Teaching and Learning English in East Asian Universities Lan Li, David D. Qian, 2014-10-02 The 25 chapters contained in this book were all written by scholars working in the field of applied linguistics and English language teaching in various East Asian contexts East Asia is large and diverse in terms of socio economic linguistic and ethnic parameters Statistics alone cannot give a clear understanding of what goes on in rural and urban universities and what challenges English language teachers and learners face in those contexts To understand this wide gamut of issues in English language teaching in East Asia is thus a very large undertaking The book addresses some of these issues arranging its 25 chapters into five sections namely Assessing Language Performance Teaching English Writing Learner Autonomy Corpus and Discourse Research and Learning English in East Asian Contexts Many of the chapters in this volume concern familiar topics such as linking assessment to teaching learning and curriculum conducting assessment validation research examining meta cognitive strategies investigating teaching and learning English for academic purposes and profiling prevailing word lists for language learners Other chapters are on novel or lesser known topics such as non verbal delivery in speaking assessment the use of visualization as a reading strategy learner strategies in a Facebook corpus effects of discourse signaling cues and rate of speech and an ontogenetic analysis of college English textbooks Collectively these chapters showcase English language learning teaching and assessing in a range of contexts using a variety of methods and techniques to deal with issues relevant to East Asian teachers learners and researchers

Linguistic Diversity and Teaching Nancy L. Commins, Ofelia B. Miramontes, 2006-04-21 Linguistic Diversity and Teaching raises questions and provides a context for reflection regarding the complex issues surrounding new English learners in the schools These issues exist within a highly charged political climate and involve not only language but also culture class ethnicity and the persistent inequities that characterize our educational system The text addresses these issues through conversations among experts practitioners and readers that are informed by representative case studies and by a range of theoretical approaches It is designed to engage readers in beginning to evolve their own practical theories to help them explore and perhaps modify some basic beliefs and assumptions and to become acquainted with other points of view Throughout readers are encouraged to interact with the text and to develop their own perspective on the issue of linguistic diversity and teaching This is the fourth volume in Reflective Teaching and the Social Conditions of Schooling A Series for Prospective and Practicing Teachers edited by Daniel P Liston and Kenneth M Zeichner It follows the same format as previous volumes in the series Part I includes four cases dealing with different aspects of the impacts of the changing demographics of public schools Each case is followed by space for readers to write their own reactions and reflections and a set of reactions to the cases written by prospective and practicing teachers administrators and professors Part II presents three public arguments representing very different views about linguistic diversity in public schools English should be the only language of instruction all children should receive instruction in both their first language and English planning for instruction should be based not on absolutes but on what is realistically possible in particular settings Part III offers the authors own interpretations of the issues raised throughout the text outlines a number of ways in which teachers can continue to explore these topics and includes exercises for further reflection A glossary and annotated bibliography are provided This text is pertinent for all prospective and practicing teachers at any stage of their training It can be used in any undergraduate or graduate course that addresses issues of language diversity and teaching
