School Finance And School Improvement Linkages For The 1980s

Allan Odden, Carolyn Kelley

School Finance And School Improvement Linkages For The 1980s:

School Finance and School Improvement Allan Odden, L. Dean Webb, 1983 State Programs of School Improvement Allan Odden, Van Dougherty, 1983 Selected Papers in School Finance , Study of Academic Instruction for Disadvantaged Students: Commissioned papers and literature review Michael Sturgis Knapp, Patrick M. Shields, 1990 Study of Academic Instruction for Disadvantaged Students: Commissioned papers and literature review Brenda J. Turnbull, 1990 Better schooling for the children of poverty : alternatives to conventional wisdom Study of Academic Instruction for Disadvantaged Students (U.S.), Michael Sturgis Knapp, Brenda J. Turnbull, 1990

Better Schooling for the Children of Poverty: Commissioned papers and literature review Study of Academic Instruction for Disadvantaged Students (U.S.), 1990 The Money Myth W. Norton Grubb, 2009-01-15 Can money buy high quality education Studies find only a weak relationship between public school funding and educational outcomes In The Money Myth W Norton Grubb proposes a powerful paradigm shift in the way we think about why some schools thrive and others fail The greatest inequalities in America s schools lie in factors other than fiscal support Fundamental differences in resources other than money for example in leadership instruction and tracking policies explain the deepening divide in the success of our nation s schoolchildren The Money Myth establishes several principles for a bold new approach to education reform Drawing on a national longitudinal dataset collected over twelve years Grubb makes a crucial distinction between simple resources and those compound complex and abstract resources that cannot be readily bought Money can buy simple resources such as higher teacher salaries and smaller class sizes but these resources are actually some of the weakest predictors of educational outcomes On the other hand complex resources pertaining to school practices are astonishingly strong predictors of success Grubb finds that tracking policies have the most profound and consistent impact on student outcomes over time Schools often relegate low performing students particularly minorities to vocational remedial and special education tracks So even in well funded schools resources may never reach the students who need them most Grubb also finds that innovation in the classroom has a critical impact on student success Here too America s schools are stratified Teachers in underperforming schools tend to devote significant amounts of time to administration and discipline while instructors in highly ranked schools dedicate the bulk of their time to engaged learning using varied pedagogical approaches Effective schools distribute leadership among many instructors and administrators and they foster a sense of both trust and accountability These schools have a clear mission and coherent agenda for reaching goals Underperforming schools by contrast implement a variety of fragmented reforms and practices without developing a unified plan This phenomenon is perhaps most powerfully visible in the negative repercussions of No Child Left Behind In a frantic attempt to meet federal standards and raise test scores quickly more and more schools are turning to scripted off the shelf curricula These practices discourage student engagement suppress teacher creativity and hold little promise of improving learning beyond the most basic skills Grubb shows that infusions of money alone won't eradicate inequality in America's schools. We need to address the vast differences in the way school communities operate. By looking beyond school finance, The Money Myth gets to the core reasons why education in America is so unequal and provides clear recommendations for addressing this chronic national problem. Redesigning American Education James Coleman, 2018-03-08 Drawing on several principles of sociological theory, James S. Coleman and his colleagues construct a new design for American schooling. The authors present compelling evidence on the deficits of our educational system compared to other countries, arguing that the problems are the result of inappropriate incentives for teachers, students, and parents. Paying Teachers for What They Know and Do Allan Odden, Carolyn Kelley, 2002 Updated Edition of Best Seller Odden and Kelley demonstrate in this edition of Paying Teachers for What They Know and Do why they are the primary source for reliable information dealing with teacher compensation. Bob Chase, President, National Education Association Every community developing a strategy to improve schools will want to use this book as a guide. It tells you everything you want to know about new teacher compensation strategies that affect all aspects of teaching and learning. Yvonne Chan, Principal, Vaughn Next Century Learning Center, San Fernando, CA The second edition of Paying Teachers for What They Know and Do advances the ongoing discussion of how to create compensation systems that reward teachers for developing the skills and knowledge needed to deliver standards-based instruction. As Odden and Kelley write, "We are still at the beginning of the learning curve in understanding which systems are viable and effective and therefore should monitor the development of new teacher compensation systems carefully." Sandra Feldman, President, American Federation of Teachers The demand for more innovative, more competitive, and more motivating compensation plans for teachers is growing every day, and now Allan Odden and Carolyn Kelley have updated their classic book on teacher compensation to give district and site-based administrators all the new information and insight they need to start moving in the right direction. The second edition of Paying Teachers for What They Know and Do describes various pay and compensation initiatives currently in use across the country, including signing bonuses, upgrades in teacher pensions, higher salaries to those who are willing to work in more challenging schools, and other approaches. It also explores the different types of compensation plans used in the private sector as well as systems based on the continued acquisition of skills, knowledge, and experience. Then Odden and Kelley take the next step and describe exactly how these plans can be applied successfully in districts of any size. Topics include: The current status of teacher compensation; Three approaches to compensating teachers; The relationship between pay and motivation; Knowledge-based and skills-based pay; Group-based performance awards; Gain sharing programs; Ways to design and implement alternative teacher compensation. This valuable book also provides vital information on how these programs can be funded and how school districts can design effective compensation programs that answer the needs of their existing teacher base. An essential tool for administrators at every level who want and need to keep the very best teachers and pay them what they're worth. School Finance Austin D. Swanson, Richard Adams King, Richard Auld King, 1991

Restructuring Schools W. Lowe Boyd, 2005-08-17 Education reform has become part of a political imperative in a number of developed countries around the world The simultaneous movement to reform schooling and the administrative structures which deliver educational services therefore needs to be studied in order to lay bare its fundamental assumptions This movement has been labelled restructuring and reform although the words carry different meanings in different countries The authors question why this reconstruction occurred at the same time in different places What common themes are emerging in the restructuring movement And in the 1990s where will the movement lead schooling and what essential changes will it effect They explore these questions by examining developments in the USA Canada the UK Australia New Zealand and Japan

Rethinking Leadership Thomas J. Sergiovanni, 2007 In this updated collection of revolutionary articles Sergiovanni encourages school leaders to discover the craft of moral leadership practice effective instructional leadership and build strong learning communities

Assessing Teacher, Classroom, and School Effects Allan Odden, 2014-04-04 This is Volume 79 Issue 4 2004 of the Peabody Journal of Education and this special issue provides a collection of works on the topic of Assessing Teacher Classroom and School Effects in the US The six articles focus generally on new directions in assessing and measuring teacher classroom and school effects on improvements in student academic achievement and more specifically analyze the criterion validity and surrounding human resources strategies of new efforts to implement performance based teacher evaluations the results of which in some cases are linked to new knowledge and skills based teacher salary schedules

Education Finance in the States, 1984 Allan Odden, 1984

K-12 Education Finance Anthony Rolle, 2024-02-02 Education finance researchers tend to organize their thoughts on important issues by considering one of the four foundational perspectives equity efficiency liberty and adequacy The six essays presented in this special edition of the Peabody Journal of Education base their work within the context of the four pillars and present new directions for future research While some of the articles isolate a concept for closer scrutiny others draw attention to more interactive aspects of the pillars in question Each article leaves the reader with important information and insightful questions about both the usage and efficacy of education finance policies

Boyd, William T. Hartman, 1998-05-26 Resource allocation decisions made by school boards principals and teachers are critical for they determine the adequacy and equity of resources actually made available for specific schools educational programs and individual students The most important resources are often concealed by aggregate state or district measures such as dollars per student For these decisions the most important resources are elements such as basic and supplemental staffing levels staff time funding amounts for textbooks and supplies selection of new equipment particularly technology and support for new or renovated facilities The authors review current practices at each important decision making level in school districts from the school board to the classroom At each juncture the findings are interpreted to reveal both the causes of the practices and their implications for improving school effectiveness This book provides new research in helping to inform and improve resource allocation practices in schools The general conclusion is that improvement in the resource allocation practices in education requires a shift in focus to results instead of inputs a strong emphasis on student learning as the primary focus of decisions and systematic evaluation of results
