

The background of the slide is a reproduction of a painting by J.M.W. Turner titled 'Rain, Steam, and Great Bridge'. It depicts a steam locomotive crossing the Maidenhead Railway Bridge over the River Thames. The scene is characterized by soft, atmospheric conditions of rain and steam, with lily pads floating in the water in the foreground. The painting is executed in a style with visible brushstrokes and a rich, somewhat muted color palette.

Willows Kenneth Grahame, 2009 Kenneth Grahame's classic comes alive in a gorgeous annotated homage to this beloved masterpiece. An instant bestseller on its initial publication in 1908, The Wind in the Willows has become one of the greatest books in children's literature. Hundreds of illustrations, including famous images by E.H. Shepherd and Arthur Rackham, illuminate the adventures of Mole, Mr. Toad, Badger, Otter, River Rat, and all our other favorite characters. In addition to remarkable notes on automobiles, Toad drove an Armstrong; Hardcastle Special; Eight picnics; Gypsies' caravans; old English mansions; peculiar dukes; and even modern manifestations, Disney's Mr. Toad's Wild Ride, scholar Annie Gauger has uncovered extraordinary new material on Kenneth Grahame, his troubled family life, and the origins of the story. Her preface puts Grahame's work in historical and literary context, and she provides biographies of all the illustrators. With a stirring introduction by Brian Jacques, The Annotated Wind in the Willows promises to become the authoritative edition of this classic work, published just in time to honor the author's 150th birthday.

Colour: How We See It And How We Use It Michael Mark Woolfson, 2016-07-08 Colour makes our lives more interesting; how dull it would be in a black and white world. It pleases us aesthetically, entertains us, and is useful to us. This unique book aims to describe the scientific nature of colour and light, and how we see it, in an accessible and easily understandable style. The evolution of the eye, science of colour, and technical visual systems are all broken down into readable chapters with clear images and illustrations provided for reference. The book then goes on to discuss the innate tendency of humankind to produce artistic works, as conceived, realised, and augmented through the use of colour. Focussing on broad forms of artistic entertainment, painting with pigments and dyes, colour and light in photography and cinematography, light displays, and colour in television, this book then delivers a comprehensive review of what colour means and has meant in the creative arts.

Critical Readings in Impressionism and Post-Impressionism Mary Tompkins Lewis, 2023-12-22 The essays in this wide-ranging, beautifully illustrated volume capture the theoretical range and scholarly rigor of recent criticism that has fundamentally transformed the study of French Impressionist and Post-Impressionist art. Readers are invited to consider the profound issues and penetrating questions that lie beneath this perennially popular body of work, as the contributors examine the art world of late nineteenth-century France, including detailed looks at Monet, Manet, Pissarro, Degas, Cézanne, Morisot, Seurat, Van Gogh, and Gauguin. The authors offer fascinating new perspectives, placing the artworks from this period in wider social and historical contexts. They explore these painters' pictorial and market strategies, the critical reception, and modern criteria, the paintings engendered, and the movement's historic role in the formation of an avant-garde tradition. Their research reflects the wealth of new documents, critical approaches, and scholarly exhibitions that have fundamentally altered our understanding of Impressionism and Post-Impressionism. These essays, several of which have previously been familiar only to scholars, provide instructive models of in-depth critical analysis and of the competing art-historical methods that have crucially reshaped the field. Contributors: Carol Armstrong, T.J. Clark, Stephen F. Eisenman, Tamar Garb, Nicholas Green, Robert L. Herbert, John House, Mary Tompkins Lewis.

Late Style and its Discontents Gordon McMullan, Sam Smiles, 2016-09-01 Late style is a critical term routinely deployed to characterise the work of selected authors composers and creative artists as they enter their last phase of production often but not only in old age Taken at face value this terminology merely points to a chronological division in the artist s oeuvre late being the antonym of early or the third term in the triad early middle late However almost from its inception the idea of late style or late work has been freighted with aesthetic associations and expectations that promote it as a special episode in the artist s creative life Late style is often characterised as the imaginative response made by exceptional talents to the imminence of their death In their confrontation with death creative artists critics claim produce work that is by turns a determination to continue while strength remains a summation of their life s work and a radical vision of the essence of their craft And because this creative phenomenon is understood as primarily an existential response to a common fate so late style is understood as something that transcends the particularities of place time and medium Critics seeking to understand late work regularly invoke the examples of Titian Goethe and Beethoven as exemplars of what constitutes late work proposing that something unites the late style of authors composers and creative artists who otherwise would not be bracketed together and that lateness per se is a special order of creative work The essays in this collection resist this position Ranging across literature the visual arts music and scientific work the material assembled here looks closely at the material biographical and other contexts in which the work was produced and seeks both to question the assumptions surrounding late style and to prompt a more critical understanding of the last works of writers artists and composers
