Hanley, 2016-05-13 Examining the wide ranging implications of Ruskin's engagement with his contemporaries and followers, this collection is organized around three related themes: Ruskin's intellectual legacy and the extent to which its address to working men and women and children was realised in practice; Ruskin's followers and their sites of influence, especially those related to the formation of collections, museums, archives and galleries representing values and ideas associated with Ruskin; and the extent to which Ruskin's work constructed a world wide network of followers, movements and social gestures that acknowledge his authority and influence. As the introduction shows, Ruskin's continuing digital presence is striking and makes a case for Ruskin's persistent presence. The collection begins with essays on Ruskin's intellectual presence in nineteenth century thought, with some emphasis on his interest in the education of women. This section is followed by one on Ruskin's followers from the mid nineteenth century into twentieth century modernism, that looks at a broad range of cultural activities that sought to further repudiate or exemplify Ruskin's work and teaching. Working class education, the Ruskinian periodical, plays and science fiction are all considered, along with the Bloomsbury Group's engagement with Ruskin's thought and writing. Essays on Ruskin abroad in America, Australia and India round out the collection. Journal New South Wales. Parliament. Legislative Council, 1883. How to Build a Global City Michele Acuto, 2022-01-15 In How to Build a Global City

Michele Acuto considers the rise of a new generation of so called global cities: Singapore, Sydney and Dubai, and the power that this concept had in their ascent, in order to analyze the general relationship between global city theory and its urban public policy practice. The global city is often invoked in theory and practice as an ideal model of development and a logic of internationalization for cities the world over. But the global city also creates deep social polarization and challenges how much local planning can achieve in a world economy. Presenting a unique elite ethnography in Singapore, Sydney and Dubai, Acuto discusses the global urban discourses, aspirations and strategies vital to the planning and management of such metropolitan growth. The global city he shows is not one single idea, but a complex of ways to imagine a place to be global and aspirations to make it so, often deeply steeped in politics. His resulting book is a call to reconcile proponents and critics of the global city toward a more explicit engagement with the politics of this global urban imagination. Smart Design Richard

Hu, 2021-11-24 This book tackles the emerging smart urbanism to advance a new way of urban thinking and to explore a new design approach. It unravels several urban transformations in dualities: economic relationality and centrality, technological flattening and polarisation, and spatial division and fusion. These dualities are interdependent, concurrent, coexisting and contradictory; they are jointly disrupting and reshaping many aspects of contemporary cities and spaces. The book draws on a suite of international studies, experiences and observations, including case studies in Beijing, Singapore and Boston, to reveal how these processes are impacting urban design, development and policy approaches. The COVID 19 pandemic has accelerated many changes already in motion and provides an extreme circumstance for reflecting on and imagining urban spaces These analyses thoughts and visions inform an urban imaginary of smart design that incorporates change flexibility collaboration and experimentation which together forge a paradigm of urban thinking This paradigm builds upon the modernist and postmodernist urban design traditions and extends them in new directions responding to and anticipating a changing urban environment The book proposes a smart design manifesto to stimulate thought trigger debate and hopefully influence a new generation of urban thinkers and smart designers It will be of interest to scholars students and practitioners in the fields of urban design planning architecture urban development and urban studies Migrants to the Metropolis

Marie Price, Lisa Benton-Short, 2008-06-27 Immigration today touches the lives and economies of more people and places than ever before Yet the places that are disproportionately affected by immigrant flows are not countries but cities This remarkable collection examines contemporary global immigration trends and their profound effect on specific host cities The book focuses not only on cities with long established diverse populations such as New York Toronto and Sydney but also on less known gateway cities such as Birmingham UK Marseille and the emerging gateways of Johannesburg Washington D C and Dublin The essays gathered here provide a global portrait of accelerating worldwide immigration driven by income differentials social networks and various state policies that recruit skilled and unskilled laborers Gateway cities vary in form and function but many are hyperdiverse globally linked through transnational networks and often increasingly segregated spaces Offering penetrating analysis by the leading scholars in the field Migrants to the Metropolis redirects the global narrative surrounding migration away from states and borders and into cities where the vast majority of economic migrants settle Vortex Cities to Sustainable Cities Phil McManus, 2005 This book examines how Australian cities are becoming unsustainable and suggests possibilities for future actions that move us towards sustainability Chapters on population and demography air quality water quality water availability transport and biodiversity include many new ideas to make our cities more sustainable

Metropolitan Australia Stephen Hamnett, Robert Freestone, 2017-10-24 Australia has long been a highly sub urbanized nation but the major distinctive feature of its contemporary settlement pattern is that the great majority of Australians live in a small number of large metropolitan areas focused on the state capital cities The development and application of effective urban policy at a regional scale is a significant global challenge given the complexities of urban space and governance Building on the editors previous collection The Australian Metropolis A Planning History 2000 this new book examines the recent history of metropolitan planning in Australia since the beginning of the twenty first century After a historical prelude the book is structured around a series of six case studies of metropolitan Melbourne Sydney Adelaide Perth the fast growing metropolitan region of South East Queensland centred on Brisbane and the national capital of Canberra These essays are contributed by some of Australia's leading urbanists. Set against a dynamic background of economic change, restructured land uses, a more diverse population, and growing spatial and social inequality, the book identifies a broad planning consensus around the notion of making Australian cities more contained, compact, and resilient. But it also observes a continuing gulf between the simplified aims of metropolitan strategies and our growing understanding of the complex functioning of the varied communities in which most people live. This book reflects on the raft of planning challenges presented at the metropolitan scale, looks at what the future of Australian cities might be, and speculates about the prospects of more effective metropolitan planning arrangements.
