwhelmed by vast numbers of immigrants fleeing civil war and revolution seeking employment in rapidly developing industries The newcomers were welcomed as tenants but in the absence of firm planning guidelines their number far exceeded the town s capacity to house and accommodate them The original inhabitants were firmly rooted in villages and elaborate kinship organizations the immigrants similarly relied on voluntary associations to help them face the many challenges that change brought into their lives Over time the government became more interventionist and developed Tsuen Wan as the first planned new town in Hong Kong's New Territories. In recent years the culture of the original inhabitants has been diluted and differences among immigrants have diminished as all have assumed a general Hong Kong identity. I have no doubt that this is an important book. It covers a large number of topics that will intrigue sociologists, anthropologists, political scientists, and historians who work on developing societies. The book can be easily mined for data and comparative ethnography on a wide range of subjects from family organization to styles of leadership. For scholars focusing on Chinese society, this is a must read. James Watson, Harvard University. The authors show us the dynamic interactions between tradition and modernity in Tsuen Wan's everyday life during the time when the New Town was undergoing rapid industrialization. They give us a comprehensive account of the social development of the villages in the area, taking us on a historical tour filled with surprises and excitement. Sidney Cheung, The Chinese University of Hong Kong.

China's Motor Hill Gates, 2018-10-18. This monumental work reveals the continuities that underlie the changing surface of Chinese life from late imperial days to modern times. With a perspective that encompasses a thousand years of Chinese history, China's Motor provides a view of the social, economic, and political principles that have prompted people in widely varying circumstances to act, believe, and behave in ways that are labeled as Chinese. This original reinterpretation of Chinese culture is meticulous in detail as it is vast in scope; it will revise not only the study of China but also the very terms of social analysis.

The Chinese in Vancouver, 1945-80 Wing Chung Ng, 2011-11-01. In The Chinese in Vancouver, Wing Chung Ng captures the fascinating story of the city's Chinese in their search for identity. He juxtaposes the cultural positions of different generations of Chinese immigrants and their Canadian-born descendants and unveils the ongoing struggle over the definition of being Chinese. It is an engrossing story about cultural identity in the context of migration and settlement where the influence of the native land and the appeal of the host city continued to impinge on the consciousness of the ethnic Chinese. The Chinese in Canada is long overdue in view of the many previous studies that tend to describe Chinese people as victims of racial prejudice and discrimination and Chinese identity as a matter of Western cultural hegemony. Ng's account gives the Chinese people their own voice and shows that the Chinese in Vancouver had much to say and often disagreed about the meaning of being Chinese. In his concluding chapter, Ng looks beyond the Canadian context by engaging in a comparative discussion of the experiences of ethnic Chinese elsewhere in the diaspora.

References to the Chinese in various Southeast Asian countries and the U.S. force a rethinking of Chineseness. He ends with reflections about Vancouver's Chinese community since 1980.

The Emergence of Global Maoism Matthew Galway, 2022-03-15. The Emergence of Global Maoism examines the spread of Mao Zedong's writings, ideology, and institutions when they traveled outside of China.

Matthew Galway links Chinese Communist Party efforts to globalize Maoism to the dialectical engagement of exported Maoism by Cambodian Maoist intellectuals How do ideas manifest outside of their place of origin Galway analyzes how universal ideological systems became localized both in Mao's indigenization of Marxism Leninism and in the Communist Party of Kampuchea's indigenization of Maoism into its own revolutionary ideology By examining the intellectual journeys of CPK leaders who during their studies in Paris in the 1950s became progressive activist intellectuals and full fledged Communists he shows that they responded to political and socioeconomic crises by speaking back to Maoism adapting it through practice without abandoning its universality Among Mao's greatest achievements the Sinification of Marxism enabled the CCP to canonize Mao's thought and export it to a progressive audience of international intellectuals These intellectuals would come to embrace the ideology as they set a course for social change The Emergence of Global Maoism illuminates the process through which China moved its goal from class revolution to a larger anticolonial project that sought to cast out European and American imperialism from Asia

Time and Social Structure and Other Essays Meyere Fortes, 2021-01-14 The papers reprinted in this volume have been selected with two considerations in mind they record ethnographical observations from my field work among the Tallensi and in Ashanti that are not easily accessible elsewhere but continue to be useful for comparative studies and as background to current research in Ghana and they represent applications of methods of analysis and schemes of interpretation that were emerging in British structural anthropology at the time of their publication The Monographs on Social Anthropology were established in 1940 and aim to publish results of modern anthropological research of primary interest to specialists

Literary Migrations Claudine Salmon, 2013-11-13 This book was written between 1981 and 1986 was first published in 1987 and has been out of print since The Chinese version of it by Yan Bao et al Zhongguo chuantong xiaoshuo zai yazhou which also published in 1989 is also out of print Since then more works especially in Chinese Japanese Korean and Western languages have appeared which are mainly concerned with cultural exchanges between China and the countries of East Asia Moreover a new interest has arisen among scholars from various countries on what has been termed Asian translation traditions and conferences are regularly organized on this topic Judging from this rising interest in translation history this book on traditional Chinese fiction in Asia which sets the question of Asian translations into a general framework and so far has no equivalent is still of service to researchers

China, Cambodia, and the Five Principles of Peaceful Coexistence Sophie Richardson, 2009-12-10 Why would China jeopardize its relationship with the United States the former Soviet Union Vietnam and much of Southeast Asia to sustain the Khmer Rouge and provide hundreds of millions of dollars to postwar Cambodia Why would China invest so much in small states such as those at the China Africa Forum that offer such small political economic and strategic return Some scholars assume pragmatic or material concerns drive China's foreign policy while others believe the government was once and still is guided by Marxist ideology Conducting rare interviews with the actual policy makers involved in these decisions Sophie

Richardson locates the true principles driving China's foreign policy since 1954's Geneva Conference. Though they may not be right in a moral sense, China's ideals are based on a clear view of the world and the interaction of the people within it: a philosophy that even in an era of unprecedented state power remains tied to the origins of the PRC as an impoverished undeveloped state. The Five Principles of Peaceful Coexistence—mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty, nonaggression, noninterference, equality, and mutual benefit and peaceful coexistence—live at the heart of Chinese foreign policy and set the parameters for international action. In this model of state-to-state relations, the practices of extensive diplomatic communication, mutual benefit, and restraint in domestic affairs become crucial to achieving national security and global stability.

Land Tenure in Ibo Village in South-Eastern Nigeria M. M. Green, 2020-08-22 This material on land tenure forms part of the data collected during two tours in Nigeria between 1934 and 1937 while the author was the holder of a Leverhulme Research Fellowship for anthropological work among the Ibo people.

Area Handbook for the Khmer Republic (Cambodia) Donald P. Whitaker, 1973 General study of Cambodia covers historical and geographical aspects, demographic aspects, and social structures, living conditions, education, religion, political aspects, the system of government, foreign policy, mass media, the economic structure, agriculture, industry, labour relations, economic policy, the national budget, financing, trade, defence policy, the armed forces, etc. and includes a glossary, Bibliography, maps, and statistical tables.

The Performance of Gender Cecilia Busby, 2020-08-20 The Performance of Gender presents a vivid description of everyday life in order to explore the concept of performance for an anthropology of gender. A detailed and evocative account of the lives of men and women in a South Indian fishing community reveals new ways of framing gender relations, the body, and kinship. The ethnographic account is set within the context of social and cultural theory, notably the ideas of Judith Butler, Pierre Bourdieu, and Michel Foucault. The study sheds new light on the ways in which gender is understood as both performative—that is, enacted through everyday practices—and also substantial and embodied—that is, marked out in the separate sexual fluids and procreative capacities of husbands and wives.

Those Who Play With Fire Henrietta Moore, Todd Sanders, Bwire Kaare, 2020-08-20 Whether initiating girls or healing cattle, bringing rain or protesting taxation, many in Africa share a vision of a world where the cultural, symbolic, and cosmic categories of male and female serve through ritual to both reimagine and transform the world. Those Who Play With Fire introduces recent gender theory to the analysis of African ethnography, exploring the ways in which ideational gender categories permeate African systems of thought and ritual practices. Thus, the book provides a powerful framework with which to evaluate previous ethnographic material on Africa. In addition, Those Who Play With Fire presents a broad range of new case studies of hunter-gatherers, agriculturalists, and pastoralists, revealing the varied and complex ways in which African ideas and ideals of what it means to be male and female broadly inform and give meaning to a wide range of transformative rituals.
