Transnational Lives in Global Cities Caroline Plüss, 2018-12-21 This book investigates the transnational experiences of Chinese Singaporeans who lived in one of four global cities: Hong Kong, London, New York, or Singapore. Plüss argues that these middle class, well educated and often highly skilled migrants mostly experienced a sense of disembeddedness and not cosmopolitanism or hybridity in their transnational lives. The author's multi-sited study intersects the Chinese Singaporeans' highly varied perceptions of these global cities and their biographies to show that these migrants, who often were repeat migrants, foremost experienced ruptures and disjuncture in their education, work, family and/or friendships, lifestyle contexts. Transnational disembeddedness is explained in terms of the Chinese Singaporeans' access to resources and their views of self, others, places and societies. Plüss recommends that research on these migrants should more fully account for the complexities of transnational processes and contributes with such a knowledge to the scholarship on transnationalism, migration, race and ethnicity and migrant non integration.
