Children at Risk Robert T. Ammerman, Michel Hersen, 2013-03-09 During the past decade a dramatic increase in research and clinical interest has risen in child abuse and neglect This recent growth in awareness is due at least partly to the alarming statistics documenting the incidence of child maltreatment Almost one million children are reported to be abused and neglected each year and many experts believe that this figure underestimates the true incidence Indeed recent surveys suggest that almost 15 million children are the targets of domestic violence every year A significant proportion of these children die as a function of this maltreatment whereas the remainder suffer a variety of short and long term deleterious medical and psychosocial consequences Child maltreatment is a universal problem that has precipitated a mobilization of effort from a variety of disciplines including psychology medicine psychiatry social work sociology and criminology Particular attention has been directed toward the prevention and treatment of child abuse and neglect Such endeavors require the screening of large groups in order to identify families that are at high risk for engaging in such behavior Delineating those characteristics that differentiate high from low risk families and children is one of the obvious priorities for researchers and clinicians in the future This book therefore carefully considers the status of research on risk factors of abuse and neglect in children Adduced data undoubtedly will have practical value for subsequent intervention efforts

Rapoport, 2022-02-23 Originally published in 1978 Working Couples deals with husbands and wives who both hold paid jobs The editors the late Robert N and Rhona Rapoport had established themselves as well respected authorities on dual career families and in this study they call upon other specialists in the field to apply their research experience to the consideration of the particular problems confronting working couples at the time They discuss how some of these issues had arisen and analyse how they were being dealt with in a number of contexts Working couples at the time were subject to constraints of various kinds in meeting the challenges they faced and there were many who rejected the lifestyle on these grounds but there were many others for whom it worked Numerous families were attempting to operate the pattern in new ways Both may have separate jobs and her income may not only be separate from his but in some cases larger and more reliable Such a situation creates its own problems which need to be resolved The authors look at and clarify some of the generic issues and discover which resolutions have been satisfactory as well as the various devices created for helping dual worker families to function

Children's Mental Health United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families,1987 The Color of Welfare Jill

Quadagno,1996-04-11 Thirty years after Lyndon Johnson declared a War on Poverty the United States still lags behind most Western democracies in national welfare systems lacking such basic programs as national health insurance and child care support Some critics have explained the failure of social programs by citing our tradition of individual freedom and libertarian values while others point to weaknesses within the working class In The Color of Welfare Jill Quadagno takes exception to these claims placing race at the center of the American Dilemma as Swedish economist Gunnar Myrdal did half a century ago The American creed of liberty justice and equality clashed with a history of active racial discrimination says Quadagno It is racism that has undermined the War on Poverty and America must come to terms with this history if there is to be any hope of addressing welfare reform today From Reconstruction to Lyndon Johnson and beyond Quadagno reveals how American social policy has continually foundered on issues of race Drawing on extensive primary research Quadagno shows for instance how Roosevelt in need of support from southern congressmen excluded African Americans from the core programs of the Social Security Act Turning to Lyndon Johnson's unconditional war on poverty she contends that though anti poverty programs for job training community action health care housing and education have accomplished much they have not been fully realized because they became inextricably intertwined with the civil rights movement of the 1960s which triggered a white backlash Job training programs for instance became affirmative action programs programs to improve housing became programs to integrate housing programs that began as community action to upgrade the quality of life in the cities were taken over by local civil rights groups This shift of emphasis eventually alienated white working class Americans who had some of the same needs for health care subsidized housing and job training opportunities but who got very little from these programs At the same time affirmative action clashed openly with organized labor and equal housing raised protests from the white suburban middle class who didn't want their neighborhoods integrated Quadagno shows that Nixon who initially supported many of Johnson's programs eventually caught on that the white middle class was disenchanted He realized that his grand plan for welfare reform the Family Assistance Plan threatened to undermine wages in the South and alienate the Republican party's new constituency white southern Democrats and therefore dropped it In the 1960s the United States embarked on a journey to resolve the American dilemma Yet instead of finally instituting full democratic rights for all its citizens the policies enacted in that turbulent decade failed dismally The Color of Welfare reveals the root cause of this failure the inability to address racial inequality

The Cultural Nature of Human Development Barbara Rogoff, 2003-02-13

Three year old Kwara ae children in Oceania act as caregivers of their younger siblings but in the UK it is an offense to leave a child under age 14 ears without adult supervision In the Efe community in Zaire infants routinely use machetes with safety and some skill although U S middle class adults often do not trust young children with knives What explains these marked differences in the capabilities of these children Until recently traditional understandings of human development held that a child's development is universal and that children have characteristics and skills that develop independently of cultural processes Barbara Rogoff argues however that human development must be understood as a cultural process not simply a biological or psychological one Individuals develop as members of a community and their development can only be fully understood by examining the practices and circumstances of their communities
