Review of Maritime Transport 2004 United Nations,2005-11-18 Review of Maritime Transport United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. Secretariat,2006 Shipping and Logistics Management Yuen Ha (Venus) Lun,Kee Hung Lai,Tai Chiu Edwin Cheng,2010-04-07 Shipping and Logistics Management serves to consolidate the knowledge its authors have acquired from being educators and observers of the shipping industry Against the background of a global business environment it explains how the shipping market functions examining the strategic and operational issues that affect entrepreneurs in this industry The authors discuss global trends and strategies in the shipping business looking at the role of logistics service providers and at how the use of information technology can help shipping operations Shipping and Logistics Management also aims to answer several important questions in the shipping industry including what are the shipping cost structures what are the patterns of sea transport and how do companies in the shipping industry operate An invaluable source of information for researchers and advanced or graduate students Shipping and Logistics Management is also a useful reference for shipping practitioners and consultants Social Dialogue in the Process of Structural

Adjustment and Private Sector Participation in Ports Peter J. Turnbull,2006 Social dialogue describes a cooperative approach to labour relations that includes features such as information exchange consultation and negotiation This manual provides guidance on managing and facilitating these processes in the world's ports targeting particularly those who are involved in or are currently planning major programs of structural adjustment and private sector participation It is divided into two parts Part 1 focuses on the importance of social dialogue during periods of structural adjustment and the fact that it is an ongoing process Part 2 examines the different phases planning initiating implementing monitoring and evaluation and the activities associated with each phase Trade Facilitation and Regional Cooperation in Asia Douglas H. Brooks,Susan F. Stone,2010-01-01 This book is an important contribution to the policy debate on the future of regional integration around the world and in Asia in particular The complex linkages between regional integration and regional cooperation soft and hard integration trade facilitation and regional infrastructure are all addressed competently in different chapters of this publication which should be read by all of those concerned with the future of regional integration and cooperation in Asia

Antoni Estevadeordal Inter American Development Bank IDB As we emerge from the worst global economic setback in two generations the momentum of Asian economies suggests that this region will redefine the geography of trade and growth even more quickly and decisively than expected Because Asia offers the largest emerging markets superior growth rates and new patterns of trade diversification this region is becoming the leading edge of the global economy for the next generation This volume addresses the essential issues related to Asian trade and regionalism with intellectual authority and essential timeliness Brooks and Stone have assembled leading experts distilled evidence and synthesized policy lessons on the salient issues and trends that will drive the world's most dynamic economic region Their book should be a desk reference for policy makers and leading private sector players who want to respond effectively to the momentous challenges and opportunities presented by the Asian century David Roland Holst University of California Berkeley US This insightful book collects empirical analyses and case studies to clarify issues and draw policy recommendations for facilitating greater regional trade through increased cooperation Asia's rapid development has been heavily dependent on markets external to the region However given the unlikely timely recovery of the United States or Europe there is an urgent need to develop domestic and regional markets While greater integration has long been a regional goal its importance has never been more pressing To facilitate trade and promote growth and regional integration and to counteract declining markets in other regions Asian countries have announced large expenditures for developing infrastructure Thus a look at how investment in regional infrastructure promotes and supports interregional trade growth has never been timelier While the focus is on informing policy making in Asia the findings also have relevance for other regions The detailed studies in this book will be of particular interest to academic economists policy makers and the broader development community

State Responsibility for Interferences with the Freedom of Navigation in Public International Law Philipp Wendel, 2007-09-19 Conventions covering the law of the sea contain provisions on compensation for wrongful interferences with navigation though they are rarely applied This book analyses all relevant compensation provisions and compares them to the general law of state responsibility The author discusses such issues as the responsibility of international organizations liability for lawful conduct and several and joint liability in public international law

Spatial Analysis and Modeling in Geographical Transformation Process Yuji Murayama, Rajesh Bahadur Thapa, 2011-02-26 Currently spatial analysis is becoming more important than ever because enormous volumes of spatial data are available from different sources such as GPS Remote Sensing and others This book deals with spatial analysis and modelling It provides a comprehensive discussion of spatial analysis methods and approaches related to human settlements and associated environment Key contributions with empirical case studies from Iran Philippines Vietnam Thailand Nepal and Japan that apply spatial analysis including autocorrelation fuzzy voronoi cellular automata analytic hierarchy process artificial neural network spatial metrics spatial statistics regression and remote sensing mapping techniques are compiled comprehensively The core value of this book is a wide variety of results with state of the art discussion including empirical case studies It provides a milestone reference to students researchers planners and other practitioners dealing the spatial problems on urban and regional issues We are pleased to announce that this book has been presented with the 2011 publishing award from the GIS Association of Japan We would like to congratulate the authors

Competitiveness of South Asia's Container Ports Matías Herrera Dappe, Ancor Suárez-Alemán, 2016-06-28 South Asia's trade almost doubled in the past decade but the share of trade in GDP is still smaller 47 percent than in East Asia 55 percent and South Asia's economic competitiveness continues to lag that of other regions Part of the problem is the region's container ports As a result of inefficiencies the average cost of exporting or importing a container in the region is more than twice what it is in East Asia Better port logistics could help increase trade diversify exports attract more foreign direct investment and spur economic growth As container traffic continues to grow and physical expansion is constrained by the limited supply of available land at most ports the best way to improve port performance is by increasing productivity To identify strategies for doing so this report examines the performance of the 14 largest container ports in the region based on two sets of criteria operational performance and economic performance To measure operational performance the report benchmarks total time at port waiting time at port and idle time as a share of total time at berth To measure economic performance it benchmarks productivity and efficiency using two useful techniques Malmquist total factor productivity decomposition and data envelopment analysis The report identifies key drivers of port performance and examines how differences in performance across ports are related to those drivers This analysis is based on an original dataset on private sector participation governance and competition in South Asia's container port sector To highlight the potential gains from improving performance of container ports the report uses econometric techniques to isolate the impact of efficiency improvements on maritime transport costs and trade The results suggest that the best strategy for improving port performance in the region is a three pronged approach that a encourages private sector participation through a well developed enabling environment including further adoption of the landlord port model b strengthens the governance of port authorities boards and c promotes competition between and within ports in part through transparent and competitive concession bidding
