Mickey Pearlman, 2021-03-17 American literature is no longer the refuge of the solitary hero. Like the society it mirrors, it is now a far richer, many-faceted explication of a complicated and diverse society racially, culturally, and ethnically interwoven and at the same time fractured and fractious. Ten women writing fiction in America today: Toni Cade Bambara, Joan Didion, Louise Erdrich, Gail Godwin, Mary Gordon, Alison Lurie, Joyce Carol Oates, Jayne Anne Phillips, Susan Fromberg Schaeffer, and Mary Lee Settle represent that geographic, ethnic, and racial diversity that is distinctively American. Their differing perspectives on literature and the American experience have produced Erdrich's stolid North Dakota plainswomen, Didion's sun-baked dreamers and screamers, the urban ethnics, Irish, Jewish, and black of Gordon, Schaeffer, and Bambara, Oates's small town, often violent neurotics, Lurie's intellectual sophisticates, and the southern survivors and victims, male and female, of Phillips, Settle, and Godwin. The ten original essays in this collection focus on the traditional themes of identity, memory, family, and enclosure that pervade the fiction of these writers. The fictional women who emerge here, as these critics show, are often caught in the interwoven strands of memory, perceive literal and emotional space as entrapping, find identity elusive and frustrating, and experience the interweaving of silence, solitude, and family in complex patterns. Each essay in this collection is followed by bibliographies of works by and about the writer in question that will be invaluable resources for scholars and general readers alike. Here is a readable critical discussion of ten important contemporary novelists who have broadened the pages of American literature to reflect more clearly the people we are. No Telephone to Heaven Michelle

Cliff, 1996-03-01 A brilliant Jamaican American writer takes on the themes of colonialism, race, myth, and political awakening. Originally published in 1987, this critically acclaimed novel is the continuation of the story that began in Abeng, following Clare Savage, a mixed-race woman who returns to her Jamaican homeland after years away. In this deeply poetic novel, Clare must make sense of her middle-class childhood memories in contrast with another side of Jamaica, which she is only now beginning to see: one of extreme poverty. And Jamaica almost a character in the book comes to life with its extraordinary beauty coexisting with deep human tragedy. Through the course of the book, Clare sees the violence that rises out of extreme oppression, the split loyalties of a colonized person, and what it means to be neither white nor Black in that environment. The result is a deeply moving canonical work. A Tree Accurst Daniel W. Patterson, 2003-06-19 On a wintry night in 1831, a man named Charlie Silver was murdered with an axe, and his body burned in a cabin in the mountains of North Carolina. His young wife, Frankie Silver, was tried and hanged for the crime. In later years, people claimed that a tree growing near the ruins of the old cabin was cursed, that anyone who climbed into it would be unable to get out. Daniel Patterson uses this accursed tree as a metaphor for the grip the story of the murder has had on the imaginations of the local community, the wider world, and the noted Appalachian traditional singer and storyteller Bobby McMillon For nearly 170 years the memory of Frankie Silver has been kept alive by a ballad and local legends and by the news accounts fiction plays and other works they inspired Weaving Bobby McMillon's personal story how and why he became a tale teller and what this story means to him into an investigation of the Silver murder Patterson explores the genesis and uses of folklore and the interplay between folklore social and personal history law and narrative as people and communities try to understand human character and fate Bobby McMillon is a furniture and hospital worker in Lenoir North Carolina with deep roots in Appalachia and a lifelong passion for learning and performing traditional songs and tales He has received a North Carolina Folk Heritage Award from the state's Arts Council and also the North Carolina Folklore Society's Brown Hudson Folklore Award
