The Real Jaws Rachel Lee Perez, 2025-08-30 Explores the 1916 New Jersey shark attacks their impact on shark fear and how media shaped harmful misconceptions In the Summer of 1916 a series of shark attacks along the New Jersey shore would send shockwaves across its otherwise peaceful beach towns Spanning a terrifying two weeks including the deaths of nearly five people these attacks would officially cement an innate fear of sharks that humans have felt since the beginning of time Although initially kept under wraps by the tourism industry these attacks would ultimately plaster the front pages of newspapers across the United States and even overseas As the news spread the line between fact and fiction blurred reshaping our cultural and scientific understanding of the beasts of the ocean It was the 1916 shark attacks that would establish our modern day misconstrued perception of sharks as evil man eating monsters and would later inspire the film Jaws which would perpetuate the same harmful narrative The Real Jaws takes an in depth look at each one of the attacks and how they instilled a centuries long fear of the ocean's apex predator It explores the various theories explaining why these attacks may have occurred and the probability of something like this happening again And finally it analyses the way the harmful misconceptions derived from films like Jaws have redefined humanity's relationship with sharks leading humans to become the predators and sharks to become the prey

Sharks in the Shallows W. Clay Creswell, 2021-06-14 A detailed account of over one hundred shark related incidents on the coast of the Carolinas from a shark bite investigator Powerful and mysterious sharks inspire both fascination and fear Worldwide oceans are home to some five hundred species and of those fifty six are known to reside in or pass through the waters off the coast of both North and South Carolina At any given time waders swimmers and surfers enjoying these waters are frequently within just one hundred feet of a shark While it's unnerving to know that sharks often swim just below the surface in the shallows W Clay Creswell a shark bite investigator for the Shark Research Institute's Global Shark Attack File explains that attacks on humans are extremely rare. In 2019 the International Shark Attack File confirmed sixty-four unprovoked attacks on humans, including three in North Carolina and one in South Carolina. While acknowledging that they pose real dangers to humans, Creswell believes the fear of sharks is greatly exaggerated. During his sixteen-year association with the Shark Research Institute, he has investigated more than one hundred shark-related incidents and has maintained a database of all shark-human encounters along the Carolina coastlines back to 1817. Creswell uses this data to expose the truth and history of this often sensationalized topic. Beyond the statistics related to attacks in the Carolina waters, Sharks in the Shallows offers a history of shark-human interactions and an introduction to the world of shark attacks. Creswell details the conditions that increase a person's chances of an encounter, profiles the three species most often involved in attacks, and reveals the months and time of day with the highest probability of an encounter. With a better understanding of sharks' responses to their environment and what motivates them to attack humans, he hopes people will develop a greater appreciation of the invaluable role sharks play in our marine environment.
