Construction Cost N/A

DGL was requested by the City of Perrysburg to assess the existing conditions of the 150 plus miles of asphalt and jointed concrete roadway within the corporation limits. The City wanted to obtain an unbiased rating of the current street conditions so future pavement rehabilitations and/or preventative maintenance could be addressed in a systematic and cost effective approach. In addition to an existing condition ranking, our report recommended types of repairs as well as estimated costs for such repairs.

The method used by DGL for assessment and ranking of the City streets was in accordance with ODOT's 2006 Manual – Pavement Conditions Rating System.

As a result of our evaluation project, DGL was contracted for the City's 2015 Resurfacing Program. This project consisted of a $1.2 million construction budget. Our scope included rehabilitation and resurfacing of 15 streets, with a mix of urban and rural classifications. Thirteen of the streets were mill and resurface and two were full depth reclamations (FDR).

Pavement Evaluation Using Road Meters, 1973 Many instruments are available for measuring pavement roughness. Some of these instruments are costly and obtain very detailed data. Most require that pavement condition be measured at low speeds thus demanding that production rates be quite low. For many years engineers have been searching for a device that gives the required information but is inexpensive to produce and operate. The road meter first developed by Max P. Brokaw is a simple device that essentially measures the relative movement of the rear axle of a passenger car with respect to the frame of the car. This device permits obtaining a large amount of data and can in fact be operated by 1 person in a passenger car although generally 2 individuals are required. Because the instrument is new a need has existed to bring together engineers and researchers who are using the device to discuss the experience of various agencies in obtaining pavement condition data by this technique. Special Report National Research Council (U.S.). Highway Research Board, 1972. Principles of Pavement Design E. J. Yoder, M. W. Witczak, 1991-01-08 Presents a complete coverage of all aspects of the theory and practice of pavement design including the latest concepts. Report No. FHWA-RD. United States. Woodstrom, 1990 This synthesis will be of interest to construction engineers, pavement designers, contractors, and others interested in construction of new highway pavements with smooth surfaces. Information is provided on the various devices and specifications that are being used to obtain smooth pavements. The public rates a pavement primarily on its smooth riding characteristics and highway agencies recognize that constructing smooth pavements results in fewer problems later and lower annual maintenance costs. This report of the Transportation Research Board describes the devices and specifications highway agencies use to ensure that newly constructed pavements will provide a smooth ride. Calibration Procedures for Roadmeters P. E. Wouter Gulden, 1986 The research project was conducted to evaluate the performance of an inexpensive non contact roughness measuring device, Roughness Surveyor, as well as the potential use of this device as a calibration reference for Response Type Road Roughness Measuring (RTRRM) systems. A correlation was also conducted between RTRRM systems from three different States: Georgia, Florida, and Minnesota against the Roughness Surveyor, the inertial profilometer owned by the Ohio DOT, and the profilometer designed and operated by the South Dakota DOT. A total of sixteen test sites were selected for the correlation and calibration.
