lighting in nature was much more intense than that of his contemporaries In his words Skills come and go art is always the same a transposition of nature that requires as much determination as sensibility I strive and struggle against the sun I might as well paint it with gold and precious stones A beautiful display of Impressionist work Great Masters Monet explores the extraordinary paintings of one of the Masters of the 19th century Monet s rapid brushstroke style in landscapes and scenes from everyday life illustrates his overall fascination with light and colour Claude Monet Nathalia Brodskaya,2011-07-01

For Claude Monet the designation impressionist always remained a source of pride In spite of all the things critics have written about his work Monet continued to be a true impressionist to the end of his very long life He was so by deep conviction and for his Impressionism he may have sacrificed many other opportunities that his enormous talent held out to him Monet did not paint classical compositions with figures and he did not become a portraitist although his professional training included those skills He chose a single genre for himself landscape painting and in that he achieved a degree of perfection none of his contemporaries managed to attain Yet the little boy began by drawing caricatures Boudin advised Monet to stop doing caricatures and to take up landscapes instead The sea the sky animals people and trees are beautiful in the exact state in which nature created them surrounded by air and light Indeed it was Boudin who passed on to Monet his conviction of the importance of working in the open air which Monet would in turn transmit to his impressionist friends Monet did not want to enrol at the Ecole des Beaux Arts He chose to attend a private school L Acad mie Suisse established by an ex model on the Quai d Orf vres near the Pont Saint Michel One could draw and paint from a live model there for a modest fee This was where Monet met the future impressionist Camille Pissarro Later in Gleyre s studio Monet met Auguste Renoir Alfred Sisley and Fr d ric Bazille Monet considered it very important that Boudin be introduced to his new friends He also told his friends of another painter he had found in Normandy This was the remarkable Dutchman Jongkind His landscapes were saturated with colour and their sincerity at times even their na vet was combined with subtle observation of the Normandy shore s variable nature At this time Monet s landscapes were not yet characterized by great richness of colour Rather they recalled the tonalities of paintings by the Barbizon artists and Boudin s seascapes He composed a range of colour based on yellow brown or blue grey At the Third Impressionist Exhibition in 1877 Monet presented a series of paintings for the first time seven views of the Saint Lazare train station He selected them from among twelve he had painted at the station This motif in Monet s work is in line not only with Manet s Chemin de fer The Railway and with his own landscapes featuring trains and stations at Argenteuil but also with a trend that surfaced after the railways first began to appear In 1883 Monet had bought a house in the village of Giverny near the little town of Vernon At Giverny series painting became one of his chief working procedures Meadows became his permanent workplace When a journalist who had come from V theuil to interview Monet asked him where his studio was the painter answered My studio I ve never had a studio and I can t see why one would lock oneself up in a room To draw yes to paint no Then broadly gesturing towards the Seine the hills and the silhouette of the little town he declared 'There's my real studio.' Monet began to go to London in the last decade of the nineteenth century. He began all his London paintings working directly from nature but completed many of them afterwards at Giverny. The series formed an indivisible whole and the painter had to work on all his canvases at one time. A friend of Monet's, the writer Octave Mirbeau wrote that he had accomplished a miracle. With the help of colours he had succeeded in recreating on the canvas something almost impossible to capture: he was reproducing sunlight, enriching it with an infinite number of reflections. Alone among the impressionists, Claude Monet took an almost scientific study of the possibilities of colour to its limits; it is unlikely that one could have gone any further in that direction.
