The Institution as Impresario

BY KILLIAN BRIDGES

Some of the most powerful and influential figures in the world of the arts are not artists, writers, or composers, but impresarios. They are the men and women who have shaped the careers of the great artists of the 20th century, and who have been instrumental in the development of the arts as a whole. They are the men and women who have been the driving force behind the most important cultural institutions of the world, and who have been the most powerful and influential figures in the world of the arts.

The breathtaking achievement of the past has largely been replaced by audience-hungry commercial theater.

The impresario is a man of many talents. He is a man of vision, a man of action, a man of power. He is a man who has the ability to see the potential of an idea, and to bring it to life. He is a man who has the ability to attract the best talent, and to create a world of his own. He is a man who has the ability to create a legacy, and to leave a mark on the world.
