Secret Conversions To Judaism In Early Modern Euro:

Secret conversions to Judaism in early modern Europe [electronic resource] Martin Mulsow, Richard Henry Popkin, 2004
This volume deals with conversions to Judaism from the 16th to the 18th century. It provides six case studies by leading international scholars on phenomena as crypto Judaism, judaizing, reversion of Jewish Christian converts, and secret conversion of non Jewish Christians for intellectual reasons. The first contributions examine George Buchanan and John Dury followed by three studies of the milieu of late seventeenth century Amsterdam. The last essay is concerned with Lord George Gordon and Cabbalistic Freemasonry. The contributions will be of interest for intellectual historians but also historians of political thought or Jewish studies. Contributors include Elisheva Carlebach, Allison P. Coudert, Martin Mulsow, Richard H. Popkin, Marsha Keith Schuchard, and Arthur Williamson.

Early Modern Religious Communities in East-Central Europe István Keul, 2009. Conceived as another chapter in the European history of religions, Europäische Religionsgeschichte, this book deals with the intense dynamics of the overlapping political, ethnic, and denominational constellations in Reformation and post Reformation Transylvania. Navigating along multiple narrative tracks and attempting to treat the religious history of an entire region over a limited time period in a differentiated polyfocal way, the book represents a departure from the master narratives of any singularly oriented religious history. At the same time, the present work seeks to contribute to laying the groundwork at the micro and meso contextual level of East Central European confessionalization processes and to developing interpretive models for these processes in the region.

Conversion, Circumcision, and Ritual Murder in Medieval Europe Paola Tartakoff, 2020-01-17. A investigation into the thirteenth century Norwich circumcision case and its meaning for Christians and Jews. In 1230 Jews in the English city of Norwich were accused of having seized and circumcised a five year old Christian boy named Edward because they wanted to make him a Jew. Contemporaneous accounts of the Norwich circumcision case as it came to be called recast this episode as an attempted ritual murder. Contextualizing and analyzing accounts of this event and others with special attention to the roles of children, Paola Tartakoff sheds new light on medieval Christian views of circumcision. She shows that Christian characterizations of Jews as sinister agents of Christian apostasy belonged to the same constellation of anti Jewish libels as the notorious charge of ritual murder. Drawing on a wide variety of Jewish and Christian sources, Tartakoff investigates the elusive backstory of the Norwich circumcision case and exposes the thirteenth century resurgence of Christian concerns about formal Christian conversion to Judaism. In the process, she elucidates little known cases of movement out of Christianity and into Judaism as well as Christian anxieties about the instability of religious identity. Conversion, Circumcision, and Ritual Murder in Medieval Europe recovers the complexity of medieval Jewish Christian conversion and reveals the links between religious conversion and mounting Jewish Christian tensions. At the same time, Tartakoff does not lose sight of the mystery surrounding the events that spurred the Norwich circumcision case and she concludes the book by offering a solution of her own. Christians and Jews, she posits, understood these events in fundamentally irreconcilable ways illustrating the chasm that separated Christians and Jews in a world in which some Christians and Jews knew each other intimately

The Oxford Handbook of Early Modern English Literature and Religion Andrew Hiscock, Helen Wilcox, 2017 This handbook scrutinises the links between English literature and religion specifically in the early modern period the interactions between the two fields are explored through an examination of the literary impact the British church had on published work in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries

Jewish Christians in Puritan England Aidan Cottrell-Boyce, 2022-11-24 Among the proliferation of Protestant sects across England in the seventeenth century a remarkable number began adopting demonstratively Jewish ritual practices From circumcision to Sabbath keeping and dietary laws their actions led these movements were labelled by their contemporaries as Judaizers with various motives proposed Were these Judaizing steps an excrescence of over exuberant biblicism Were they a by product of Protestant apocalyptic tendencies Were they a response to the changing status of Jews in Europe In Jewish Christians in Puritan England Aidan Cottrell Boyce shows that it was instead another aspect of Puritanism that led to this behaviour the need to be recognised as a singular positively distinctive Godly minority This quest for demonstrable uniqueness as a form of assurance united the Judaizing groups with other Protestant movements while the depiction of Judaism in Christian rhetoric at the time made them a peculiarly ideal model upon which to base the marks of their salvation

Conversion Miriam Bodian, 2025-11-11 In Conversion Miriam Bodian considers the now universalized term conversion in a Jewish context as broadly as possible as an act of socioreligious boundary crossing It charts how across the long arc of Jewish history from biblical times to the present patterns of boundary crossing have developed and shifted whether of

Gentiles entering Jewish life or of Jews exiting from it It analyzes the biblical passages that have informed Jewish thinking about what is required to become a Jew before turning to the early rabbinic institution of a ritualized process of conversion It then considers the protean ways in which Gentiles have become Jews and Jews have joined other religious communities from medieval to modern times A further section is devoted to the complexities of conversion in the contemporary Jewish world where conversions are not necessarily recognized across denominations where substantial intermarriage has eroded the traditional boundaries between Jew and Gentile and where the modern state of Israel plays a role that reaches beyond its borders in determining who is a Jew

Inventing the Public Sphere (2 Vols.) Leif Malm, 2007-10-30 This book deals with public debate during the Investiture Contest ca 1040-1122 During this revolutionary struggle between the secular and the religious powers polemical writers contributed to the arguably first public debate in medieval Europe A close reading of a selection of these polemics offers new views on the functioning of the medieval public sphere as well as how the public framework circumscribing the writers led to argumentative innovations These include an increasing concern with interpretation and contextualisation resulting in a more critical and probing intellectual community Public debate during the Contest taught intellectuals how to argue in public and in that respect transferred a lasting legacy to the later Middle Ages and beyond

Reclaiming Rome: Cardinals in the Fifteenth Century Carol Mary Richardson, 2009-03-25 The fifteenth century was a critical juncture for the College of Cardinals They were accused of prolonging the exile in Avignon and causing the schism At the councils at the beginning of the period their very existence was questioned They rebuilt their relationship with the popes by playing a fundamental part in reclaiming Rome when the papacy returned to its city in 1420 Because their careers were usually much longer than that of an individual pope the cardinals combined to form a much more effective force for restoring Rome In this book shifting focus from the popes to the cardinals sheds new light on a relatively unknown period for Renaissance art history and the history of Rome Dr Carol M Richardson has been awarded the Philip Leverhulme Prize 2008 in the field of History of Arts
