Patronage Behavior and Retail Management William R. Darden, Robert F. Lusch, 1983 Includes bibliographical references and index New Perspectives on Retailing and Store Patronage Behavior Torben Hansen, Hans Stubbe

Solgaard, 2006-04-18 Retailing and consumer patronage behavior constitute fascinating research areas within the field of marketing. Retailing contributes to an increasing proportion of gross national products and employment but is however also faced with problems and opportunities like increased product complexity, rapidly changing consumer expectations and the introduction of new technologies. Also consumers are facing markets of increasingly complexity when making decisions on how to conduct their behavior primarily as a result of new technologies, shorter products life cycles in general and higher complexity of products and services. In this book we present and deal with various topics in relation to retailing and consumer patronage behavior. Together these topics involve different problem settings and draw on different theories, models and statistical techniques. However, it is common to all the results presented in the following chapters with the exception of chapter II that they in total or in part rest on a major survey which was conducted by the authors in 1999. Our now retired colleague Hans Engström participated in preparing this survey and did a great job in providing research ideas. For this and for many stimulating discussions we are highly grateful. Proceedings of the 1997 World Marketing Congress

Woodside, 2012-06-25

Market Driven Thinking provides a useful mental model and tools for learning about how executives and customers think within marketplace contexts. When the need to learn about how executives and customer think is recognized, a solution is usually implemented automatically with no thought given to the relative worth of alternative methods to learn, fill the need.

Thus the dominant logics most often implemented methods to learn about thinking are written surveys and focus group interviews two research methods that almost always fail to provide valid and useful answers on how and why executives and customers think the way they do Through descriptive research MDT examines the actual thinking and actions by executives and customers related to making marketplace decisions The book aims to achieve three objectives Increase the reader's knowledge of the unconscious and conscious thinking processes of participants marketplace contexts Provide research tools useful for revealing the unconscious and conscious thinking processes of executives and customers Provide in depth examples of these research tools in both business to business and business to consumer contexts This book asks how we actually go about thinking examining this process and its influences within the context of B2B and B2C marketplaces in developed nations
