Pattern Of Aid Giving The Impact Of Good Governance On Development Assistance:

The Pattern of Aid Giving Eric Neumayer, 2003-04-24 Using econometric analysis the author examines factors that determine patterns of aid giving including aggregate aid flows aid from multilateral organisations and aid from bilateral donors such as Germany Japan the US and Arabia

Foreign Aid Allocation, Governance, and Economic Growth

Kamiljon T. Akramov, 2012-05-22 How important is foreign aid in fostering economic growth in developing countries Does it help recipient countries hurt them or have little effect either way Foreign Aid Allocation Governance and Economic Growth investigates this issue by looking at foreign aid by sector rather than treating it as an aggregate amount Aid can be allocated to a recipient's production sectors such as agriculture manufacturing or mining economic infrastructure such as transport storage or communications networks or power generation facilities or social sectors such as education or healthcare This book differentiates among various channels through which each of these three categories of foreign aid affects economic growth The findings suggest that economic aid including aid to production sectors and economic infrastructure contributes to economic growth by increasing domestic investment Aid to social sectors however does not appear to have a significant impact on human capital measured by school enrollment and economic growth This study also assesses the degree to which the quality of democratic governance in a recipient country influences foreign aid's effectiveness and finds that democracy is no guarantee of aid effectiveness In fact economic aid to less democratic countries can lead to better economic growth at least initially provided the aid recipients secure property rights and allow capital accumulation Although further research into the question is necessary Foreign Aid Allocation Governance and Economic Growth suggests that aid targeted to increasing domestic investment might be an effective means of fostering economic growth in less developed countries

Greening Aid? Robert L. Hicks, Bradley C. Parks, J. Timmons Roberts, Michael J. Tierney, 2008-03-13 Every year billions of dollars of environmental aid flow from the rich governments of the North to the poor governments of the South Why do donors provide this aid What do they seek to achieve How effective is the aid given And does it always go to the places of greatest environmental need From the first Earth Summit in Stockholm in 1972 to the G8 Gleneagles meeting in 2005 the issue of the impact of aid on the global environment has been the subject of vigorous protest and debate How much progress has there been in improving environmental protection and clean up in the developing world What explains the patterns of environmental aid spending and distribution is it designed to address real problems achieve geopolitical or commercial gains abroad or buy political mileage at home And what are the consequences for the estimated 4 million people that die each year from air pollution unsafe drinking water and lack of sanitation All of these questions and many more are addressed in this groundbreaking text which is based on the authors work compiling the most comprehensive dataset of foreign aid ever assembled By evaluating the likely environment impact of over 400 000 development projects by more than 50 donors to over 170 recipient nations between 1970 and 2001 Greening Aid represents a unique state of the art picture of what is happening in foreign assistance and its impact on the environment Greening Aid explains major trends and shifts over the last three decades ranks donors according to their performance and offers case studies which compare and contrast donors and types of environmental aid EU Strategies on Governance Reform Wil Hout, 2013-09-13 This book discusses the European Union's approach to governance reform in its development assistance relationships with various groups of developing countries A group of expert authors outline the general features of the position on governance taken by the EU which is currently the major multilateral donor of development assistance and discuss the implementation of EU policies in a set of cases the group of African Caribbean and Pacific ACP states the New Partnership for Africa's Development NEPAD Southeastern Europe Central Asia the Euro Mediterranean Latin America and fragile states The contributions to the book argue that the EU's position on governance reform particularly since the adoption of the European Consensus on Development in 2005 has had distinctly neoliberal overtones The EU's governance related strategies have been instrumental to deepening market based reform in aid receiving countries Policies on state building adopted by the EU reflect mainly the interests of and ideas embraced by the EU and its member states To an important extent the rhetoric accompanying EU policies does not match with the political and social dynamics inherent in governance structures on the ground in many of its aid recipient partner countries This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly Ideas, Interests and Foreign Aid A. Maurits van der Veen, 2011-09-01 Why do countries give foreign aid Although many countries have official development assistance programs this book argues that no two of them see the purpose of these programmes in the same way Moreover the way countries frame that purpose has shaped aid policy choices past and present The author examines how Belgium long gave aid out of a sense of obligation to its former colonies The Netherlands was more interested in pursuing international influence Italy has focused on the reputational payoffs of aid flows and Norwegian aid has had strong humanitarian motivations since the beginning But at no time has a single frame shaped any one country's aid policy exclusively Instead analysing half a century of legislative debates on aid in these four countries this book presents a unique picture both of cross national and over time patterns in the salience of different aid frames and of varying aid programmes that resulted Managing Development Junji Nakagawa, 2012 Globalization in the 1990s provided both opportunities and challenges for developing and transition economies Though for some it offered the chance to achieve economic growth through active involvement in the integrated and liberalized world economy it also increased their vulnerability to external shocks and volatility As a consequence stakeholders at every level of the development and transition process international organizations national governments and the private sector had to review their strategies in order to adjust to the new world economic environment As the Mexican peso crisis of 1994 1995 and the Asian financial crisis of 1997 1998 showed dramatically the cost of maladjustment was not only very high but it also affected many more stakeholders than before due to the contagious effects of crises This revealing book analyzes the different methods employed to manage globalization and development Bringing together an international team of contributors including Barbara Stallings Alicia Giron and J C Ferraz it will prove to be a valuable resource for those involved in the fields of development economics and political economy Targeting Development Richard Black,Howard White,2003-11-20 The Millennium Development Goals accepted by the UN in 2000 are along with the targets set by the OECD in 1996 the subject of this expertly written book Is development achievable in the time frames given How useful were the goals in the first place How far have we come in solving the aching problems of the developing world These questions and Latecomer Development Banji Oyelaran-Oyeyinka,Padmashree Gehl

Sampath,2009-12-16 The most important issue for development centres on the debate about the centrality of knowledge technology and innovation to the process of economic development While this much is broadly agreed what is at issue is the precise mechanics of overcoming economic development challenges in different contexts At the heart of it all is about how economies at different levels deploy the unending streams of information and knowledge to developmental ends In time the notion of income convergence between the poorer South and the wealthy North has proved a mirage while a new economic divide has in fact occurred within the South itself and as well between regions and within regions The debate relating to latecomers is thus framed in discussions about regions and countries that arrive late to mastering industrialization in achieving economic prosperity through the use of knowledge In other words a new divide has emerged among the latecomers themselves and with it greater conceptual complexity in the ways of our understanding of the divergent ways of economic development We have thus separated fast followers and new late comers This book enters this debate acutely aware of the complexity of this process The authors argue that economic development is largely driven by innovation concentrating on the dynamics of process product and organizational changes and how they are embedded within specific and varied contextual institutions Beyond Market-Driven Development Costas Lapavitsas,2007-04-11 Because their economies were regulated their financial systems repressed and their states interventionist for many years the countries of East Asia challenged the Washington consensus offering an alternative development paradigm However in the 1990 s Asian capitalism was disrupted following Japan s stagnation and the financial crisis of 1997 98 Treading the unexplored theoretical terrain created by the simultaneous decline of the Washington Consensus and Asian developmentalism this revealing book analyzes the comparative political economy of East Asia and Latin America Divided into four key sections it covers Theoretical Framework Results of Globalization Converging and Diverging of Paths of Economic Development Finance and Regionalism Through the juxtaposition of countries in East Asia and Latin America leading academics analyze the impact of government intervention institutional malfunction social transformation and financial change as well as conflict and power on economic development This book will prove to be invaluable to students and academics of development economics Economic Complexity and Human Development Dominik Hartmann,2018-03-12 This book combines the human development approach and innovation economics in order to explore the effects that structural economic change has on human development While economic diversification can provide valuable new social choices and capabilities it also tends to lead to more complex decision processes and changes to the set of capabilities required by people to self determine their future Within this process of structural transformation social networks are crucial for accessing information and social support but networks can also be a root cause of exclusion and inequality reproduction This implies the need to encourage innovation and economic diversification beyond production expansion focusing on the promotion of human agency and social inclusion This book provides such a modern perspective on development economics emphasizing the role of social networks economic diversity and entrepreneurship for social welfare The author discusses how innovation social networks economic dynamics and human development are interlinked and provides several practical examples of social and micro entrepreneurship in contexts as diverse as Peruvian rural villages and Brazil s urban areas The interdisciplinary perspective put forward in this book illustrates theoretical and methodological methods of exploring the complexity of development in a practical and relevant way It also provides useful information about structural factors which need to be considered by practitioners when designing pro poor growth policies Furthermore the coverage of the core concepts of innovation networks and development economics enriched with multiple examples makes it a valuable resource for scholars and advanced students of modern development economics

Development Ethics at Work Denis Goulet, 2006-09-27 In recent years global institutions such as the World Bank have become increasingly conscious of the role that ethical reflection may play in leading towards more successful knowledge and policy for development This key book written by Denis Goulet founder of the field of development ethics gathers together his main contributions in three distinct parts covering the early journeys of the author s thinking an exposition of the main themes he has explored the transition from early alternative development to alternative globalizations Goulet examines the evolution of development ethics illustrates how a development ethicist can function in varied development arenas explores the ethical dimensions of competing change strategies and investigates the language of interdependence which prevails in development discourse The interdisciplinary work traces not only Goulet s own thinking but also wider theoretical debates seeking to integrate the findings of analytical policy and normative sciences as they bear on the development process at the practical level This makes it an essential read for postgraduates and professionals in the field of economics

Culture, Institutions, and Development Jean-Philippe Platteau, Robert Peccoud, 2010-10-04 This book brings together economists sociologists and anthropologists to discuss the role of culture in economic development addressing such issues as religion family ethnic ties entrepreneurship and poverty

Trade Infrastructure and Economic Development David Olusanya Ajakaiye, T. Ademola Oyejide, 2012-03-12 There is growing consensus in the literature that trade and trade policy matter for a pro poor growth and development strategy Therefore policies that are consistent with this strategy feature increasingly in many African countries where poverty is endemic and rapid and where sustainable economic growth is viewed as the major vehicle for poverty reduction Key elements of these policies include measures that promote the expansion and diversification of production and trade in Africa This book is aimed at articulating appropriate structural and policy measures for eliminating the constraints that African countries face and thus ensuring that they can derive maximum benefits from all available market access opportunities There is evidence that most African countries face external market access barriers in their major export destinations which are generally less constraining than those confronting countries in other developing country regions Yet they have generally not been able to take full advantage of the special preferential market access opportunities available to them This suggests that improved external market access whether reciprocal or preferential would not by itself be sufficient for strengthening African export performance In this collection export supply response capacity takes external beyond the border factors as given and concentrates primarily on the internal behind the border factors that influence production and distribution costs and thus competitiveness The central working hypothesis of this book is that the inability of domestic producers and exporters in Africa to respond quickly effectively and efficiently to external market access opportunities is caused by various limitations of their internal supply capacity and that this in turn is largely responsible for the lacklustre export performance of many African countries This comprehensive study should be of interest to students and researchers of international trade and development economics as well as African studies

Energy, Bio Fuels and Development Edmund Amann, Werner Baer, Don Coes, 2011-03-07 This collection examines the important and topical issue of the economic social and environmental implications of concerted attempts to diversify energy sources away from fossil fuels The book expertly examines this issue by focussing on the contrasting experiences of two major economies one developed and the other a rapidly expanding emerging market Energy Bio Fuels and Development evaluates the experience of Brazil with elements of that of the US highlighted for the purpose of comparison A key area of concern surrounds the causes and consequences of the contrasting routes to biofuel production represented by sugar cane in Brazil and corn in the US The book also places the recent biofuels drive in perspective by discussing the broader energy policy context The book shows the complexity and interdependence of the issues involved in moving a society reliant on non renewable energy sources to one based on alternative sources of energy The key conclusion to emerge is that Brazil in pursuing a flexible mix of fossil fuels and bio fuels has greatly diminished its exposure to exogenous energy shocks The US experience in particular its development of corn based ethanol has been more problematic though by no means without successes It is argued that bio fuels should not be seen as a panacea There are clear limits to the efficiency and cost effectiveness of current biofuel production technologies while there remain concerns surrounding potentially adverse effects on food production and rural livelihoods This book should be an excellent resource for students focussing on economic development particularly in the areas of energy biofuels rural development and food supply

Development Dilemmas Melvin D. Ayogu, Don Ross, 2005 The new economy is characterized in the developing world by open capital markets and coordinated international regulation neither of which existed in the colonial period

Employment and Inclusive Development Rizwanul Islam, Iyanatul Islam, 2015-02-11 Issues relating to employment and labour have once again come to the fore of global policy debates in the wake of the widespread unemployment that has accompanied the current financial crisis In the developing world there is a growing realization that productive employment promotion and social protection have to be at the core of inclusive growth and development This book supports the view that employment is a cross cutting issue shaped by macroeconomic and microeconomic policy interventions and provides a capacious framework to analyse the complexity of this global debate. It covers a wide range of issues that have received insufficient attention in the discourse of development and labour economics. These include the impact of macroeconomic policies on employment, labour rights, the development of human capabilities and employability, youth employment, the benefits and costs of labour market flexibility and the importance of social protection for all. This important book aims at filling this gap by revisiting old debates and reconnecting them to the contemporary context, combining analyses with relevant empirical evidence. It will appeal to a diverse readership of academic institutions and think tanks, international organizations, bilateral donors working on development issues and policy makers in developing countries.

African Industrial Development and European Union Co-operation Francis A.S.T. Matambalya, 2014-08-27. Of the 54 African states, only South Africa is categorised by the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) amongst industrialised countries. The economic activities in Africa are still dominated by the production and trade of agricultural and mineral commodities. This situation is in spite of the longstanding Africa-European Union (EU) co-operation which intends, among other things, to support Africa's industrialisation endeavours. Imperatively, a long road to substantive levels of industrialisation still lies ahead of most African countries. This raises the question as to what role the international community could and should play in the twenty-first century to provide the support needed to expedite Africa's industrial transformation. This book argues that to supplement the initiatives of each African country, international partnerships of both a North-South and South-South nature will serve better purposes if they are leveraged to develop productive capacities in African economies. In order to enable the African countries to leverage their traditional partnership with the EU for industrialisation, a paradigm shift is obligatory. A feasible model should emulate the Japanese-led flying geese model and the Chinese-led bamboo capitalism model.
