Environmental Governance in Indonesia Annisa Triyanti, Mochamad Indrawan, Laely Nurhidayah, Muh Aris Marfai, 2023-02-02 This open access book presents the state-of-the-art environmental governance research and practices in Indonesia. It offers a wide scope covering different sectors, e.g., forestry, mining, and geographical landscapes, e.g., inland and coastal areas. This book engages with existing theories and frameworks including Earth System Governance, Adaptive and Interactive Governance, among others, to trigger a debate regarding the operationalization of such concepts, which are mostly developed for the Global North context. It is also our ambition to incorporate more empirical knowledge from local contexts to indicate research gaps and future directions for environmental governance research agenda to be more diverse, inclusive, and facilitate the incorporation of inter- and transdisciplinary knowledge. This book will be useful for researchers, students, practitioners, and policymakers who are interested in the field of environmental governance, especially in Indonesia. Indonesia is one of the countries with the fastest growing economies in Asia. Indonesia is rich in natural resources but also suffers from overexploitation and environmental threats exacerbated by climate and human pressures. Along with the growing global ambitions for achieving sustainable development and capacity to adapt to current and future threats, including climate change impacts and disaster risk, Indonesia's commitments to balance development

while safeguarding a good environmental status are also increasing The challenge is on how to govern complex and systemic natural social and governance systems while adhering to the principle of equity and justice As it will require more than traditional hierarchical modes of governance and current regulatory instruments i e law and regulations This is an open access book

After Suburbia Roger Keil, Fulong Wu, 2022-08-31 After Suburbia presents a cross section of state of the art scholarship in critical global suburban research and provides an in depth study of the planet s urban peripheries to grasp the forms of urbanization in the twenty first century Based on cutting edge conceptual thought and steeped in richly detailed empirical work conducted over the past decade After Suburbia draws on research from Asia Africa Australia Europe and the Americas to showcase comprehensive global scholarship on the urban periphery Contributors explicitly reject the traditional centre periphery dichotomy and the prioritization of epistemologies that favour the Global North especially North American cases over other experiences In doing so the book strongly advances the notion of a post suburban reality in which traditional dynamics of urban extension outward from the centre are replaced by a set of complex contradictory developments After Suburbia examines multiple centralities and diverse peripheries which mesh to produce a surprisingly contradictory and diverse metropolitan landscape

Public Health and Municipal Policy Making Marjaana Niemi, 2016-04-15 Public health policies had a profound impact on urban life in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries yet relatively few people took an active interest in the formulation of these policies In this book Marjaana Niemi examines the impact of different political aims and pressures on scientific health policies through the analysis of public health programmes in two case studies one in Birmingham and the other in Gothenburg By examining early twentieth century campaigns concerned with infant welfare and the prevention of tuberculosis the book provides illuminating insights into the relationship between public health and the regulation of urban life Not only does the book analyse the processes whereby different political aims became embedded in these apolitical health campaigns but it also highlights the important part that the campaigns played in urban politics and governance The political aims which public health campaigns advanced are explored by comparing health policies in Britain and Sweden where officials were part of one public health community enjoying close links attending the same conferences and contributing to the same journals The problems they dealt with were often similar and in both countries health authorities claimed scientific grounds for their programmes Yet the policies they pursued were often strikingly different Through examination of two different national approaches the book does justice to the full complexity of the policy making process and illuminates the wide range of factors that affected municipal policies

Making Spaces through Infrastructure
Marian Burchardt,Dirk Laak,2023-07-04 Infrastructures are fundamental means through which societies create spaces but little is known about the precise ways in which this occurs How have infrastructures animated certain understandings of space How do infrastructures stabilize or undermine the spatial formats in which we live which shape our everyday practices and which regulate access to services and resources And conversely how do spaces frame the ways infrastructural provision is organized How do existing spaces shape infrastructural development and the scope and forms of access to vital services such as transport and water In this volume historians and sociologists draw on a range of fascinating case studies and provide compelling answers to these questions Exploring among others the provision of irrigation water in nineteenth century Los Angeles the invention of airport transit zones and the infrastructural practices of homeless people in Berlin the book demonstrates how the making of spaces through infrastructure is deeply political Intent on revealing uneven geographies of provision and hierarchies of access the contributors highlight how infrastructures are products of global entanglements

The Urban Community American Sociological Society,1926 A Social History of Anthropology in the United States Thomas C. Patterson,2020-10-22 This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the social history of anthropology in the United States examining the circumstances that gave rise to the discipline and illuminating the role of anthropology in the modern world Thomas C Patterson considers the shifting social and political economic conditions in which anthropological knowledge has been produced and deployed the appearance of practices focused on particular regions or groups the place of anthropology in structures of power and the role of the educator in forging perpetuating and changing representations of past and contemporary peoples The book addresses the negative reputation that anthropology took on as an offspring of imperialism and provides fascinating insight into the social history of America In this second edition the material has been revised and updated including a new chapter that covers anthropological theory and practice during the turmoil created by multiple ongoing crises at the beginning of the twenty first century This is valuable reading for students and scholars interested in the origins development and theory of anthropology Families and Frontiers Kathryn

Edwards,2021-10-01 The frontier of the Early Modern Burgundies In this book Edwards applies in reverse the American frontier concept in order to understand the local changes in family and community in a Burgundy torn in two after the death of Charles the Bold in 1477 During the late fifteenth and early sixteenth centuries residents of the eastern duchy and the western county of Burgundy were in a place and time of transition and transformation a veritable frontier While France and the Holy Roman Empire vied for political control of the region residents struggled to define their social cultural political and economic relationships to each other In the region of the Sa ne River valley detailed case studies and family reconstruction of specific elites from the cities of Dijon Dole and Besan on are discussed The river ironically acted as a roadway not a barrier and facilitated the fluidity of the residents relationships Thus the Burgundian frontier was marked by a tacit acceptance of permeable boundaries and the ensuing choices interchanges negotiations and flexibility inherent to the region Edwards successfully argues that a frontier develops when a previously united region is divided and offers a provocative alternative interpretation to contrast with the national historiography most frequently used by scholars This book enhances our understanding of how pre modern societies created regional identities At Home in Renaissance Bruges Julie De

Groot,2022-03-29 Domestic materiality in a remarkable European city How did citizens in Bruges create a home What did an ordinary domestic interior look like in the sixteenth century And more importantly how does one study the domestic culture of bygone times by analysing documents such as probate inventories These questions seem straightforward yet few endeavours are more challenging than reconstructing a sixteenth century domestic reality from written sources This book takes full advantage of the inventory and convincingly frames household objects in their original context of use Meticulously connecting objects people and domestic spaces the book introduces the reader to the rich material world of Bruges citizens in the Renaissance their sensory engagement their religious practice the role of women and other social factors By weaving insights from material culture studies with urban history At Home in Renaissance Bruges offers an appealing and holistic mixture of in depth socio economic cultural and material analysis In its approach the book goes beyond heavy handed theories and stereotypes about the exquisite taste of aristocratic elites focusing instead on the domestic materiality of Bruges middling groups Evocatively illustrated with contemporary paintings from Bruges and beyond this monograph shows a nuanced picture of domestic materiality in a remarkable European city Cities and Natural Process Michael Hough, 2004

An updated and revised discussion of the fundamental conflict in the perception of nature and an expression of the essential need for an environmental view when approaching urban design
