Pathways Of Change In Africa Crops Livestock Livelihoods In Mali Ehtiopia:

Pathways of Change in Africa Ian Scoones, 2002 In the literature of sustainable development many have argued for the encouragement of mixed farming involving the integration of livestock and crops on one farm to meet the needs of small scale African farming systems Scoones and Wolmer both with the Environment Group at the Institute of Development Studies U of Sussex argue that behind this argument is the implicit or explicit assumption that mixed farming represents a stage in a normative evolutionary process towards an ideal They suggest that this view is mistaken and that mixed farming is only one of a range of possible pathways of change in agricultural systems They present case studies from Ethiopia Mali and Zimbabwe and analyze how social actors have varying access to resources This variance is often due to institutional arrangements that are too often ignored in discussions of mixed farming and therefore fail to take into account situations that could help development efforts to be more effectively targeted Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Beyond the Crises: Zimbabwe Prospects for Transformation Tendai Murisa,Tendai Chikweche,2015-12-01 Over the past years few African countries have been the focus of discussions and analyses generating a vast array of literature as much as Zimbabwe The socioeconomic and political crises since the turn of the century have deeply transformed the country from the ideals of a vibrant freshly independent nation just two decades earlier These transformations have necessitated the call for the restructuring of Zimbabwean society polity and economy But this literature remains exclusively within the realm of academic thinking and theorising with no concerted effort to move beyond this by explicitly drawing out the policy implications Beyond the Crises Zimbabwe Prospects for Transformation is a welcome addition to the academic and policy literature with a much broader and all embracing focus in terms of policy interventions By focusing on different aspects of social and economic justice Murisa and Chikweche go beyond initiating a broad discussion on these two key pillars of human development with a view to suggesting possible future directions of practical solutions and policy development for the attainment of inclusive social and economic justice for Zimbabweans

The Political Economy of Livelihoods in Contemporary Zimbabwe Kirk Helliker,Manase Kudzai Chiweshe,Sandra Bhatasara,2018-01-12 Since the introduction of the fast track land reform programme in 2000 Zimbabwe has undergone major economic and political shifts and these have had a profound impact on both urban and rural livelihoods This book provides rich empirical studies that examine a range of multi faceted and contested livelihoods within the context of systemic crises Taking a broad political economy approach the chapters advance a grounded and in depth understanding of emerging and shifting livelihood processes strategies and resilience that foregrounds agency at household level Highlighting an emergent scholarship amongst young black scholars in Zimbabwe and providing an understanding of how people and communities respond to socio economic challenges this book is an important read for scholars of African political economy southern African studies and livelihoods

Climate Change and Agriculture in Zimbabwe Mark Matsa,2020-09-03 This book proves through empirical research that indigenous and traditional agricultural communities have experienced severe climate change impacts and have developed corresponding livelihood strategies to strengthen their resilience in a variable climate With a focus on indigenous minority farming communities in the developing region of South Western Zimbabwe the study presents both qualitative and quantitative approaches of data analysis to assess sustainability problems amid climate change and climate variability challenges and proposes potential solutions In eight chapters the book expands on the scarce availability of community based research on climate change and variability in Zimbabwe The book is meant for college and university students and stakeholders involved in development work in rural minority farmer communities especially in climate change prone regions of Africa and other developing countries who have very few options of adaptation and mitigation Critical Perspectives in Rural Development Studies Saturnino M. Borras Jr.,2013-09-13 Agrarian transformations within and across countries have been significantly and dynamically altered during the past few decades compared to previous eras provoking a variety of reactions from rural poor communities worldwide The recent convergence of various crises financial food energy and environmental has put the nexus between rural development and development in general back onto the center stage of theoretical policy and political agendas in the world today Confronting these issues will require re engaging with critical theories taking politics seriously and utilizing rigorous and appropriate research methodologies These are the common messages and implications of the various contributions to this collection in the context of a scholarship that is critical in two senses questioning prescriptions from mainstream perspectives and interrogating popular conventions in radical thinking This book focuses on key perspectives frameworks and methodologies in agrarian change and peasant studies The contributors are leading scholars in the field of rural development studies Henry Bernstein Terence J Byres Saturnino M Borras Jr Marc Edelman Crist bal Kay Benedict Kerkvliet Philip McMichael Shahra Razavi Ian Scoones and Teodor Shanin This book was previously published as a special issue of the Journal of Peasant Studies Understanding Environmental Policy Processes James Keeley,2014-10-14 A critical analysis of the post Rio consensus on environment and development which questions the role of particular forms of internationalized elite scientific expertise It asks why certain understandings of environmental change stick with such tenacity In exploring this the authors unravel the politics of knowledge surrounding policymaking looking particularly at Ethiopia Mali and Zimbabwe and their land and soils management The book also looks at prospects for more inclusive participatory forms of policymaking Sustainable Development: National Aspirations, Local Implementation Alan Terry,2016-04-01 Using case studies from Africa South America Asia and the Caribbean this book examines the progress made in uniting national aspirations of sustainable development strategies with their local implementation Comparing the situation on the ground with formal national environmental action plans the book compares progress or the lack of progress between different sectors cultures regions and resources throughout the developing world It examines whether local knowledge and actions are undermining national aspirations or whether they are being ignored at the national level with detrimental consequences to sustainable development The measurement of sustainable development the role of formal and informal education in sustainable development and the significance of diverse voices in the practice of sustainable development are considered The book draws lessons from those cases which appear to be experiencing positive moves towards sustainability and examines whether common frameworks exist which suggest that good practice may be transferable from one milieu to another Risk, Resettlement and Relations Marleen Dekker, 2004 Sustainable

Poverty Reduction in Less-favoured Areas Ruerd Ruben, J. Pender, Arie Kuyvenhoven, 2007-01-01 Less favored areas with limited agricultural potential or difficult access conditions support 40 percent of the world's rural population suffering from chronic poverty While agricultural innovations and rural development programs have begun to be implemented within developing countries they do not address the specific obstacles faced by this large population Instead a targeted approach is needed to identify different resource management strategies for particular types of households and communities as well as creating balanced investments aimed at sustainable intensification of rural livelihoods Such efforts have been the focus of the research program on Regional Food Security Policies for Natural Resource Management and Sustainable Economies RESPONSE Through the study of less favored areas in Africa Latin America and South and East Asia development pathways allowing for the careful adjustment of resource use strategies at the field farm household and village level are explored

Pastoralism - Making variability work Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-07-21 Pastoral systems have evolved to function with the natural environment and therefore with variability By identifying variability as an entry point this paper aims at i engaging FAO in the mainstreaming of pastoralism by establishing the understanding of pastoralism and its systematic inclusion in the normal operations of FAO and at ii presenting an evidence based narrative on pastoralism to a specialists audience Two main points are made in this document First pastoral systems are emblematic of farming with nature Second pastoral systems make use of variability in inputs the environment by matching it with variability in their own operational processes flexibility in movements animal breeds labour force etc in such a way as to reduce the variability in outputs animal production and health household's food security etc Since 2015 the Pastoralist Knowledge Hub PKH has helped creating an institutional space for connecting and coordinating work on pastoralism within FAO An Inter Departmental Working Group on Pastoralism has been formed The conceptual framework of this paper and early versions have benefited from comments and guidance of FAO staff as well as of specialists of pastoralism worldwide Ploughing New Ground Getnet Bekele, 2017 In October 2016 the Ethiopian administration declared a State of Emergency in response to anti Government demonstrations and mass riots Officially said to result from subversive activities channelled from Eritrea Egypt and diasporic populations in the West the evidence in fact suggests that the riots stemmed from widespread internal dissatisfaction Large scale land dispossessions following bilateral deals with transnational agribusiness damming of major rivers construction of sugar estates and industry parks as well as urban sprawl have put pressure on agricultural and rural areas Today displacement drought and widening inequalities surround fears of severe food shortages and political instability Drawing on informant testimonies court archives field reports and other sources the author examines these developments in Ethiopia's lake region He shows how transformations over time in spatial politics state society relations and the organization of production and exchange have influenced the situation today and reveals the impact of these changes on a population of smallholder farmers for which agriculture is not only the mainstay of the national economy but a way of life Getnet Bekele is Associate Professor of History at Oakland University MI where he teaches African History and the Environmental and Economic History of Africa and the Global South

Revolutions in Development Inquiry Robert Chambers, 2012-05-04 Robert Chambers returns with a new book that reviews together for the first time some of the revolutionary changes in the methodologies and methods of development inquiry that have occurred in the past forty years and reflects on their transformative potential for the future This book breaks new ground by describing and analysing the evolution of a sequence of approaches Starting with the dinosaurs of large scale multi subject questionnaire surveys and the biased visits and perceptions of rural development tourism and urban based professionals there follows a look at the explosive proliferation of methodologies and methods of recent years These include rapid rural appraisal RRA participatory rural appraisal PRA and dramatic developments in the still largely unrecognized fields of participatory numbers and statistics and of participatory mapping and GIS Chambers shows how these can empower local people and provide rigorous and valid substitutes for some more traditional methods of inquiry Also presented is a repertoire for offsetting the biases of the urban trap which has become so serious for officials and aid agency staff Importantly Chambers points out that we are now in a different space methodologically from a few years ago He makes the case that participatory methodologies evolved through creative and eclectic pluralism can be a transformative wave for the future as drivers of personal professional and institutional change This book is for all who are concerned with development regardless of profession discipline or organization who seek to be abreast of the revolutionary breakthroughs in approaches and methods of inquiry of recent years and what Chambers calls their unlimited potentials Published with IDS

Social Dimensions of Climate Change Robin Mearns, Andrew Norton, 2009-12-02 While major strides have been made in the scientific understanding of climate change much less understood is how these dynamics in the physical environment interact with socioeconomic systems This book brings together the latest knowledge on the consequences of climate change for society and how best to address them

Dynamics and Diversity Ian Scoones, 2010-09-23 Soils are critical to agriculture and in turn to food supply and livelihoods Sustainable management of soils is crucial for a large proportion of the population of Africa Contrary to many claims soil fertility is improved and managed successfully by small scale farmers there Careful studies from widely different areas reveal how closely bound up soil management is with complex social cultural and ecological factors requiring a far more subtly tuned approach to development policy and practice This work is a study of how the context of livelihood systems has to inform development policy and practice

Climate Change and Land Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), 2022-12-08 The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC is the leading international body for assessing the science related to climate change It provides policymakers with regular assessments of the scientific basis of human induced climate change its impacts and future risks and options for adaptation and mitigation This IPCC Special Report on Climate Change and Land SRCCL is the most comprehensive and up to date scientific assessment of the multiple interactions between climate change and land assessing climate change desertification land degradation sustainable land management food security and greenhouse gas fluxes in terrestrial ecosystems It assesses the options for governance and decision making across multiple scales It serves policymakers decision makers stakeholders and all interested parties with unbiased up to date policy relevant information This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core

The End of Desertification? Roy H. Behnke, Michael Mortimore, 2016-04-12 The question in the title of this book draws attention to the shortcomings of a concept that has become a political tool of global importance even as the scientific basis for its use grows weaker The concept of desertification it can be argued has ceased to be analytically useful and distorts our understanding of social environmental systems and their resiliency particularly in poor countries with variable rainfall and persistent poverty For better policy and governance we need to reconsider the scientific justification for international attempts to combat desertification Our exploration of these issues begins in the Sahel of West Africa where a series of severe droughts at the end of the 20th century led to the global institutionalization of the idea of desertification It now seems incontrovertible that these droughts were not caused primarily by local land use mismanagement effectively terminating a long standing policy and scientific debate There is now an opportunity to treat this episode as an object lesson in the relationship between science the formation of public opinion and international policy making Looking beyond the Sahel the chapters in this book provide case studies from around the world that examine the use and relevance of the desertification concept Despite an increasingly sophisticated understanding of dryland environments and societies the uses now being made of the desertification concept in parts of Asia exhibit many of the shortcomings of earlier work done in Africa It took scientists more than three decades to transform a perceived desertification crisis in the Sahel into a non event This book is an effort to critically examine that experience and accelerate the learning process in other parts of the world
