Paupers and Pig Killers William Holland, Jack Ayres, 1986-01-01 Paupers and Pig Killers William Holland, 2003-02 On 3rd September 1770 the Revd William Holland took possession of the Vicarage and Parish church of Overstowey in Somerset. He kept a diary throughout his tenancy in which he recorded the comings and goings of village life. The people of the time are brought vividly to life such as Revd Holland's servant Charles who might still have retained his employees' favour after being caught with the parlourmaid had he not compounded his mischief by sodomizing the sheep. The Country Parson Leslie J. Francis, 1989 An Everyday Life of the English Working Class Carolyn Steedman, 2013-12-05 Unique and fascinating account of English working class life at the turn of the nineteenth century by celebrated historian Carolyn Steedman.

Belonging in Europe - The African Diaspora and Work Caroline Bressey, Hakim Adi, 2013-09-13 This publication does not just mark the presence of black people in Europe but brings research to a new stage by making connections across Europe through the experience of work and labour. The working experience for black peoples in Europe was not just confined to ports and large urban areas; often the place black people are located in the imagination of the European map both today and historically. Work took place in small towns, villages and on country estates. Until the 1800s enslaved Africans would have worked alongside free blacks and their white peers. How were these labour relations realised, be it on a country estate or a town house? How did this experience translate into the labour movements of the twentieth century? These are some of the questions the essays in this collection address, contributing to new understandings of European life both historically and today. This book was originally published as a special issue of Immigrants and Minorities. Sleep in Early Modern England Sasha Handley, 2016-08-15 A riveting look at how the early modern world revolutionized sleep and its relation to body, mind, soul and society. Drawing on diverse archival sources and material artifacts, Handley reveals that the way we sleep is as dependent on culture as it is on biological and environmental factors. After 1660 the accepted notion that sleepers lay at the mercy of natural forces and supernatural agents was challenged by new medical thinking about sleep's relationship to the nervous system. This breakthrough coincided with radical changes shaping everything from sleeping hours to bedchambers. Handley's illuminating work documents a major evolution in our conscious understanding of the unconscious.

McAleer portrays these as essential to the understanding of the Company as an agent of globalisation in the early modern world. Children of Uncertain Fortune Daniel Livesay, 2018-01-11 By tracing the largely forgotten eighteenth century migration of elite mixed race individuals from Jamaica to Great Britain, Children of Uncertain Fortune reinterprets the evolution of British racial ideologies as a matter of negotiating family membership.
