At the 1975 Winter Conference on Brain Research a series of workshops were held to discuss the role of the sensory environment in the etiology and therapy of brain dysfunction The participants represented a broad range of disciplines ranging from basic neuro science through human development psychology They were linked by a common belief that the role of the sensory environment in brain dysfunction had received insufficient attention Each had made contributions to this question in their own respective disciplines and it was hoped that this meeting would provide an opportunity for cross fertilization and synthesis From these workshops this book evolved Its production would have been impossible without the help of many people Anna Taylor s flexibility allowed the holding of a larger than normal workshop while the authors bore up well under editorial pressure to meet deadlines Linda Coleman and Phyllis Straw provided excellent support from Plenum while Therese Linden gave editorial assistance Valarie Munden Rosemary Schmele and Estelle Hoffman did an excellent job of typing RNW was supported by a Fellowship from the Foundations Fund for Research in Psychiatry As always our families provided continuous support and encouragement To all these people and more we say thank you Roger N Walsh M D B Med Sc Dip Psychol Ph D William T Greenough Ph D Social Metacognition Pablo Briñol, Kenneth DeMarree, 2012-04-27

Metacognition refers to thinking about our own thinking It has assumed a prominent role in social judgment because our thoughts about our thoughts can magnify attenuate or even reverse the impact of primary cognition Metacognitive thoughts can also produce changes in thought feeling and behavior and thus are critical for a complete understanding of human social behavior The present volume presents the most important and advanced research areas in social psychology where the role of metacognition has been studied Specifically the chapters of this book are organized into four substantive content areas Attitudes and Decision Making Self and Identity Experiential and Interpersonal Each section consists in several chapters summarizing much of the work done in recent decades on critical topics such as attitude strength persuasion bias correction self regulation subjective feelings embodiment and prejudice among others This book also emphasizes interpersonal aspects of metacognition as they play an essential role in close relationships groups consumer and clinical interactions Each chapter is written by an expert in the field and presents a state of the art view of the many ways metacognition has been examined by social psychologists

Mindblindness Simon Baron-Cohen, 1997-01-22 In Mindblindness Simon Baron Cohen presents a model of the evolution and development of mindreading He argues that we mindread all the time effortlessly automatically and mostly unconsciously It is the natural way in which we interpret predict and participate in social behavior and communication We ascribe mental states to people states such as thoughts desires knowledge and intentions Building on many years of research Baron Cohen concludes that children with autism suffer from mindblindness as a result of a selective impairment in mindreading For these children the world is essentially devoid of mental things Baron Cohen develops a theory that draws on data from comparative psychology from developmental and from neuropsychology He argues that specific neurocognitive mechanisms have evolved that allow us to mindread to make sense of actions to interpret gazes as meaningful and to decode the language of the eyes A Bradford Book
