promise Right Morgan Jewell and Fay Ramsey are enjoying their last summer together before college Fay is shy with a controlling mother and Morgan is the perfect wild loud mouthed yang to Fay's yin But when Fay is found dead Morgan's entire world crumbles Years later Morgan is still haunted by the abrupt end to her best friend's life She knew Fay held a secret in those final days but Morgan now a homicide detective has failed to make a picture out of the crooked puzzle pieces she left behind Nothing makes sense The leads have run dry Until she's called to the scene of a murder a woman whose body is left mangled too similar to Fay's to ignore Could it be Morgan vowed to do right by Fay This is the case she's been waiting for to set her back on the killer's trail But the closer she gets the harder it forces her to confront the memories of herself and her best friend What was her secret What got her killed Maybe Morgan didn't know her at all

Self and Story in Russian History Laura Engelstein, Stephanie Sandler, 2018-08-06 Russians have often been characterized as people with souls rather than selves Self and Story in Russian History challenges the portrayal of the Russian character as selfless self effacing or self torturing by exploring the texts through which Russians have defined themselves as private persons and shaped their relation to the cultural community The stories of self under consideration here reflect the perspectives of men and women from the last two hundred years ranging from westernized nobles to simple peasants from such famous people as Tolstoy Dostoyevsky Akhmatova and Nicholas II to lowly religious sectarians Fifteen distinguished historians and literary scholars situate the narratives of self in their historical context and show how since the eighteenth century Russians have used expressive genres including diaries novels medical case studies films letters and theater to make political and moral statements The first book to examine the narration of self as idea and ideal in Russia this vital work contemplates the shifting historical manifestations of identity the strategies of self creation and the diversity of narrative forms Its authors establish that there is a history of the individual in Russian culture roughly analogous to the one associated with the West

American Fiction in Transition Adam Kelly, 2013-04-25 American Fiction in Transition is a study of the observer hero narrative a highly significant but critically neglected genre of the American novel Through the lens of this transitional genre the book explores the 1990s in relation to debates about the end of postmodernism and connects the decade to other transitional periods in US literature Novels by four major contemporary writers are examined Philip Roth Paul Auster E L Doctorow and Jeffrey Eugenides Each novel has a similar structure an observer narrator tells the story of an important person in his life who has died But each story is equally about the struggle to tell the story to find adequate means to narrate the transitional quality of the hero's life In playing out this narrative struggle each novel thereby addresses the broader problem of historical transition a problem that marks the legacy of the postmodern era in American literature and culture
