Culotta, 2020-06-22 In Tracing the Visual Language of Raphael's Circle to 1527 Alexis Culotta examines how the Renaissance master's style one infused with borrowed visual quotations from other artists both past and present proved influential in his relationship with associate Baldassare Peruzzi and in the development of the artists within his thriving workshop Shedding new light on the important yet often overshadowed figures within this network this book calls upon key case studies to convincingly illustrate how this visual language and its recombination evolved during Raphael's Roman career and subsequently served as a springboard for artistic innovation for these close associates as they collaborated in the years following Raphael's death

Art Market and Connoisseurship Anna Tummers, Koenraad Jonckheere, 2008 The question of whether seventeenth century painters such as Rembrandt and Rubens were exclusively responsible for the paintings later sold under their names has caused many a heated debate Despite the rise of scholarship on the history of the art market much is still unknown about the ways in which paintings were produced assessed priced and marketed during this period which leads to several provocative questions did contemporary connoisseurs expect masters such as Rembrandt to paint works entirely by their own hand Who was credited with the ability to assess paintings as genuine The contributors to this engaging collection Eric Jan Sluijter Hans Van Miegroet and Neil De Marchi among them trace these issues through the booming art market of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries arriving at fascinating and occasionally unexpected conclusions Making Copies in European Art 1400-1600, 2018-11-26 Making Copies in European Art 1400 1600 comprises sixteen essays that explore the form and function manner and meaning of copies after Renaissance works of art The authors construe copying as a method of exchange based in the theory and practice of imitation and they investigate the artistic techniques that enabled and facilitated the production of copies They also ask what patrons and collectors wanted from a copy which characteristics of an artwork were considered copyable and where and how copies were stored studied displayed and circulated Making Copies in European Art in addition to studying many unfamiliar pictures incorporates previously unpublished documentary materials

The Viewer and the Printed Image in Late Medieval Europe David S. Areford, 2017-07-05 Structured around in depth and interconnected case studies and driven by a methodology of material contextual and iconographic analysis this book argues that early European single sheet prints in both the north and south are best understood as highly accessible objects shaped and framed by individual viewers Author David Areford offers a synthetic historical narrative of early prints that stresses their unusual material nature as well as their accessibility to a variety of viewers both lay and monastic This volume represents a shift in the study of the early printed image one that mirrors the widespread movement in art history away from issues of production style and the artist toward issues of reception function and the viewer Areford's approach is intensely grounded in the object especially the unacknowledged material complexity of the print as a portable malleable and accessible image that depended on a response that was not only visual but often physical emotional and psychological Recognizing that early prints were not primarily designed for aesthetic appreciation the author analyzes how their meanings stemmed from specific functions involving private devotion protection indulgences the cult of saints pilgrimage exorcism the art of memory and anti Semitic propaganda Although the medium's first century was clearly transitional and experimental Areford explores how its potential to impact viewers in new ways both positive and negative was quickly realized Faking It!, 2022-12-28 Faking It collects eleven chapters which explore the question of forgery from different disciplinary angles literary historical and art historical contributions share space with discussions of jewels architecture and coinage The various case studies take as their focus developments in Renaissance Italy and early modern England as well as in France Germany Malta Denmark Sweden Iceland Russia and Australia While each chapter contributes to a better understanding of the local context of cultural production together they suggest new answers to how we can understand forgery The concept of performance allows us to see beyond normative approaches and gain insight into some of the ambiguities concerning the nature of forgery Contributors to this volume Brian J Boeck Federica Boldrini Patricia Pires Boulhosa Laurent Currelly Helen Hughes Jacqueline Hylkema Philip Lavender Lorenzo Paoli Ingrid Rowland Camilla Russo and Ksenija Tschetschik Hammerl Far From the Truth Michiel van Groesen, Johannes Müller, 2023-12-28 Information and knowledge were essential tools of early modern Europe's global ambitions. This volume addresses a key concern that emerged as the competition for geopolitical influence increased: how could information from afar be trusted when there was no obvious strategy for verification? How did notions of doubt develop in relation to intercultural encounters? Who were those in the position to use misinformation in their favour and how did this affect trust? How, in other words, did distance affect credibility and which intellectual and epistemological strategies did early modern Europe devise to cope with this problem? The movement of information and its transformations in the process of gathering, ordering, and disseminating makes it necessary to employ both a global and a local perspective in order to understand its significance. The rise of print, leading to various new forms of mediation, played a crucial role everywhere, inspiring theories of modernization in which media served as agents of new connections and eventually of globalization. Paradoxically, during the entire period between 1500 and 1800, the demise of distance through various strategies of verification coincided with constructions of otherness that emphasized the cultural and geographical difference between Europe and the worlds it encountered. Ten leading scholars of the early modern world address the relationship between distance, information, and credibility from a variety of perspectives. This volume will be an essential companion to those interested in the history of knowledge and early modern encounters, as well as specialists in the history of empire and print culture. Space, Image, and Reform in Early Modern Art Arthur J. DiFuria, Ian Verstegen, 2021-11-08 The essays in Space, Image, and Reform in Early Modern Art build on Marcia Hall's seminal contributions in several categories crucial for Renaissance studies, especially the spatiality of the church interior, the altarpiece's facture and affectivity, the notion of artistic style, and the controversy over images in the era of Counter-Reform. Accruing the advantage of critical engagement with a single paradigm, this volume better assesses its applicability and range. The book works cumulatively to provide blocks of theoretical and empirical research on issues spanning the function and role of images in their contexts over two centuries.
