Interrogation: World War II, Vietnam, and Iraq James A. Stone, David P. Shoemaker, Nicholas R. Dotti, 2010-03-09 In September 2004 the Intelligence Science Board an advisory board appointed by the Director of National Intelligence initiated the Study on Educating Information EI This study is an ongoing effort to review what is known scientifically about interrogation and other forms of human intelligence collection and to chart a path to the future As part of our efforts we have worked closely with faculty and students of the National Defense Intelligence College The NDIC Press published Educating Information Interrogation Science and Art Foundations for the Future a book based on Phase I of the Study on EI Three students Special Agent James Stone U S Air Force Special Agent David Shoemaker U S Air Force and Major Nicholas Dotti U S Army completed master s thesis studies during Academic Year 2006 07 on topics related to interrogation Special Agent Stone researched U S efforts during World War II to develop language and interrogation capacities to deal with our Japanese enemy He found that military leaders often working with civilian counterparts created and implemented successful strategies building on cultural and linguistic skills that substantially aided the war effort for the U S and its Allies Special Agent Shoemaker studied the experiences of three successful interrogators during the Vietnam War Like Stone Shoemaker highlights the importance of a deep understanding of the language psychology and culture of adversaries and potential allies in other countries Major Dotti examined recent policy and practice with regard to tactical and field interrogations especially with regard to the efforts of Special Forces soldiers in Iraq He concludes that the letter of current doctrine contradicts its intent Major Dotti offers recommendations that he believes are both consistent with the intent of military doctrine and likely to increase the effectiveness of U S interrogation practices in the field P v
