Researching Real-World Problems Zina O'Leary, 2005-11-04 This is the perfect book for any student new to Research Methods. It is brilliantly written, witty and always easy to understand. Taking as her starting point the need for students to conduct research for themselves in the real world, Zina O'Leary guides those new to research through the whys and how-tos of the entire research process. Always student-focused, this book offers a hands-on and practical guide to the research process from the initial process of coming up with a good question via methods of gathering information through to the writing process itself. Researching Real-World Problems makes the entire research process a meaningful experience. Provides a jargon-busting, hands-on guide to the entire research process. Is illustrated throughout with real-life examples. Speaks directly to the needs of the new researcher. Locates the researcher and research process at heart of a complex web of social structures. O'Leary draws her examples from the full range of the Social Sciences and this is the perfect text for any student in Health Education or Applied Social Science.

Real World Research Colin Robson, 2016 Adult Interactive Style Intervention and Participatory Research Designs in Autism Lila Kossovaki, 2017-09-13 Regardless of their cognitive and linguistic abilities, people with autism can often find it difficult to develop basic communicative skills that are necessary to gain full control over their environment and maintain their independence. Building on the author's own cutting-edge research, Adult Interactive Style Intervention and Participatory Research Designs in Autism examines the impact that the interactive style of neurotypical individuals could have on the spontaneous communication of children with autism. This book provides clear and detailed guidance on how to conduct research into autism in real-world settings such as schools and homes. Kossovaki critically evaluates a wealth of relevant case studies and focuses on a number of methodological issues that researchers are likely to face when carrying out research of this complex nature. The author walks the reader through present literature on the importance of spontaneous communication and the atypical way that this tends to develop in autism before bringing the results of her own research to bear on the question of how the interactive styles of neurotypical individuals can impact on the spontaneous communication of people with autism. Adult Interactive Style Intervention and Participatory Research Designs in Autism is essential reading for academics, researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of special educational needs, inclusion, autism research methods and educational and clinical psychology.
