Raising Boys Achievements In Secondary Schools:

EBOOK: Raising Boys' Achievement in Secondary Schools Mike Younger, Molly Warrington, Ros McLellan, 2005-11-16

Boys achievement has attracted great attention in recent years in many countries. This comprehensive book based on sound research in schools provides practical insights into how the achievement of boys and girls can be raised. It reminds us that it is not all boys or no girls who underachieve. It demonstrates the respective roles of teaching and learning, school culture and social factors. No easy answers but excellent ideas backed by evidence from authoritative thorough researchers with a firm basis in schools. Judy Sebba, Professor of Education, University of Sussex. Teachers will find this book invaluable. It is based on quality research which actually evaluates the impact of the various strategies suggested for raising boys' achievement. What is more, in contrast to many of the more quick fix works in this field, the authors' discussion and analysis is measured and nuanced and supported by an in-depth understanding of the wealth of theory and research around gender and achievement. It provides a welcome and weighty contribution to an ever-controversial debate. Becky Francis, London Metropolitan University. In this important book, the authors evaluate different approaches and advocate practical evidence-based strategies which have the potential to promote boys as well as girls' achievements. The approaches are discussed within the context of inclusivity, acknowledging the diverse needs and interests of different boys and the invisibility and continuing disadvantage of some girls. The book begins and ends with reflections from students of their own school experiences and makes practical recommendations for the future. This book draws upon empirical research and work initiated as part of the DfES project on Raising Boys' Achievement. It brings together theoretical and practical issues and reflects upon the construction of the debate about boys' apparent underachievement from the perspectives of girls as well as boys. The authors critically explore notions of underachievement and value added and consider how useful the concept of the gender gap is in advancing the debates. Raising Boys' Achievement in Secondary Schools is key reading for undergraduate and postgraduate Education students, PGCE students, headteachers, senior managers within schools and local education authorities and policy makers.

Raising Boys' Achievement In Primary Schools Warrington, Molly, Younger, Mike, 2006-06-01

Within the context of empirical research undertaken by the authors during the course of a 4 year research and intervention project on Raising Boys' Achievement, the book will focus on approaches that are successful in raising achievement for boys and the reasons for that success. It will explore the whole aspect of boys' achievement and look at how primary schools are addressing the issue and the processes involved in schools working collaboratively and voluntarily to share good practice. Case study material will be used to illustrate the different contexts in which the strategies have been studied and of great importance is the incorporation of boys and girls' own perspectives on their educational experiences.

Raising Boys' Achievement Jon Pickering, 1997-03-01

Raising Boys' Achievement Jon Pickering, 1997-06-01 Based on sound research and experience

from Gary Wilson one of the UK's leading authorities on boys' achievements this book provides a practical toolkit of proven strategies that enable teachers to raise boys' achievement across all age boundaries. It is a solid introduction to why boys underachieve at school that will enable all teachers to identify the main problems and plan a way forward. Raising Boys' Achievement in Schools Kevan Bleach, 1998. Based on case studies and observations in the school setting the contributors to this study examine ways in which boys can be guided towards better achievement academically. They offer a range of practical solutions to a persistent problem. How to Raise Boys' Achievement Colin Noble, Jerry Brown, Jane Murphy, 2013-01-11. This book gives practical help to anybody who wishes to learn anything about the practical and accessible ways to raise boys' achievement in primary and secondary schools. Its down-to-earth language, easy style and rational sequencing of actions will appeal to all readers. This is essentially a handbook that can be used for reference, background reading, planning, preparing arguments, essays or as a general introduction to one of the most pressing issues in education today. The authoritative case studies and clear explanations of what to do and how to do it will be a boon to all readers. It discusses why some boys underachieve, what can be done to raise achievement and how current national strategies aim to address the problem. It is aimed at headteachers, heads of department, ITT students, governors and parents in all phases of education. Analysing Underachievement in Schools Emma Smith, 2005-06-09. Underachievement in school is one of the most widely used terms in education today. As a discourse it has been responsible for influencing government policy, staffroom discussions as well as the pages of academic journals and the TES. It is also a subject which raises questions about what we expect from a fair and equitable education system. This book provides a critical analysis of two sides of the underachievement debate at each of the three levels of focus: international, the UK and the individual. On the one hand it will consider the crisis account of falling standards and failing pupils and on the other present an alternative account which urges a re-evaluation of the underachievement debate in order to consider who might be underachieving and why. Leading for Equality Jacky Lumby, Marianne Coleman, 2016-10-18. Disentangling the concept of equality in schools can be a tricky task for those in senior middle or classroom leadership. This book will unpack ideas of equality, equity, diversity and social justice providing practitioners and those training to teach with an understanding of equality in order to address educational values and practice. Drawing on a wide range of case studies from schools in England, Wales and Scotland the authors illustrate the importance of leading for equality with a clear and proactive vision for change. The authors explore these key areas: Socio-economic class, Gender, Sexuality, Ethnicity, Religion, Migrant children, Special learning needs and disabilities. This book will serve as a handy guide for postgraduate and undergraduate students on Education Leadership and Inclusive Education courses. Eliminating the Achievement Gap William Jeynes, 2019-10-04. The purpose of the Eliminating the Achievement Gap is to provide a resource for scholars and students into many of the most salient issues, trends and factors that are most effective in reducing the achievement gap. Eliminating the Achievement Gap is particularly unique because it will 1. utilize a meta analysis to determine what factors contribute the most to reducing the achievement gap and 2 examine potential achievement gap reducing variables from across disciplines These disciplines include education sociology economics family science psychology public policy and educational psychology The second emphasis is largely based on the meta analysis because the results of the meta analysis indicate that the best way to completely eliminate the achievement gap is to initiate a multidisciplinary approach to the achievement gap It is the intention of this book to make scholars educators policymakers parents and the general public more aware of the factors that best bridge the achievement gap so that they can take major steps to implementing comprehensive and multidisciplinary efforts The more such efforts are inaugurated the more the achievement gap will be reduced The nine chapters of this book are therefore divided into four parts to reflect this extent of this comprehensive approach

EBOOK: Lads and Ladettes in School Carolyn Jackson, 2006-06-16 FIRST PRIZE WINNER of the SOCIETY FOR EDUCATIONAL STUDIES book award 2006 As a practising youth worker and researcher I found this book a fascinating and engaging read It provides a useful analysis and exploration of the classed and gendered anti school ethic in place presently within many schools and it will provide a meaningful analysis for academics policymakers and practitioners and anyone with an interest in gender education and young people Fin Cullen Goldsmiths College Review in Gender and Education I would therefore urge everyone concerned with what is happening in schools to read this book with its fascinating data and nuanced arguments Heather Mendick London Metropolitan University Review in British Journal of Educational Studies This innovative book looks at how and why girls and boys adopt laddish behaviours in schools It examines the ways in which students negotiate pressures to be popular and cool in school alongside pressures to perform academically It also deals with the fears of academic and social failure that influence pupils school lives and experiences Drawing extensively on the voices of students in secondary schools it explores key questions about laddish behaviours such as Are girls becoming more laddish and if so which girls Do boys and girls have distinctive versions of laddishness What motivates laddish behaviours What are the consequences of laddish behaviours for pupils What are the implications for teachers and schools The author weaves together key contemporary theories and research on masculinities and femininities with social psychological theories and research on academic motives and goals in order to understand the complexities of girls and boys behaviours This topical book is key reading for students academics and researchers in education sociology and psychology as well as school teachers and education policy makers

Boys and Schooling in the Early Years Paul Connolly, 2004-06-11 Boys underachievement in education has now become a global concern taxing the minds of governments across the Western world Boys and Schooling in the Early Years represents the first major study of its kind to focus specifically on young boys and achievement It makes a powerful argument for the need to begin tackling the problem of boys lower educational performance in the early years This book includes one of the most detailed and up to date analyses of national evidence regarding gender differences in educational achievement from the early years through to the end of compulsory schooling Together with original and in depth case studies that vividly capture the differing experiences and perspectives of 5 6 year old boys the book sets out the nature of the problems facing them in education and highlights a number of practical ways in which these issues can begin to be addressed This is essential reading for all those working in the early years who are concerned about boys lower levels of achievement and want to know what they can do about it

Gender and Educational Achievement Andreas Hadjar,Sabine Krolak-Schwerdt,Karin Priem,Sabine Glock,2018-02-02 Gender inequalities in education in terms of systematic variations in access to educational institutions in competencies school marks and educational certificates along the axis of gender have tremendously changed over the course of the 20th century Although this does not apply to all stages and areas of the educational career it is particularly obvious looking at upper secondary education Before the major boost of educational expansion in the 1960s women s participation in upper secondary general education and their chances to successfully finish this educational pathway have been lower than men s However towards the end of the 20th century women were outperforming men in many European countries and beyond The international contributions to this book attempt to shed light on the mechanisms behind gender inequalities and the changes made to reduce this inequality Topics explored by the contributors include gender in science education in the UK women s education in Luxembourg in the 19th and 20th century the gender gap debates and their rhetoric in the UK and Finland sociological perspectives on the gender equality discourse in Finland changing gender differences in West Germany in the 20th century the interplay of subjective well being and educational attainment in Switzerland and a psychological perspective on gender identities gender related perceptions students motivation intelligence personality and the interaction between student and teacher gender This book was originally published as a special issue of Educational Research Changing
