The Making Sense of Politics, Media, and Law Gary Watt, 2023-04-13

From Trump's make America great again to Johnson's build back better performative politicians use The Making Sense to persuade their public audiences. Law makers do it too. A courtroom trial is a truth factory in which facts are not found but forged. The court of popular opinion is another such factory though its processes are often flawed and its products faulty. Where courts of law aim to make civil peace trial by Twitter makes civil strife. Even in mainstream media journalists make news for public consumption so that all news is to an extent fake news. In a world of making how can we separate craft from craftiness. With insights from disciplines including law politics rhetoric media studies psychology sociology marketing and performance studies The Making Sense of Politics Media and Law offers a constructive way to approach controversies from transgender identity to cancel culture. New Labour, New Language? Norman Fairclough, 2002-01-04

This is a book about the politics of New Labour that focuses on language. Fairclough gets behind the rhetoric to uncover the real meaning. He examines a wide range of political speeches and texts from Tony Blair's speech following the death of Diana to the 1997 Labour Party Manifesto and Bill Clinton's book Between Hope and History. New Labour New Language blows open the whole debate on the nature of the political discourse of New Labour and the Third Way. Written in a clear non technical style and including a glossary New Labour New Language will appeal to anyone interested in language and politics.

Rhetoric and Reality Terrence R. Tutchings, 2020-04-28

Since 1945 the role of the president in shaping domestic and foreign policy has changed dramatically. Though the prodigious growth of the federal bureaucracy under the Executive Branch reflects much of this change bureaucratic response to the major issues of the past three decades has been ineffective or nonexistent and a notable parallel development has been the increasing use of public commissions in the policymaking process. Dr Tutchings studies more than 100 public commissions using a model of the policymaking process that includes demands decision and information costs and policy results and outcomes. Reviewing the results of the commissions as reflected in presidential support of recommendations via proposed legislation and in congressional response he notes that their membership has typically been dominated by government corporate elites as this membership has become more pluralistic there has been a sharp decline in the contributions of the commissions to the policymaking process. Perhaps the most significant contribution of the book is its detailed development of the concept of rhetorical policy as a first step in the policymaking process.
