Mackinnon And East Africa 1878 1895 A Study In The New Imperialism:

Mackinnon and East Africa 1878-1895 John S. Galbraith, 2008-12-18 In the 1870s Britain dominated the coast of east Africa by informal influence exerted from Zanzibar through the renowned consul general Sir John Kirk This unchallenged position ended with the decision of Bismarck to back Carl Peters in his treaty making activities and the mainland opposite Zanzibar was partitioned in 1886 into British and German spheres The British government was not willing to assume the responsibility and expense involved in administration of its area of influence and it assigned control to the Imperial British East Africa Company headed by William Mackinnon The company's life was short and inglorious The government attributed its failure to the ineffectuality of Mackinnon and the Company's directors blamed the government for using the Company to advance political objects and not providing it with proper support Professor Galbraith's book considers this episode in British Imperial History the factors involved and Mackinnon's part in it The book considers the interaction of Mackinnon and the government from the 1870s when his first efforts in east Africa were frustrated by Salisbury to the liquidation of the Company in the mid 1890s

The Tentacles of Progress Daniel R. Headrick, 1988-03-10 This penetrating examination of a paradox of colonial rule shows how the massive transfers of technology including equipment techniques and experts from the European imperial powers to their colonies in Asia and Africa resulted not in industrialization but in underdevelopment Examining the most important technologies shipping and railways telegraphs and wireless urban water supply and sewage disposal economic botany and plantation agriculture irrigation and mining and metallurgy Headrick provides a new perspective on colonial economic history and reopens the debate on the roots of Asian and African underdevelopment The Routledge History of Terrorism Randall D. Law, 2015-03-27 Though the history of terrorism stretches back to the ancient world today it is often understood as a recent development Comprehensive enough to serve as a survey for students or newcomers to the field yet with enough depth to engage the specialist The Routledge History of Terrorism is the first single volume authoritative reference text to place terrorism firmly into its historical context Terrorism is a transnational phenomenon with a convoluted history that defies easy periodization and narrative treatment Over the course of 32 chapters experts in the field analyze its historical significance and explore how and why terrorism emerged as a set of distinct strategies tactics and mindsets across time and space Chapters address not only familiar topics such as the Northern Irish Troubles the Palestine Liberation Organization international terrorism and the rise of al Qaeda but also lesser explored issues such as American racial terrorism state terror and terrorism in the Middle Ages tyrannicide from Ancient Greece and Rome to the seventeenth century the roots of Islamist violence the urban guerrilla terrorism and state terror in Latin America literary treatments of terrorism With an introduction by the editor explaining the book's rationale and organization as well as a guide to the definition of terrorism an historiographical chapter analysing the historical approach to terrorism studies and an eight chapter section that explores critical themes in the history of terrorism this book is essential reading for all those interested in the past present and future of terrorism Politics and Christianity in Malawi, 1875-1940 John McCracken, 2008 First published in 1977 and now in its third edition this book has been recognised as one of the most successful studies to be made of the impact of a Christian mission in Africa Starting with a survey of the economy and society of Malawi in the mid nineteenth century the book goes on to examine the home background to the Livingstonia Mission of the Free Church of Scotland and the influence of David Livingstone upon it It then describes the failure of commerce and Christianity around the south end of Lake Malawi and the subsequent positive response which the mission evoked among the people of Northern Malawi African responses and the relationship between Christianity and politics dominate the second half of the book Comprehensive reassessments are made of the origins of the Watch Tower movement the growth of Christian independence and the character of interpolitical associations This revised edition includes a new introduction and up dated bibliography and some revised text Politics and Christianity in Malawi 1875 - 1940 Juliet Clough McCracken, 2025-05-11 Since its first publication in 1977 Politics and Christianity in Malawi has been recognised as one of the most successful studies to be made of the impact of a Christian mission in Africa Starting with a survey of the economy of Malawi in the mid nineteenth century the book goes on to examine the home background of the Livingstonia Mission of the Free Church of Scotland and the influence of David Livingstone upon it It then describes the failure of Christianity and Commerce around the South end of

Lake Malawi and the subsequent positive response which the mission evoked among the peoples of northern Malawi The function and character of the Overtoun Institution possibly the most influential mission in South Central Africa is described in detail as is the mission's economic and educational impact African responses and the relationship between Christianity and Politics dominate the second half of the book Comprehensive reassessments are made of the origins of the Watch Tower Movement the growth of Christian independency and the character of inter war political associations The reprint of the 2000 edition is published in recognition of the 150th anniversary of the establishment of Livingstonia Mission a model not easily surpassed of mission history which is also genuinely social history drawing together a network of very varied themes Adrian Hastings It has become the basic scholarly book for Malawian Church History Klaus Fiedler a book of great interest rich with insights which illuminate the activities of the missionaries and the reactions of African Christians a major work of fundamental importance to Africanists Richard Gray Imperial Powers and Humanitarian Interventions Raphaël

Cheriau, 2021-05-03 In the second half of the nineteenth century the Zanzibar Sultanate became the focal point of European imperial and humanitarian policies most notably Britain France and Germany In fact the Sultanate was one of the few places in the world where humanitarianism and imperialism met in the most obvious fashion This crucial encounter was perfectly embodied by the iconic meeting of Dr Livingstone and Henry Morton Stanley in 1871 This book challenges the common presumption that those humanitarian concerns only served to conceal vile colonial interests It brings the repression of the East African slave trade at sea and the expansion of empires into a new light in comparing French and British archives for the first time Raphaël Cheriau argues that the brutal power politics of recent humanitarian interventions have shaped historians' perspectives on earlier interventions but that he is able to escape these present day sensibilities in his approach to British and French interventions in nineteenth century eastern Africa While I might challenge that suggestion nonetheless he offers historians a valuable book that explores in detail the way imperialists of the nineteenth century did and did not use humanitarianism as a justification for their work in eastern Africa Elisabeth MacMahon The English Historical Review The author weaves together a rich trove of primary documents from both British and French archives some of these have been fruitfully exploited by previous historians others reflect Cheriau's energetic digging to go beyond the obvious He also draws upon an equally dense corpus of published primary sources in both languages as well as several contemporary newspapers while his mastery of the secondary literature is impressive Edward Alpers Australian Institute of International Affairs

Freedom Burning Richard Huzzey, 2012-08-22 After Britain abolished slavery throughout most of its empire in 1834 Victorians adopted a creed of anti slavery as a vital part of their national identity and sense of moral superiority to other civilizations The British government used diplomacy pressure and violence to suppress the slave trade while the Royal Navy enforced abolition worldwide and an anxious public debated the true responsibilities of an anti slavery nation This crusade was far from altruistic or compassionate but Richard Huzzey argues that it forged national debates and political culture long after the famous abolitionist campaigns of William Wilberforce and Thomas Clarkson had faded into memory These anti slavery passions shaped racist and imperialist prejudices new forms of coerced labor and the expansion of colonial possessions In a sweeping narrative that spans the globe Freedom Burning explores the intersection of philanthropic imperial and economic interests that underlay Britain s anti slavery zeal from London to Liberia the Sudan to South Africa Canada to the Caribbean and the British East India Company to the Confederate States of America Through careful attention to popular culture official records and private papers Huzzey rewrites the history of the British Empire and a century long effort to end the global trade in human lives Politics Of British Foreign Policy In The Era Of Disraeli And Marvin Swartz,1985-05-07 A History of the Church in Africa Bengt Sundkler,Christopher Steed,2000-05-04 Bengt Sundkler s long awaited book on African Christian churches will become the standard reference for the subject Scotland and the British Empire John M.
