Kucich,2015-03-24 In this exceptional book Kucich reveals through his readings of literary and historical accounts that spiritualism helped shape the terms by which Native American European and African cultures interacted in America from the earliest days of contact through the present Beginning his study with a provocative juxtaposition of the Pueblo Indian Revolt and the Salem Witchcraft trials of the seventeenth century Kucich examines how both events forged contact zones spaces of intense cultural conflict and negotiation mediated by spiritualism Kucich goes on to chronicle how a diverse group of writers used spiritualism to reshape a range of such contact zones These include Rochester New York where Harriet Jacobs adapted the spirit rappings of the Fox Sisters and the abolitionist writings of Frederick Douglass as she crafted her own story of escape from slavery mid century periodicals from the Atlantic Monthly to the Cherokee Advocate to the Anglo African Magazine post bellum representations of the afterlife by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Mark Twain and the Native Americans who developed the Ghost Dance turn of the century local color fiction by writers like Sarah Orne Jewett Charles Chesnutt and Maria Cristina Mena and the New England reformist circles traced in Henry James's The Bostonians and Pauline Hopkins's Of One Blood Kucich's conclusion looks briefly at New Age spiritualism then considers the implications of a cross cultural scholarship that draws on a variety of critical methodologies from border and ethnic studies to feminism to post colonialism and the public sphere The implications of this study which brings well known canonical writers and lesser known writers into conversation with one another are broadly relevant to the resurgent interest in religious studies and American cultural studies in general General Catalogue of the Books Detroit Public Library, 1889
