Political Experience:

Public Space and Political Experience David Antonini, 2021-04-30 Contemporary politics is dominated by discussions of rights and liberties as the proper subjects about which citizens should be concerned in the political sphere In Public Space and Political Experience An Arendtian Interpretation David Antonini argues that Hannah Arendt conceived of politics differently and that her thought can help us retrieve a more authentic sense of politics as the site where citizens can speak and act together about matters of shared concern Antonini shows that citizens can experience politics together if they approach it not as a realm where privately interested individuals compete for their rights or liberties but instead as a space where plural human beings come together as distinct yet equal creatures Antonini argues that if we read Arendt as primarily concerned with political experience we can reimagine common political concepts such as freedom power revolution and civil disobedience The book posits that politics should be considered a fundamental form of human experience one rooted in what Arendt refers to as the existential condition of politics human plurality If plurality is the existential condition out of which our political life emerges we can enliven and reimagine the possibilities that political life can provide for contemporary citizens

The Doctoral Journey as an Emotional, Embodied, Political Experience Rebecca Twinley, Gayle

Letherby, 2021-12-28 The Doctoral Journey as an Emotional Embodied Political Experience is the first text of its kind to capture stories of involvement in doctoral journeys from students supervisors and examiners Drawing from experiences across a variety of disciplines in the social sciences medical sciences education and the humanities these stories share a keenness to demonstrate the ways in which this journey is emotional rather than detached embodied rather than separated and political rather than having no relationship to politics The journey metaphor is often adopted to describe and explore the PhD process However this journey is usually only seen from the perspective of the doctoral candidate This implies that it is only the student that learns develops and reflects This is clearly not always maybe never the case The suggestion that the candidate learns whilst the supervisors teach harks back to traditional masculinist educational approaches and neglects the reciprocal knowledge sharing process between student and supervisor Similarly the prescription that relationships between all concerned remain professional and removed rather than in any way intimate suggest an unrealistic acceptance of an scientific detached objective agenda rather than an emotional embodied political and holistic approach to research The contributions to this book extend the journey metaphor to additionally consider the experiences of supervisors and examiners including the joint collaborative journey of the team the candidate their supervisors and their examiners This provides a challenge to traditional understandings of the doctoral process and offers implications for future reflection and practice This book is therefore an invaluable resource for doctoral students supervisors examiners and readers interested in pedagogy and educational practice
