

The background of the cover is a detailed historical illustration of a street scene in Macon, Georgia. On the right, a large, multi-story brick building with many windows and balconies stands prominently. A sign on one of the balconies reads "HOTEL". To the left of this building, there are other smaller brick structures, some with signs like "HOTEL" and "STORE". In the foreground, a horse-drawn wagon is being pulled along a dirt road. Several people are visible on the street, including a man in a top hat on the left and others near the wagon. The sky is filled with large, white clouds. The overall style is that of a 19th-century painting.

Macon Georgias Central City An Illustrated History:

Macon, Georgia's Central City Kristina Simms,1989 Macon Stephen Taylor and Matthew Jennings,2013 Macon has been a crossroads of cultures since Native Americans built the massive earthworks that now form the Ocmulgee National Monument In the 19th century fortunes rose and fell with the price of cotton for small farmers and businessmen as well as plantation owners The Civil War destroyed the plantation economy but it left Macon s historic treasures largely undisturbed Though manufacturing replaced plantation slavery cotton and race remained central facts of life as the City of Churches adapted to a changing world From the 1950s onward the city s role as a textile center withered but the likes of Little Richard Otis Redding and the Allman Brothers Band built a musical legacy for Macon that survives today American Civil War Spencer C. Tucker,Paul G. Pierpaoli Jr.,2015-03-24 This two volume encyclopedia offers a unique insight into the Civil War from a state and local perspective showing how the American experience of the conflict varied significantly based on location Intended for general interest readers and high school and college students American Civil War A State by State Encyclopedia serves as a unique ready reference that documents the important contributions of each individual state to the American Civil War and underscores the similarities and differences between the states both in the North and the South Each state chapter leads off with an overview essay about that state s involvement in the war and then presents entries on prominent population centers manufacturing facilities and military posts within each state important battles or other notable events that occurred within that state during the war and key individuals from each state both civilian and military The A Z entries within each state chapter enable readers to understand how the specific contributions and political climate of states resulted in the very different situations each state found itself in throughout the war The set also provides a detailed chronology that will help students place important events in proper order The Rise of the Urban South Lawrence H. Larsen,2014-07-15 Operating under an outmoded system of urban development and faced by the vicissitudes of the Civil War and Reconstruction southerners in the nineteenth century built a network of cities that met the needs of their society In this pioneering exploration of that intricate story Lawrence H Larsen shows that in the antebellum period southern entrepreneurs built cities in layers to facilitate the movement of cotton First came the colonial cities followed by those of the piedmont the New West the Gulf Coast and the interior By the Civil War cotton could move by a combination of road rail and river through a network of cities for example from Jackson to Memphis to New Orleans to Europe In the Gilded Age building on past practices the South continued to make urban gains Men like Henry Grady of Atlanta and Henry Watterson of Louisville used broader regional objectives to promote their own cities Grady successfully sold Atlanta one of the most southern of cities demographically as a city with a northern outlook Watterson tied Louisville to national goals in railroad building The New South movement did not succeed in bringing the region to parity with the rest of the nation yet the South continued to rise along older lines By 1900 far from being a failure in terms of the general course of American development the South had created an urban system suited to its needs while avoiding the promotional frenzy that characterized the building of cities in the North Based upon federal and local sources this book will become the standard work on nineteenth century southern urbanization a subject too long unexplored The Clay-worker, 1911 The log of the clay worker v 100 p 188 193 The Cotton States and International Exposition and South, Illustrated Walter Gerald Cooper, 1896 The Bicentennial of the United States of America American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, 1977 Reconstruction in Georgia Clara Mildred Thompson, 1915 History of Atlanta, Georgia Wallace Putnam Reed, 1889 Columbia University Studies in the Social Sciences, 1915 The Standard, 1916 The Engineering Index Annual for ..., 1911 Since its creation in 1884 Engineering Index has covered virtually every major engineering innovation from around the world It serves as the historical record of virtually every major engineering innovation of the 20th century Recent content is a vital resource for current awareness new production information technological forecasting and competitive intelligence The world's most comprehensive interdisciplinary engineering database Engineering Index contains over 10.7 million records Each year over 500,000 new abstracts are added from over 5,000 scholarly journals trade magazines and conference proceedings Coverage spans over 175 engineering disciplines from over 80 countries Updated weekly Railroads Across North America Claude Wiatrowski, 2007-09-15 A lavish celebration of the glory and grandeur of the great American railroad from the first steam powered trains of the early 19th century to the high speed commuter trains of today Motorcycle Illustrated, 1920

The Desegregation of Public Libraries in the Jim Crow South Shirley A. Wiegand, Wayne A. Wiegand, 2018-04-14 In The Desegregation of Public Libraries in the Jim Crow South Wayne A and Shirley A Wiegand tell the comprehensive story of the integration of southern public libraries As in other efforts to integrate civic institutions in the 1950s and 1960s the determination of local activists won the battle against segregation in libraries In particular the willingness of young black community members to take part in organized protests and direct actions ensured that local libraries would become genuinely free to all citizens The Wiegands trace the struggle for equal access to the years before the Supreme Court's Brown v Board of Education decision when black activists in the South focused their efforts on equalizing accommodations rather than on the more daunting and dangerous task of undoing segregation After the ruling momentum for vigorously pursuing equality grew and black organizations shifted to more direct challenges to the system including public library sit ins and lawsuits against library systems Although local groups often took direction from larger civil rights organizations the energy courage and determination of younger black community members ensured the eventual desegregation of Jim Crow public libraries The Wiegands examine the library desegregation movement in several southern cities and states revealing the ways that individual communities negotiated mostly peacefully sometimes violently the integration of local public libraries This study adds a new chapter to the history of civil rights activism in the mid twentieth century and celebrates the resolve of community activists as it weaves the account of racial discrimination in public libraries through the national
