Clayton, 1970 Nuclear Science Abstracts, 1975 NSA is a comprehensive collection of international nuclear science and technology literature for the period 1948 through 1976 pre dating the prestigious INIS database which began in 1970 NSA existed as a printed product Volumes 1-33 initially created by DOE's predecessor the U S Atomic Energy Commission AEC NSA includes citations to scientific and technical reports from the AEC the U S Energy Research and Development Administration and its contractors plus other agencies and international organizations universities and industrial and research organizations References to books conference proceedings papers patents dissertations engineering drawings and journal articles from worldwide sources are also included Abstracts and full text are provided if available Encyclopaedia of Occupational Health and Safety: Hazards Jeanne Mager Stellman, 1998 Airborne Radioactive Contamination in Inhabited Areas, 2009-08-14 For many decades investigations of the behaviour and implications of radioactive contamination in the environment have focused on agricultural areas and food production This was due to the erroneous assumption that the consequences of credible contaminating incidents would be restricted to rural areas However due to the Chernobyl accident more than 250 000 persons were removed from their homes demonstrating a great need for knowledge and instruments that could be applied to minimise the manifold adverse consequences of contamination in inhabited areas Also today the world is facing a number of new threats including radiological terrorism which would be likely to take place in a city where most people would become directly affected A recent report from the US Commission on the Prevention of Weapons of Mass Destruction Proliferation and Terrorism concludes that it is most likely that a large radiological or even nuclear terror attack on a major city somewhere in the world will occur before 2013 For the first time ever the specific problems of airborne radioactive contamination in inhabited areas are treated in a holistically covering treatise pinpointing factorial interdependencies and describing instruments for mitigation The state of the art knowledge is here explained in Airborne Radioactive Contamination in Inhabited Areas y leading scientists in the various disciplines of relevance Unique holistic description of airborne radioactive contamination of inhabited areas and its consequences State of the art information on problems associated with both accidental and malicious contamination events in particularly dirty bombs Detailed description of processes and parameters governing the severity of contaminating incidents Written by key experts in the world CRC Handbook of Management of Radiation Protection Programs, Second Edition Kenneth L. Miller, 1992-09-25 CRC Handbook of Management of Radiation Protection Programs 2nd Edition is unique in that it offers practical guidance for managing various aspects of radiation protection programs ranging from the daily operation of a health physics office to the preparation of radiation experts for court appearances as professional witnesses. The book also covers such topics as organization and management of nonionizing radiation safety programs with special emphasis on laser safety programs and management of radioactive waste personnel monitoring programs radiation accident victims internal exposure relative radiotoxicity and radiation therapy patients. Other chapters discuss handling radiation accidents and education and training requirements for radiation protection. Legal aspects covered in the book include the history of radiation court cases legal implications of record keeping and preparation for court appearances. CRC Handbook of Management of Radiation Protection Programs 2nd Edition will be a valuable reference resource for medical and health physicists industrial hygienists physicians nuclear engineers radiation protection regulators radiation emergency management agents radiation safety committees and managers of facilities using ionizing and nonionizing radiation sources.

Occupational Hygiene Kerry Gardiner, J. Malcolm Harrington, 2008-04-15 Employees employers and the government have all become very aware of the effects on health of the work environment. As a result this subject area is rapidly developing with recent changes in legislation sampling and measurement methods as well as a new emphasis on the psychological impact of work and the importance of an appropriate work life balance. The purpose of this book is to provide a clear and concise account of the principles of occupational hygiene and as such it is suitable for students studying for degree courses in this subject and for the MFOM. It is also suitable for occupational physicians and nurses to safety representatives and to trade unionists. This edition sees the introduction of nine new chapters covering recently emerged topics such as work life balance work organisation and psychological issues.

Radioactive Contamination of the Tokyo Metropolitan Area Hideo Yamazaki, 2020-10-09 This book presents the 5 year monitoring of radioactive contamination in the Tokyo metropolitan area due to the Fukushima accident covering radiation monitoring of soil litter river water seawater aquatic sediments fish and shellfish and plants in urban areas. Based on spatial and temporal data it evaluates the environmental radiation contamination of the Tokyo metropolitan following the first nuclear accident affecting an urban area since Chernobyl. Since little is known about the contamination in Kiev city this data is particularly valuable offering insights into the dynamics of radioactive contamination in metropolitan areas which are of interest in relation to the behavior of radionuclides resulting not only from nuclear accidents but also from nuclear terrorism. As such this book will be appeal to nuclear and radiation experts environmental administration professionals and specialists in environmental protection groups as well as student and academics in the related fields.
