Beeharry, 1998-01-01 The overarching objective of the World Bank's assistance to Sub-Saharan African countries is poverty reduction through sustained economic growth at a high level and improved social services Past experience shows that a minimum level of educational attainment has been a prerequisite for the success of such a strategy The current level of education development has been low and the development of primary education has stagnated and even declined in some countries since the early 1980s This paper examines the likely causes for deteriorating enrollment rates in Africa It looks at the constraints in the demand for schooling and gives possible reasons for stagnation

International Handbook of Urban Education William T. Pink, George W. Noblit, 2008-09-03 It is evident that urban education has become the central focus of educators at the present time In the U S for example almost one third of all school age children attend schools in large urban school districts It is in these urban schools where the diversity of cultures and languages is highest and where student learning is most problematic What has emerged from recent work to improve urban schools is the insight that there is no one size fits all panacea Rather we have discovered that the local context shapes in critically important ways what will be effective at the school level The universality of the problematics with urban education together with the importance of understanding the local or situated context of improvement interventions brings into sharp focus the importance and timeliness of an undertaking like the International Handbook of Urban Education An important focus of the International Handbook of Urban Education will be the interrogation of both the social and political factors that lead to different problem posing and subsequent solutions within each region An important question to be answered for example is what it takes in terms of resources political will and policy actions to improve urban education

Resources in Education

Ghana Shiyen Chao,1999-01-01 Ghana is an extremely diverse country ethnically culturally ecologically and economically Women and men play different roles undertake different activities and face different constraints Gender based differences in their activities and practices result from existing gender inequalities Because these gender differences are often fundamental to men and women s livelihoods understanding them is essential to designing policies and projects that will effectively reduce gender inequalities and promote sustainable development A growing body of literature indicates that reducing gender inequalities and increasing women s access to productive resources greatly improves both welfare and economic productivity Despite recent gains in some areas significant gender inequalities continue to limit women s capabilities and constrain their ability to participate in and contribute to Ghana s economy This report examines key gender inequalities and gender based differences in economic activities opportunities and constraints focusing on two broad areas the links between gender economic productivity and poverty and the development of human capital It is the result of the World Bank s recognition of the need to understand gender issues in order to develop strategies to deal with them and support the government s program to develop a gender strategy In addition it is intended to further the dialogue between the Bank the government other donors and nongovernmental organizations NGOs on how to reduce or eliminate gender specific constraints on economic development in Ghana      Unleashing Russia's Business Potential Harry G. Broadman, 2002-01-01

Russia needs to continue to assess and improve its business environment in order to ensure continuing investment and sustained growth Currently many of the new businesses are being established in the larger urban areas but similar new businesses need to develop at the regional level This book based on in depth case studies of more than 70 companies across 13 regions in Russia examines four areas key to institutional development and formulates policy recommendations Topics include the determinants of inter enterprise competition and market structure at the local level the regulatory regime governing the price supply and access to local infrastructure services access to corporate finance in regional markets and the legal system for resolution of commercial disputes      Economic Growth with Equity K. J. Langford, Christine L. Forster, Duncan M. Malcolm, 1999 Latin America and the Caribbean Region Viewpoints Many articles have been written about the causes of financial crises in emerging market Much less attention has been devoted to the effectiveness of alternative policy responses and the ensuing process of recovery of the real economy This paper analyzes the adjustment process in the aftermath of speculative attacks in six countries Argentina Brazil Mexico Indonesia Korea and Thailand As implied by the title the main question to be addressed is whether the tales of adjustment in these Latin American and Asian economies were similar This comparison is interesting for several reasons The six countries came under the aegis of adjustment programs supported by international financial institutions and the associated policy prescriptions have been at the center of attention Of the six cases one is an example of a successful defense of the currency while another exemplifies a temporarily successful defense followed by an incomplete adjustment program The others experienced dramatic currency devaluations This small sample of episodes of adjustment also offers variety in the magnitude of the ensuing economic decline While the Mexican and Argentine crises of 1995 and even the Brazilian adjustment after the October 1997 attack against its currency were certainly costly the Asian crises have been deeper and the recovery of the real economy has been slower The paper draws policy implications for reducing the costs of the macroeconomic adjustment after currency crises Also available English edition 1999 52 pages Stock no 14541 ISBN 0 8213 4541 9      Market-based Instruments for Environmental Policymaking in Latin America and the Caribbean Richard M. Huber, H. Jack Ruitenbeek, Ronaldo Seroa da Motta, 1998 To preserve the environment with the lowest possible cost to the social sector means that private costs should be aligned with social costs Many governments in the Latin American and Caribbean Region are doing this now using market based instruments MBIs This publication investigates the use of MBIs in the Latin America and the Caribbean LAC context The investigation covers a sample of eleven countries in the region and a cross section of environmental issues in an urban setting      Gender-related Legal Reform and Access to Economic Resources in Eastern Africa Gita Gopal, 1999 The impetus for change in African legal reform is coming primarily from African women themselves as they respond to their personal and practical experiences with the law Top down imposition of norms has not worked if legal reform is to lead to sustainable equity for women the voices of these women must be heard Given that previous efforts to ensure greater equity in personal laws have not been fully successful in eastern African countries any new legal initiatives must not repeat the mistakes of the past Law must not again remain merely on the books as a legitimizing tool that reinforces or supports gender discrimination but must actively protect and guard the interests of both men and women This paper attempts to draw out some possible lessons from past experience to inform new efforts at legal reform in these countries It examines the laws related to allocation of economic resources within households in the broader historical social and cultural context in some of these countries and examines the effectiveness of these laws in challenging gender relationships
