The 12 research results of Research II indicate that the two-dimensional space (the dimension space) is effective in representing knowledge that goes beyond the dimension space itself.

It would be inappropriate to suggest that the findings indicate that the relationship between the two variables is causal. The findings only suggest that there is a relationship between the two variables.

that was important in securing the election. In light of it, a spirit of unity might be the wisest course. But could he be so trusting to the efforts of a Democratic minority in the next stage of a process — in other words, of more conservative and more solidly held thought and action — to achieve the goals he had in mind? The answer was not clear. He might be able to get some support, perhaps, from the moderate Democratic leadership, but the conservative wing of the party would be powerful in any of the coming elections.
