Food, Masculinities, and Home Michelle Szabo, Shelley Koch, 2017-05-18 Long held associations between women home food and cooking are beginning to unravel as in a growing number of households men are taking on food and cooking responsibilities At the same time men s public foodwork continues to gain attention in the media and popular culture The first of its kind Food Masculinities and Home focuses specifically on food in relation to how homemaking practices shape masculine identities and transform meanings of home The international multidisciplinary contributors explore questions including how food practices shape masculinity and notions of home and vice versa the extent to which this gender shift challenges existing gender hierarchies and how masculinities are being reshaped by the growing presence of men in kitchens and food focused spaces With ever growing interest in both food and gender studies this is a must read for students and researchers in food studies gender studies cultural studies sociology geography anthropology and related fields Unpalatable Carrie Helms

Tippen, 2025-01-15 The cookbook genre is highly conventional with an orientation toward celebration and success From glossy photographs to heartwarming stories and adjective rich ingredient lists the cookbook tradition primes readers for pleasure Yet the overarching narrative of the region is often one of pain loss privation exploitation poverty and suffering of various kinds While some cookbook writers go to great lengths to avoid reminding readers of this painful past others invoke that pain as a marker of southern authenticity Still others use stories of southern suffering as an opportunity to make space for reconciliation reparation or apology for past wrongs In Unpalatable Stories of Pain and Pleasure in Southern Cookbooks author Carrie Helms Tippen attempts to understand the unique rhetorical situation of the southern cookbook as it negotiates a tension between the expectations of the genre and the prevailing metanarratives of the southern experience one focused on pleasure and the other rooted in pain Through an analysis of commercially published southern cookbooks from the 1990s to the present Tippen examines the range of rhetorical purposes and strategies writers have employed some of which undermine the reality of a painful past and cause harm or violence and others which serve as tools for truth and reconciliation

Expo Sixty Seven Rhona Richman Kenneally, Johanne Sloan, 2010-01-01 Expo 67 the world's fair held in Montreal during the summer of 1967 brought architecture art design and technology together into a glittering modern package Heralding the ideal city of the future to its visitors the Expo site was perceived by critics as a laboratory for urban and architectural design as well as for cultural exchange intended to enhance global understanding and international cooperation This collection of essays brings new critical perspectives to Expo 67 an event that left behind a significant material and imaginative legacy The contributors to this volume reflect a variety of interdisciplinary approaches and address Expo 67 across a broad spectrum ranging from architecture and film to more ephemeral markers such as postcards menus pavilion displays or the uniforms of the hostesses employed on the site Collectively the essays explore issues of nationalism the interplay of tradition and modernity twentieth century discourse about urban experience and the enduring impact of Expo 67's technological experimentation Expo 67 Not Just a Souvenir is a compelling examination of a world's fair that had a profound impact locally nationally and internationally

Writing in the Kitchen David A. Davis, Tara Powell, 2014-08-04 Scarlett O'Hara munched on a radish and vowed never to go hungry again Vardaman Bundren ate bananas in Faulkner's Jefferson and the Invisible Man dined on a sweet potato in Harlem Although food and stories may be two of the most prominent cultural products associated with the South the connections between them have not been thoroughly explored until now Southern food has become the subject of increasingly self-conscious intellectual consideration The Southern Foodways Alliance the Southern Food and Beverage Museum food-themed issues of Oxford American and Southern Cultures and a spate of new scholarly and popular books demonstrate this interest Writing in the Kitchen explores the relationship between food and literature and makes a major contribution to the study of both southern literature and of southern foodways and culture more widely This collection examines food writing in a range of literary expressions including cookbooks agricultural journals novels stories and poems Contributors interpret how authors use food to explore the changing South considering the ways race ethnicity class gender and region affect how and what people eat They describe foods from specific southern places such as New Orleans and Appalachia engage both the historical and contemporary South and study the food traditions of ethnicities as they manifest through the written word

Communicating Food to Children Daniela Cesiri, 2025-09-29 This book offers a systematic account of communication on food aimed at children investigating verbal and visual strategies used in food media in English from synchronic and diachronic perspectives While there is a wide body of research on food discourse there has been little to date on children as a particular category of actors within food related communication Cesiri integrates work from corpus linguistics genre analysis and multimodality to analyze verbal and visual components in media that transmit specialist knowledge and familiarize children with foundational food concepts the extra linguistic factors that shape food related communication and the ways in which different genres represent culinary traditions to children The volume features an extensive corpus of technical products such as cookbooks commercial products such as advertisements and institutional products such as leaflets from international institutions In applying a multi layered perspective to a diverse range of food related communication materials Cesiri seeks to unpack whether potential differences in communicative strategies can be attributed to the source culture of interactants or those shared by a specific community of actors and in turn further insights into the nature of domain specific discourse This volume will appeal to scholars in discourse analysis multimodality corpus linguistics and childhood studies

Cattle Country Kathryn Cornell Dolan, 2021-06 As beef and cattle production progressed in nineteenth century America the cow emerged as the nation's representative food animal and earned a culturally prominent role in the literature of the day In Cattle Country Kathryn Cornell Dolan examines the role cattle played in narratives throughout the century to show how the struggles within U S food culture mapped onto society's broader struggles with colonization environmentalism U S identity ethnicity and industrialization Dolan examines diverse texts from Native American African American Mexican American and white authors that showcase the zeitgeist of anxiety surrounding U S identity as cattle gradually became an industrialized food source altering the country's culture while exacting a high cost to humans animals and the land From Henry David Thoreau's descriptions of indigenous cuisines as a challenge to the rising monoculture to Washington Irving's travel narratives that foreshadow cattle replacing American bison in the West to Mar a Amparo Ruiz de Burton's use of cattle to connect race and imperialism in her work authors' preoccupations with cattle underscored their concern for resource depletion habitat destruction and the wasteful overproduction of a single breed of livestock Cattle Country offers a window into the ways authors worked to negotiate the consequences of the development of this food culture and by excavating the history of U S settler colonialism through the figure of cattle sheds new ecocritical light on nineteenth century literature

Chop Suey, USA Yong Chen, 2014-10-28 American diners began flocking to Chinese restaurants more than a century ago making Chinese cuisine the first mass consumed food in the United States By 1980 it had become the country's most popular ethnic cuisine Chop Suey USA is the first comprehensive analysis of the forces that made Chinese food ubiquitous in the American gastronomic landscape and turned the country into an empire of consumption Chinese food's transpacific migration and commercial success is both an epic story of global cultural exchange and a history of the socioeconomic political and cultural developments that shaped the American appetite for fast food and cheap labor in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Americans fell in love with Chinese food not because of its gastronomic excellence They chose quick and simple dishes like chop suey over China's haute cuisine and the affordability of such Chinese food democratized the once exclusive dining out experience for underprivileged groups such as marginalized Anglos African Americans and Jews The mass production of food in Chinese restaurants also extended the role of Chinese Americans as a virtual service labor force and marked the racialized division of the American population into laborers and consumers The rise of Chinese food was also a result of the ingenuity of Chinese American restaurant workers who developed the concept of the open kitchen and popularized the practice of home delivery They effectively streamlined certain Chinese dishes turning them into nationally recognized brand names including chop suey the Big Mac of the pre McDonald's era Those who engineered the epic tale of Chinese food were a politically disfranchised numerically small and economically exploited group embodying a classic American story of immigrant entrepreneurship and perseverance
