Regional Trading Blocs In The World Economic System:

Regional Trading Blocs in the World Economic System Jeffrey A. Frankel, Ernesto Stein, Shang-Jin Wei, 1997 Covers trends from 1957 to 1995 The Political Importance of Regional Trading Blocs Bart Kerremans, Bob Switky, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2000 This text addresses concerns about regional trade agreements From a variety of political and economic angles it explains the emergence of trade blocs their internal policies and politics and their effects on global trade It does not provide sequential descriptions and analyses of each of the world's major trading blocs The focus here is on a number of causal factors that help explain the emergence of trading blocs and the development of their relations to and effects on the multilateral trading system In each chapter attempts have been made to draw theoretical and case based generalizations that may apply to other trade blocs than the used in the empirical analyses Regional Trading Blocs in the Global Economy

May T. Yeung, Nicholas Perdikis, William Alexander Kerr, 1999-01-01 The Asia Pacific Rim is still potentially one of the most dynamic areas of the global economy and the European Union EU is the world's most prosperous market The development of relations between the EU and Association of South East Asian Nations ASEAN is vitally important for the future economic evolution of both regions This book traces the relationship between the EU and ASEAN considering the current and future position of trade relations Cross Regional Trade Agreements Saori N. Katada, Mireya

Solis, 2008-06-24 An unacknowledged key feature of East Asian FTA diplomacy is the region's active cross regional preferential trading relations In sharp contrast to the Americas and Europe where cross regional initiatives gained strength after the consolidation of regional trade integration East Asian governments negotiate trade deals with partners outside of their region at an early stage in their FTA policies The book asks three main questions Are there regional factors in East Asia encouraging countries to explore cross regionalism early on What are the most important criteria behind the cross regional partner selection How do cross regional FTAs influence their intra regional trade initiatives Through detailed country case studies from China Japan South Korea Singapore Thailand and Malaysia we show the ways in which these governments seek to leverage their CRTAs in the pursuit of intra regional trade integration objectives a process that yields a much more permeated regionalism How Regional Trade Blocs affect Liberalisation of International Trade Kelly

Bill, 2014-09-15 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics Trade and Distribution grade B Stanford University language English abstract A trade bloc is a preferential trade agreement between a range of nations aimed at significantly reducing or removing trade barriers within the member states Regional trade blocs are formed by neighbouring countries or countries that are in close proximity to each other The two key features of a trade bloc is that 1 it involves a cutback or abolition of obstacles to trade and 2 the trade liberalisation that is attained through the trade bloc is discriminatory in purview of the fact that it is applicable only to the member states of the trade bloc and non member countries are shown prejudice in their dealings with members of the trade bloc The first aspect of trade blocs above is in line with the mission of the World Trade Organisation WTO and its antecedent the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade GATT. The principle of Non discrimination under the GATT stipulates that no member state shall show prejudice between GATT members during the operations of world trade. In the same magnitude the WTO offers an environment for negotiating agreements that are focused on reducing barriers to international trade and making sure that trade is carried out on a basis of openness thus contributing to economic growth as well as development. Notably although trade blocs have different structures they are premised on the same objective that is to lessen trade barriers among member states. The second aspect of trade blocs however seems to be in conflict with the motive of the GATT WTO system. The preamble of the GATT is very clear on promoting non discrimination in international trade by reinforcing the need for reciprocal and equally advantageous arrangements focused on substantial cutbacks in tariffs and other obstacles to trade and to the abolition of discriminatory treatment in international trade. Equally under the WTO as well as under its predecessor the GATT trade discrimination is promoted through the use of the principles of the Most Favoured Nation MFN that requires treatment of other people equally as pertains to trade and the principle of National Treatment which stipulates that foreigners and locals should be treated equally in trade matters. The above overview of regional trading blocs implies that different opinions can be stated regarding how trading blocs affect liberalisation of trade.

The Relationship of WTO Law and Regional Trade Agreements in Dispute Settlement: From Fragmentation to Coherence Malebakeng Agnes Forere, 2015-10-12

It is becoming increasingly evident that traditional sovereignty is simply out of date. Instead what we might call cooperative sovereignty which focuses on communication and interaction is more responsive to the realities of interdependent economies in the twenty first century. Nowhere is this more salient than in the area of dispute resolution especially as labour intellectual property and the environment can no longer be evaded in trade negotiations. This ground breaking book suggests that it is this shift in perspective that has given rise to the proliferation of Regional Trade Agreements RTAs and the inevitable overlaps and tensions between their provisions and those of the World Trade Organization WTO. The author examines this phenomenon in great detail and offers viable recommendations to restore coherence in the global trading system without upsetting the rights and obligations of WTO Member States. Because the WTO and RTAs must be viewed as layers of one system and must therefore have a relationship that extends to dispute settlement such principles of subsidiarity as autonomy mutual assistance and flexibility are key to a successful institutional relationship between the WTO and RTAs. From this theoretical springboard the author proceeds to analyse the following issues and more the relationship between WTO and RTAs based on Article XXIV of GATT the extent to which WTO panels can apply RTA law the extent to which the WTO panels can hear RTA claims opportunity for RTA Members to secure preliminary rulings and advisory opinions from the WTO recognition by WTO panels of the results of litigation or arbitration that took place at the RTA level opportunity for RTA Members to appeal RTA dispute settlement decisions to the WTO and clarification of WTO rules designed to enable RTA activities or intervene if necessary Major cases decided at the WTO and RTA levels that manifest conflict between RTAs and the WTO are fully analysed Confronting directly the stagnation in negotiating and concluding new trade agreements at the multilateral level and the fragmentation of the international trade law system this important book shows clearly how the institutional relationship between the WTO and RTAs can be restructured with a view to establishing mutual recognition of the judgments of both In a nutshell the book calls for reconfiguration of WTO Dispute Settlement Body to perform functions of World Trade Court that is capable of hearing disputes arising between WTO Members RTA Members and Non WTO Members It will prove invaluable to all involved in the negotiation and implementation of trade agreements at every level Handbook of International Trade Agreements Robert E. Looney, 2018-10-03 International trade has for decades been central to economic growth and improved standards of living for nations and regions worldwide For most of the advanced countries trade has raised standards of living while for most emerging economies growth did not begin until their integration into the global economy The economic explanation is simple international trade facilitates specialization increased efficiency and improved productivity to an extent impossible in closed economies However recent years have seen a significant slowdown in global trade and the global system has increasingly come under attack from politicians on the right and on the left The benefits of open markets the continuation of international co operation and the usefulness of multilateral institutions such as the World Trade Organization WTO the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank have all been called into question While globalization has had a broadly positive effect on overall global welfare it has also been perceived by the public as damaging communities and social classes in the industrialized world spawning for example Brexit and the US exit from the Trans Pacific Partnership The purpose of this volume is to examine international and regional preferential trade agreements PTAs which offer like minded countries a possible means to continue receiving the benefits of economic liberalization and expanded trade What are the strengths and weaknesses of such agreements and how can they sustain growth and prosperity for their members in an ever challenging global economic environment The Handbook is divided into two parts The first Global Themes offers analysis of issues including the WTO trade agreements and economic development intellectual property rights security and environmental issues and PTAs and developing countries The second part examines regional and country specific agreements and issues including NAFTA CARICOM CETA the Pacific Alliance the European Union EFTA ECOWAS SADC TTIP RCEP and the TPP now the CPTPP as well as the policies of countries such as Japan and Australia , China and Southeast Asia Ho Khai Leong, Samuel C Y Ku, 2005 The relations between ASEAN and China occupy a unique and important position in the foreign relations of the Asia Pacific region This volume investigates the impacts of global changes and regional challenges confronting the contemporary developments of China ASEAN relations Negotiating South-South Regional Trade Agreements Gbadebo Odularu, Bamidele Adekunle, 2017-01-26 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of South South regional trade issues with a particular focus on sustainably fostering Africa s regional trade agenda It examines the extent to which South South regional trade agreements RTAs have contributed toward enhancing regional integration and economic expansion in Africa in particular and in the South in general The authors recommend new conceptual frameworks appropriate initiatives and workable policy recipes to help South South RTAs enhance Africa s economic transformation trajectory The book underscores the geo politics as well as the opportunities and challenges that emerging economies now represent for Africa in the context of South South regional trade policy Readers will learn how Africa can strengthen its regional trade game by securing and building on the positive outcomes of South South RTAs

Regional Integration, Economic Development and Global Governance Ulrich Volz,2011 This book explores a central issue of the world economy today the role of regional integration for economic development and global governance The importance of this issue comes from the fact that the globalisation process that we have been experiencing in recent decades is also a process of open regionalism To what extent does this process contribute to development The reader will find many interesting answers to this question in the book which is an outstanding contribution to this debate I welcome its publication and look forward to its influence on global debates on the relations between regional integration development and global governance From the foreword by Jos Antonio Ocampo Columbia University US The contributors expertly provide a comparative perspective on regional integration in different regions of the world while at the same time analysing the various facets of integration relating to trade FDI finance and monetary policies They provide a comprehensive treatment of the subject and offer new perspectives on the potential developmental effects of regional integration and the implications of regional integration for global economic governance

Whilst highlighting and illustrating the potential benefits deriving from regional economic integration the book also stresses the problems and challenges regional integration processes are usually confronted with Regionalism In Trade Policy: Essays On Preferential Trading Arvind Panagariya, 1999-10-18 The signing of the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA and recent expansions of the European Union have led to renewed efforts to create preferential trade areas PTAs around the world including Asia Africa and Latin America Because PTAs liberalize trade with union members but not the rest of the world they are not necessarily a healthy development By dividing the world into trade blocs they also threaten to undermine the multilateral trading system This collection of recently published essays by a leading critic of regionalism offers an assessment of the economic impact of PTAs on member countries and the world The first set of essays present a theoretical analysis of the issues using simple economic models and study the relationship between regionalism and multilateralism Subsequent essays evaluate the role of PTAs in Asia North America and Latin America The general theme of the book is that on balance trade liberalization through PTAs is a mistake Trade diversion and the creation of complicated and discriminatory tariff regimes with increased tariffs for non member countries the consequences of PTAs are likely to undermine the multilateral trading system The book will be useful to academics as well as policy makers and policy analysts Many of the essays have been featured in newspapers and journals such as the Financial Times Economist Journal of Commerce and International Herald Tribune Some of these essays are already on many reading lists in the United States
