Abell,Norman G. Lederman,2013-03-07 This state of the art research Handbook provides a comprehensive coherent current synthesis of the empirical and theoretical research concerning teaching and learning in science and lays down a foundation upon which future research can be built The contributors all leading experts in their research areas represent the international and gender diversity that exists in the science education research community As a whole the Handbook of Research on Science Education demonstrates that science education is alive and well and illustrates its vitality It is an essential resource for the entire science education community including veteran and emerging researchers university faculty graduate students practitioners in the schools and science education professionals outside of universities The National Association for Research in Science Teaching NARST endorses the Handbook of Research on Science Education as an important and valuable synthesis of the current knowledge in the field of science education by leading individuals in the field For more information on NARST please visit <http://www.narst.org> Science Education in Context Richard K. Coll,Neil Taylor,2019-02-18 This book presents an international perspective of the influence of educational context on science education The focus is on the interactions between curriculum development and implementation particularly in non Western and non English speaking contexts i e outside the UK USA Australia NZ etc An important and distinguishing feature of the book is that it draws upon the experiences and research from local experts from an extremely diverse cohort across the world 26 countries in total The book addresses topics such as curriculum development research or evaluation of an implemented curriculum discussion of pressures driving curriculum reform or implementation of new curricula e g technology or environmental education the influence of political cultural societal or religious mores on education governmental or ministerial drives for curriculum reform economic or other pressures driving curriculum reform the influence of external assessment regimes on curriculum and so on Resources in Education ,2000-10 Asia's High Performing Education Systems Colin Marsh,John Chi-Kin Lee,2014-07-17 Education officials specialist leaders and teachers have all been involved in different ways to bring about school reform in Hong Kong This book is a very current and relevant analysis of this reform highlighting the way in which agencies have cooperated in bringing about change over the last several decades Through a process of wide ranging decision making collaboration and consensus among key bodies and agencies of change some important developments have occurred The reforms collectively have had and are continuing to have a major impact upon schooling in Hong Kong This volume represents a range of authors and specialists involved in a number of different reforms covering themes such as historical policy contexts new curriculum approaches changing pedagogies school leadership implementation and change and assessment and evaluation This is a very topical book which provides a probing analysis of how an Asian education system has been able to reach and maintain a very high performing level

Making Sense of Learning Norman Reid, Asma Amanat Ali, 2020-08-25 This textbook brings together findings from global research on teaching and learning with an emphasis on secondary and higher education The book is unique in that the content is selected in an original way and its presentation reflects the most recent research evidence related to understanding The book covers and presents themes that are based tightly on worldwide research evidence scrupulously avoiding opinion or any dependence on the personal experience of the authors The book starts by reflecting on educational research itself The four chapters that follow relate the story of the research that shows how all humans learn and the variations within that framework These chapters offer a tight framework that underpins much of the rest of the text The next four chapters look at the way school curricula are organised and how the performance of learners can be assessed They summarise the research evidence related to thinking skills and consider the importance of practical teaching This is followed by two chapters that draw from the extensive social psychology research on attitude development as it applies in education and then by two chapters that summarise the research related to major issues of controversy the performativity agenda and the issue of quality One chapter looks at the place of statistics in education The next two chapters look at the evidence that can support or undermine many typical education beliefs or myths and mirages Finally the last chapter brings it all together and looks into the future pointing to some areas where future research is likely to be helpful based on current knowledge

Assessment Reform in Science Benny B.H.W Yung, 2006-02-03 Fairness and Fear I was startled at the subtitle of the book when I first heard it Our series has some imaginative titles but none so evocative as this one But fear and fairness capture much of teacher thinking about assessment Indeed teachers struggle to be fair with students certainly concerned and often fearful of failures to be fair and repercussions that teachers can face as a result Then there is the fearful enterprise of imposed assessment regimes that many teachers face Dr Yung's book allows us to hear from the teachers on these concerns this is no top down policy statement His account is readable and highly instructive and I hope that copies will find their way to the desks of many school administrators and policy personnel We are indeed pleased to release this volume William W Cobern Book Series Editor 2000 2005 Foreword by Peter Fensham Two things are very clear to me about formal educational systems What is assessed in these systems determines what teachers and students recognize as knowledge of worth Teachers in general are conscientious in doing their best to ensure that their students will learn this knowledge of worth well Science has now been widely acknowledged to be a core or key subject in the overall curriculum of schooling at all levels Register of Educational Research in the United Kingdom National Foundation For Educational Research, 2005-11-30 First published in 1998 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Valuing Assessment in Science Education: Pedagogy, Curriculum, Policy Deborah Corrigan, Richard Gunstone, Alister Jones, 2013-06-05 Assessment is a fundamental issue in research in science education in curriculum development and implementation in science education as well as in science teaching and learning This book takes a broad and deep view of research involving assessment in science education across contexts and cultures from whole countries to individual classrooms and across forms and purposes from assessment in the service of student learning to policy implications of system wide assessment It examines the relationships between assessment measurement and evaluation explores assessment philosophies and practices in relation to curriculum and scientific literacy learning and details the relationships between assessment and science education policy The third in a series Valuing Assessment in Science Education has chapters from a range of international scholars from across the globe and staff from Monash University King s College London and University of Waikato The two previous books in the series examined research relevant to the re emergence of values in science education and teaching across the spectrum of science education as well as across cultural contexts through the professional knowledge of science teaching This third book now moves to examine different aspects of generating understanding about what science is learnt how it is learnt and how it is valued Valuing Assessment in Science Education will appeal to all those with some engagement with and or use of research in science education including research students academics curriculum development agencies assessment authorities and policy makers It will also be of interest to all classroom science teachers who seek to keep abreast of the latest research and development and thinking in their area of professional concern New Horizon of Psychological Assessment in Education (Penerbit USM) Melissa Ng Lee Yen Abdullah, Lim Hooi Lian, Hairul Nizam Ismail, 2019-08-09 Psychological assessments are used in the field of education to find answers for the questions raised concerning the student s intellectual academic social and emotional functioning The collection integration and interpretation of all information and data gathered from the assessment will enable better understanding of the student s characteristics and capacities More effective interventions recommendations and referrals can then be implemented This book offers researchers and practitioners insights on assessment concepts and practices that are in line with the demand of education in the 21st century As the new horizon unfolded there is a paradigm shift in assessment moving from macro to micro level of learning from accountability of school to supporting teaching and learning from summative to formative and diagnostics from assessing achievement of individuals to catering of learning needs of diverse learners The new horizon of assessment serves as catalysis for more effective psychological assessment in educational research and practice
