Landscape and Religion from Van Eyck to Rembrandt Boudewijn Bakker, 2017-07-05 Offering a corrective to the common scholarly characterization of seventeenth century Dutch landscape painting as modern realistic and secularized Boudewijn Bakker here explores the long history and purpose of landscape in Netherlandish painting In Bakker's view early Netherlandish as well as seventeenth century Dutch painting can be understood only in the context of the intellectual climate of the day Concentrating on landscape painting as the careful depiction of the visible world Bakker's analysis takes in the thought of figures seldom consulted by traditional art historians such as the fifteenth century philosopher Dionysius the Carthusian the sixteenth century religious reformer John Calvin the geographer Abraham Ortelius and the seventeenth century poet Constantijn Huygens Probing their conception of nature as the first Book of God and art as its representation Bakker identifies a world view that has its roots in the traditional Christian perceptions of God and creation Landscape and Religion from Van Eyck to Rembrandt imposes a new layer of interpretation on the richly varied landscapes of the great masters In so doing it adds a new dimension to the insights offered by modern art historical research Further Bakker s explorations of early modern art and literature provide essential background for any student of European intellectual history

Pleasant Places Walter S. Gibson, 2000-04-22 The variations of pleasure and their expression in Dutch rustic landscapes of the seventeenth century are recurring themes in Walter S Gibson s engaging new book Gibson focuses on Haarlem between 1600 and 1635 in his interpretation of Dutch landscapes and emphasizes prints the medium in which the rustic view was first made available to the general art buying public Gibson begins by looking at the origins of the rustic landscape in the sixteenth century Flanders and its later reformation by Dutch artists a legacy very much alive today He next offers a critical review of scriptural reading a popular mode of interpreting the Dutch rustic landscape that incorporates Calvinist influenced moral allegories Gibson then explores traditional ideas concerning recreation and suggests that the pleasure of rural landscapes not preaching constituted their chief appeal for seventeenth century urban viewers Using Visscher s Plaisante Plaetsen Pleasant Places as a point of departure Gibson examines the ways that townspeople both the day trippers and owners of country houses experienced the Dutch countryside He also discusses the role of staffage and suggests how the representations of peasants might have conditioned the responses of contemporary viewers to rural images Finally Gibson considers how scenes of the dilapidated farm buildings dead trees and other evidence of material decay may reflect traditional ideas rustic life as imagined by a townsman Or how they may represent another way for the artist to engage his urban audience far removed from the idealized landscapes of a Giorgione the rustic landscape of a Ruisdael conveys a countryside that was beginning to disappear under the relentless pressures of urbanization Gibson s multilayered exploration of the rustic landscape enhances our understanding of the Golden Age in Dutch art His richly illustrated book recalls a countryside now largely gone at the same time his evocative language gracefully articulates the role of the Dutch rustic landscape in the history of landscape painting

News, Business and Public Information Arthur der Weduwen, Andrew Pettegree, 2020-01-20 The history of newspaper advertising began in the seventeenth century Low Countries. The newspaper publishers of the Dutch Republic were the first to embrace advertisements decades before their peers in other news markets in Europe. In this survey, Arthur der Weduwen and Andrew Pettegree have brought together the first 6 000 advertisements placed in Dutch and Flemish newspapers between 1620 and 1675. Provided here in an English translation and accompanied by seven indices, this work provides for the first time a complete overview of the development of newspaper advertising and its impact on the Dutch book trade, economy and society. In these evocative announcements ranging from advertisement for library auctions, the publication of new books, pamphlets and maps to notices of crime, postal schedules or missing pets, the seventeenth century is brought to life. This survey offers a unique perspective on daily life, personal relationships and societal change in the Dutch Golden Age. The Innocence of Pontius Pilate David Lloyd Dusenbury, 2021-12-01 How have Christianity and Empire been shaped by perceptions of Pilate's role in the Crucifixion?

The Birth of Modern Political Satire Meredith McNeill Hale, 2020-09-02 Political satire has been a primary weapon of the press since the eighteenth century and is still intimately associated with one of the most important values of western democratic society: the right of individuals to free speech. This study documents one of the most important moments in the history of printed political imagery when political print became what we would recognise as modern political satire. Contrary to conventional historical and art historical narratives which place the emergence of political satire in the news-driven coffee house culture of eighteenth-century London, Meredith M. Hale locates the birth of the genre in the late seventeenth-century Netherlands in the contentious political milieu surrounding William III's invasion of England, known as the Glorious Revolution. The satires produced between 1688 and 1690 by the Dutch printmaker Romeyn de Hooghe on the events surrounding William III's campaigns against James II and Louis XIV establish many of the qualities that define the genre to this day: the transgression of bodily boundaries, the interdependence of text and image, the centrality of dialogic text to the generation of meaning, serialized production and the emergence of the satirist as a primary participant in political discourse. This study, the first in-depth analysis of De Hooghe's satires since the nineteenth century, considers these prints as sites of cultural influence and negotiation, works that both reflected and helped to construct a new relationship between the government and the governed.

Vincent van Gogh Victoria Charles, 2011-07-01 Vincent van Gogh's life and work are so intertwined that it is hardly possible to observe one without thinking of the other. Van Gogh has indeed become the incarnation of the suffering, misunderstood martyr of modern art, the emblem of the artist as an outsider. An article published in 1890 gave details about van Gogh's illness. The author of the article saw the painter as a terrible and demented genius often sublime sometimes grotesque always at the brink of the pathological Very little is known about Vincent's childhood At the age of eleven he had to leave the human nest as he called it himself for various boarding schools The first portrait shows us van Gogh as an earnest nineteen year old At that time he had already been at work for three years in The Hague and later in London in the gallery Goupil Co In 1874 his love for Ursula Loyer ended in disaster and a year later he was transferred to Paris against his will After a particularly heated argument during Christmas holidays in 1881 his father a pastor ordered Vincent to leave With this final break he abandoned his family name and signed his canvases simply Vincent He left for Paris and never returned to Holland In Paris he came to know Paul Gauguin whose paintings he greatly admired The self portrait was the main subject of Vincent's work from 1886c88 In February 1888 Vincent left Paris for Arles and tried to persuade Gauguin to join him The months of waiting for Gauguin were the most productive time in van Gogh's life He wanted to show his friend as many pictures as possible and decorate the Yellow House But Gauguin did not share his views on art and finally returned to Paris On 7 January 1889 fourteen days after his famous self mutilation Vincent left the hospital where he was convalescing Although he hoped to recover from and to forget his madness but he actually came back twice more in the same year During his last stay in hospital Vincent painted landscapes in which he recreated the world of his childhood It is said that Vincent van Gogh shot himself in the side in a field but decided to return to the inn and went to bed The landlord informed Dr Gachet and his brother Theo who described the last moments of his life which ended on 29 July 1890 I wanted to die While I was sitting next to him promising that we would try to heal him he answered La tristesse durera toujours The sadness will last forever
