Raising Young Children in an Alaskan Inupiaq Village Julie E. Sprott,2002-12-30 A comprehensive case study portrait of the childrearing context of a predominantly Eskimo village in the remote Northwest Arctic designed to look for evidence of reinvention transformation or conscious choice as process features of change in the mix of traditional childrearing beliefs and practices with infusions from the dominant culture The rearing environment and child well being were studied during 18 months of anthropological fieldwork in an Alaskan Inupiaq village in the Northwest Arctic. Volunteers for the sample consisted of 44 adults from 16 extended families who were raising a child between the ages of three and six years. Results from guided interviews, card sorts, standardized family and home assessments, and review of the children's medical records revealed a complex portrait of culture continuity and change and included the following trends: many traditions had been retained even though villagers perceived few differences in their rearing style compared to that of mainstream culture; despite the presence of other households with extended family members in the village and touting of the value of kinship, 25% of core families reared their children in relative isolation; growth measurements, immunization status, and general health of the children were good but children evidenced diets high in sugar and many suffered severe dental problems; present day caregivers were engaged in dialogue about problem parenting behaviors that had developed a generation earlier during a time of massive acculturation stress and population growth, namely the overuse of scolding of children without attached explanations and overt favoring of specific children over others in the family. The study presents present day rearing strategies and ideas as summarized from interviews and data from more formal instruments and frames changes in the system within the broader historical social context.

Raise a Smarter Child by Kindergarten David Perlmutter, M.D., Carol Colman, 2008-03-11. Nature didn't finish your child's brain at birth. It's up to you to maximize your child's mental skills without causing additional stress. Acclaimed neurologist and bestselling author of Grain Brain, David Perlmutter MD offers these valuable tools: Simple games to reinforce memory pathways in the brain; Information on common household products and children's toys that contain brain-damaging neurotoxins; The right foods and supplements to boost intelligence and turn on your child's smart genes; How to turn the television, the computer, and video games into educational tools; Proven ways to reduce the risk of your child developing ADD and ADHD; Between birth and age five, your child has up to thirty IQ points at stake. Scientists now know that the human brain is undergoing a constant and dramatic transformation in the first years of life. During this peak time of development, every activity and experience leaves an indelible mark on your baby's brain, for better or worse. The right kind of stimulation and nutrition will create connections in the brain that promote intelligence and raise IQ. The wrong kinds of activities and foods can stifle intellectual development, destroy brain cells, and leave your child more vulnerable to learning or behavior problems down the road. So what can you do during the first five years to ensure that your child is primed to excel? The good news is that raising a smarter child is easier than you think. It doesn't require making an investment in expensive equipment or high-priced tutors. It's as simple as playing the right games, serving the right foods, and maintaining a brain-enhancing environment in your home by eliminating common household toxins. In Raise a Smarter Child by Kindergarten by Dr. David Perlmutter, you'll learn easy and highly effective strategies that can vastly improve your child's brain power and reduce his or her chances of developing ADD and ADHD. For example, you can Stimulate Memory: Changing a component on the over-the-crib mobile every week makes the baby compare what was there before to what's there now reinforcing memory pathways in the brain that are critical for learning Spread out those shots Schedule more frequent trips to the pediatrician for vaccinations so that fewer shots are administered at once Flooding the immune system with a cocktail of different vaccines can damage the nervous system Get rid of toxins Protecting a child from neurotoxins found in foods toys and even baby bottles can help preserve precious IQ points Inside Dr Perlmutter provides a scientifically backed food and supplement plan for children and nursing mothers and details the many brain building activities that you can do with your child In addition he reveals the numerous toys and household products that contain harmful brain damaging toxins and shows how to identify and combat common childhood problems like ADD and food allergies that may affect your child's development Your job over the first five years is to help your child build the best brain possible With Dr Perlmutter's help you can mine the countless opportunities you have each day to make your child smarter happier and better prepared to excel
