central themes of postcolonial literary studies and delineates how these themes are reflected and elaborated in exemplary literary works by postcolonial authors from around the world It also offers succinct definitions of key terms like Orientalism hybridity Indigeneity or writing back The Biafran War and Postcolonial Humanitarianism Lasse Heerten,2017-09-28

In the summer of 1968 audiences around the globe were shocked when newspapers and television stations confronted them with photographs of starving children in the secessionist Republic of Biafra This global concern fundamentally changed how the Nigerian Civil War was perceived an African civil war that had been fought for one year without fostering any substantial interest from international publics became Biafra the epitome of humanitarian crisis Based on archival research from North America Western Europe and Sub Saharan Africa this book is the first comprehensive study of the global history of the conflict A major addition to the flourishing history of human rights and humanitarianism it argues that the global moment Biafra is closely linked to the ascendance of human rights humanitarianism and Holocaust memory in a postcolonial world The conflict was a key episode for the re structuring of the relations between the West and the Third World Revelations of Dominance and Resilience Apoh, Wazi,2019-07-25 Chinua Achebe The art of fiction famously observed that until lions have their own historians the history of the hunt will always glorify the hunter In this volume chronicling the complex imperial and colonial entanglements of the Kpando region in eastern Ghana over recent centuries the lions have found their proverbial historian Drawing on an array of sources archaeological oral historical and documentary Wazi Apoh brings locally nuanced perspective to the complex social political economic entanglements among Akpini German and British actors His illumination of previously silenced histories provides a rich platform from which to provoke us to imagine and act on the possibilities for restorative repatriation in the present Its novel combination of historical study with analysis of ongoing dialogues over repatriation is a unique contribution to African studies Postcolonialism and Development Cheryl McEwan,2008-11-20

While the possibility of producing a de colonized postcolonial knowledge in development studies became a subject of considerable debate in the 1990s there has been little dialogue between postcolonialism and development However the need for development studies that is postcolonial in theory and practice is now increasingly acknowledged This means recognizing the significance of language and representation the power of development discourse and its material effects on the lives of people subject to development policies It also means acknowledging the already postcolonial world of development in which contemporary reworkings of theory and practice such as grassroots and participatory development indigenous knowledge and global resistance movements inform postcolonial theory Postcolonialism and Development explains reviews and critically evaluates recent debates about postcolonial approaches and their implications for development studies By outlining contemporary theoretical debates and examining their implications for how the developing world is thought about written about and engaged with in policy terms this book unpacks the difficult complex and important aspects of the relationship between postcolonial approaches and development studies making them accessible interesting and relevant to both students and researchers Each chapter builds an understanding of postcolonial approaches their historical divergences from development studies and more recent convergences around issues such as discourses of development knowledge and power and agency within development Up to date illustrations and examples from across the regions of the world bring to life important theoretical and conceptual issues This topical book outlines an agenda for theory and practice within postcolonial development studies and illustrates how while postcolonialism and development pose significant mutual challenges both are potentially enriched by each others insights and approaches

Transforming Graduate Biblical Education Elisabeth Schüssler Fiorenza, Kent Harold Richards, 2010 This unique collection of essays originating in seminars held at SBL's Annual and International Meetings explores the current ethos and discipline of graduate biblical education from different social locations and academic contexts It includes international voices of well established scholars who have urged change for some time alongside younger scholars with new perspectives The individual contributions emerge from a variegated set of experiences in graduate biblical studies and a critical analysis of those experiences The volume is divided into four areas of investigation The first section discusses the ethos of biblical studies and social location and the second explores different cultural national formations of the discipline The third section considers the experiences and visions of graduate biblical studies while the last section explores how to transform the discipline All the contributions offer ways to transform graduate biblical education so that it becomes a socializing power that in turn can transform the present academic ethos of biblical studies
